HIGHWAY COMMISSIONERS MAY RESIGN!

Jazz Girl's Life Story Revealed By Father!

PARENT TELLS DAUGHTER'S WAYWARD ACTIONS

Dorothy Hangs Head In Shame As She Hears Misconduct Charges

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The story of the wayward life of Dorothy Ellingson, 16-year-old matricide, beginning at the age of 12, together with the pre-natal influences which are alleged to have affected her mental make-up, were wrung from the unwilling lips of her father, Joseph Ellingson, on the witness stand today. His answers were short and given in a low voice.

Dorothy for the first time betrayed interest in a witness. She watched her father closely and listened to his replies intently, hanging her head from time to time as he related instances of misconduct.

Her nervousness returned and at this point a brief court recess was taken. Dorothy was visibly shaken, but managed to walk from the courtroom. In the hallway she supported herself by leaning against the wall.

Joseph Ellingson, father of Dorothy, after taking the stand, plunged at once into the pre-natal influences which are alleged to have caused the youthful defendant to be of unstable mentality.

"I awoke one night about three months before Dorothy's birth to find the hands of my wife about my throat. When I removed them she fainted and I had to work with her for some time to bring her to. She was in a sick and nervous state for some time thereafter."

Warns Daughter

This occurred in Minneapolis. Ellingson told of the family removing to Boise City, Idaho, then to Portland, Ore., and thence to San Francisco. The family then went to Los Angeles and later returned to San Francisco.

The father told of establishment of the home on Third avenue and of his separation from his wife.

He said he saw Dorothy shortly after his separation and warned her against late hours and associates.

"I asked her many times if she was behaving, staying home with her mother and obeying her," he said in a broken voice.

Wayward Actions

The father said at the age of 12 she left home at Alameda, came to San Francisco, "picked up with a sailor" and remained away from home all night, sleeping in a box car. He related a later instance in which he said his daughter had "picked up with some girls and boys" and remained away from home over night, sleeping in the park.

Dorothy, he said, was irregular in her attendance at school.

The father's testimony was given with evident reluctance. He spoke in a low tone and had to be pressed to give details of her alleged wayward conduct.

He testified that an aunt died with tuberculosis and counsel for the state objected strenuously. During the clash of counsel and the heated discussion of heredity, Dorothy's nervousness became heightened and the police matron moved closer to her side.

The father was permitted to testify that Dorothy had always been a child larger than others of her age.

He said he and his wife had attended no church after their marriage. The court sustained objections to this line of questioning, saying it tended to open too wide a field.

Dorothy was never baptized, he said, and attended Sunday school infrequently.

He said he was of Nordic ancestry and Mrs. Ellingson was also of that extraction.

He was asked if he was addicted to the use of alcoholic liquors before Dorothy's birth, and in a low voice he said:

"I used it pretty heavy at that time."

He described Dorothy's alleged fits of temper during which she bit her finger nails.

Light Meters Show 10,000 More People

An increase in Glendale's population of nearly 10,000 during the past year is indicated by an increase of 2417 municipal light meters during that period, according to a report today by J. F. McIntyre, commercial agent of the public service department.

At the close of business on March 31 there were 14,860 light meters. The population is estimated conservatively by multiplying that figure by four. By that method Glendale today has a population of 59,440. Some statisticians multiply the number of meters by 4½ to obtain the approximate population, according to McIntyre, which would give the city a considerable increase over that figure.

A year ago there were 12,443 light meters, indicating a population at that time of 49,772.

Water meters in service at the close of business March 31 totaled 10,995 as against 9702 a year ago, according to McIntyre's figures.

SHEPHERD HAS BAIL DENIED BY COURT

Suspect in McClintock Death To Face Trial Next Week For Murder

CHICAGO, April 2.—William D. Shepherd today was again denied his freedom on bonds, pending his trial on an indictment charging murder for the death of William Nelson McClintock, and the date of his trial was set for one week from today.

The action was taken in the briefest of all the often-adjourned hearings on the defense motion for bonds.

The court brushed aside the new affidavits, filed by the defense yesterday, as not pertinent to the case, ruled that the defense might call Mrs. Anna Koch, mother of Earl Clark, former salesman for Dr. Charles C. Faiman's National University of Science, provided they wished the state to call Clark, and when Shepherd's attorney's decided to forego placing Mrs. Koch on the stand, denied the motion for bail and set the trial date.

Fly in Ointment

Hardly fifteen minutes were required for the entire proceedings.

It was Mrs. Koch on whom Attorney William S. Stewart, chief of Shepherd's counsel, had relied principally to produce the fireworks which he had predicted would "blow the state's case out of the water."

It was she who, according to Stewart, declared her son had told her that Faiman's confession in which he said he had given Shepherd typhoid germs to inoculate young McClintock, was "a tissue of lies." It was she also who is said to have told the defense that her son confessed to her that he had used pressure on Faiman to force him to "confess right" and implicate Shepherd.

Clark Feared

These statements, published yesterday, brought from the state an offer to put Clark on the stand to refute his mother's testimony.

"She misunderstood," was the state's explanation and the defense evidently feared the effect of what Clark's new testimony might be, for they wavered but a minute when the court ruled that his appearance on the stand must be a condition to the calling of Mrs. Koch.

Realtors Wait Resignation of Commissioner

LOS ANGELES, April 2—State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser may resign from his present office, according to reports in circulation here today. Keiser was quoted as saying that he had not resigned as yet, but admitted he had received several attractive offers to enter the real estate business on a large scale.

'28 OLYMPICS HINTED FOR L. A. STAGE

More Than Outside Chance Given City Of Angels For World Event

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 2.—More than an outside chance existed today that the Olympic games of 1928 would come to America and that Los Angeles would be the honored city. That much was admitted by A. A. U. officials who, however, amplified their remarks on the subject by declaring that Amstredam, Holland, the original awardee, would be given every chance to prove that they can take their Olympics or leave them alone.

The Dutch, thus far, have been very caustic about the proposition, in fact, have been pleased to indicate that they regard the proposed Olympic appropriation of one million florins as very important money.

Their idea of foot racing is that it is something you do with the treadle of a sewing machine.

Meeting Called

A meeting of the Olympic committee has been called two weeks hence to consider the situation in detail and perhaps offer the Dutch some free and highly-inexpensive advice.

In some quarters it is felt that Amsterdam is playing the game along the lines followed by the French last year when they threatened to let the games go by default in order to acceferate national patriotism and individual contributions.

Los Angeles indicated its readiness to take over the proposition while that crisis was on but what its attitude toward the present situation may be, nobody seems to

LOCAL WOMAN IN ESTATE CONTEST

Resident of Glendale Is Making Claim to Be Dead Man's Widow

HANFORD, Calif. April 2.—Efforts to find a will believed to have been left by William H. Mouthrop, city trustee, were being made today by Fred Chilton, his brother-in-law.

In the meantime, Mrs. J. L. Mouthrop, who claims to be his legal widow, had returned to Glendale with her son and daughter after attending his funeral. Mrs. Mouthrop, No. 2, who for the past four years has believed herself the legal wife of Mouthrop was in a state of collapse.

The first Mrs. Mouthrop said she had filed a bill for divorce in Colorado, but that it had never been carried through.

Mouthrop is reported to have had a $7,000 life insurance policy naming his second wife as beneficiary. He also owned a printing business here.

Attorneys were reported to have been retained by both women forecasting a contest for his estate.

Mrs. J. L. Mouthrop mentioned in the above dispatch resides at 831 East Colorado boulevard.

Former U. S. Solicitor Pleads In Oil Scandal

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Indicted with Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, on charges of conspiracy to obtain government oil and gas permits in Montana, Edwin Booth, formerly soilcitor of the interior department, today entered a plea of not guilty in criminal court here. He gave $1000 bond for his appearance at the trial.

Italy Gets Six World Records For Aviation

PARIS, April 2.—The International Aeronautical Federation awarded to Italy today six world records for weight-carrying by airplanes and seaplanes, formerly held by Lieutenants McReady, Henderson, Stanley, Harrison and Holland, of the United States.

GEORGE SEAL DENIES 'ATTACK ON INDUSTRY

Candidate for City Council Attempting To Find Party Responsible for Use Of His Name Against Factory

Demanding "justice" from the Glendale City Council "or the person responsible" for linking his name with a "movement to put one of Glendale's leading industries out of business," George Seal, candidate for City Council, today presented an affidavit to the council in which he declared he knew nothing of the contents of a "petition presented last Tuesday, asking the abatement of a "nuisance" at the plant of the Los Angeles Basket Co. factory.

The petition last Tuesday signed by thirteen residents of the district, was tabled after City Manager V. B. Stone had reported that an investigation showed that there was no nuisance at the factory. Noise from one of the exhausts, after it had been tampered with by some one, caused a short disturbance, he told the council. It was immediately repaired.

Demands "Guilty Party"

"If the word didn't come from the City Council that I was leading a movement to try to put out of business one of Glendale's industries, then I want to know who is the responsible party," Seal heatedly declared. "I'll settle with him."

A report of the incident last Tuesday, published in a Glendale newspaper, not The Glendale Evening News, accused him of having been active in circulating the petition, Seal told the council.

"As a result of that story, my chances for election to the City Council have decreased about 50 per cent," he added. "I think I am entitled to some justice in the matter, and I intend to see that I get it."

Acted as Messenger

"The council was led to believe that you had something to do with it, because of the fact that it was you who gave it to the city clerk," Mayor Spencer Robinson explained.

Seal interjected:

"Yes, I gave it to the city clerk. I got the communication from L. L. Baker of Tropico. It was raining and he didn't want to make the trip to the city hall. I did not open the envelope in which the petition was contained, and even now I am not acquainted with its wording. I acted merely as a messenger between Baker and the city hall."

The affidavit was filed. Elsewhere in this issue of The Glendale Evening News appears a paid advertisement from Mr. Seal in which he makes his explanation of the matter.

Petition Sent Back

Voicing the prediction that construction of three-inch macadam streets will be stopped in the near future, and that no paving on which heavy traffic cannot be permitted will be approved by the city, a petition to improve Davis avenue from Glenoaks avenue to San Fernando road was referred to the property owners for reconsideration.

Despite the fact that the petition bore the names of 100 per cent of the property owners along the street affected, Councilman S. S. Gilhuly declared that the city should "change its rules at once and permit no paving con-

ROTARY MEMBERS NAME CANDIDATES

Nominations Made Today Of Officers For Coming Year at Meeting

Paul Stillman and George Bentley were nominated as candidates for president of the Rotary club for the coming year at the meeting held today. Arthur Hutchinson and John Cate were nominated as candidates for secretary. Willis Lusby and A. R. Eastman were nominated as candidates for treasurer, and the following were nominated as candidates for directors: Richardson D. White, Ed Nisle, Clark Dilley, P. L. Hatch, William Tanner and J. E. Newton.

The annual election will be held four weeks from today. The meeting today was held at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, with President J. Herbert Smith presiding. Tellers in the nomination contest were C. A. Redmond, William Howe and William Kirkman.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds was the principal speaker at the meeting. He stressed the need of honest connections in business life today and particularly in political fields. The moral conditions of today need watching closer, the speaker said.

President Smith announced the Burbank Rotary club would celebrate Charter night on Tuesday at the Women's club, Seventh and Olive streets, Burbank. John Cate reported on tennis activities. George Bentley told of the golf match planned with the Lions club. Owen Emery outlined plans for the club participating in the Eisteddfod.

Two New Members

Herman Psenner and John Fanset were welcomed as new members of the club. President Smith called attention to the week's issue of the "Rotoservice," edited by Gil Cowan of The Evening News staff, and spoke of it as the best bulletin issued in some time.

Visiting Rotarians present were Arthur Loomis, J. A. Nichell, Richard Tobin and Al Smith, all of Los Angeles; W. R. Johnson of Casper, Wyo.; Joseph V. Hilger of Columbia, Ind., Joseph P. Allyn of Delevan, Wis., Ben Barnard of Mitchell, S. D., and Frank McIntosh of Franklin, Pa.

LATEST NEWS

DOLLAR LINE BID IS MENACED

WASHINGTON, April 2.—An unsuccessful move was made in the shipping board today to postpone execution of the sale of five "president" type steamers on the Pacific coast to the Dollar Lines Steamship Co. By a vote of 3 to 2, the board refused to delay the deal until a ruling on its legality was handed down by the department of justice.

COUNTERFEIT DEN RAIDED IN CANADA

MONTREAL, April 2.—Counterfeit money totaling $150,000 and paper trimmed to make $500,000 worth more was seized today by northwest mounted police in a raid on a farmhouse three miles beyond L'Assompton, in Girard parish. The men arrested are: Joseph Beaudoin, 60, a farmer, his five sons and Denis Viger of Montreal.

SUSPECTS TAKEN AFTER TWO-YEAR HUNT

BOISE, Idaho, April 2.—A man-hunt which extended over a period of two years was at an end here today, following the arrest of Russell Smith, 21, and Mark Godfrey, 19, at the Lone Star ranch, a short distance from Caldwell, Idaho. Deputy Sheriff Smith of the Los Angeles sheriff's office traced the bandits to the Lone Star ranch, where they had been employed, and placed them under arrest. Smith and Godfrey are said to have been the leaders in the holdup of a Pasadena Short Line train near Valley Junction, Cal., on November 7, 1923. Smith and Godfrey are held in the Boise jail, awaiting extradition papers.

PERJURY HELD TO DUELL IN GISH TRIAL

Case Against Film Actress Dismissed; Disbarment Threatened Lawyer

By M. A. DAPARMA
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Questioning the sanity of Charles H. Duell, film producer, and holding him in $10,000 bail for perjury in testimony and affidavits, Federal Judge Mack today dismissed Duell's action against Lillian Gish, film star, to restrain her from acting under any management but his own.

In addition, Judge Mack said he would institute proceedings to have Duell, who is an attorney, disbarred from all state and federal courts.

"The only possible doubt the court ever entertained," said Judge Mack, "as to the wilfulness of the perjury was engendered yesterday by the utter recklessness and folly shown by Duell in endeavoring to make the court think that he, Duell, believed that any man could get away with an issue of falsehoods represented by his affidavits and testimony."

Lillian Pales

Duell sat pale and tense while Judge Mack spoke. Miss Gilsh paled as she heard the court's denunciation of the man who had said on the witness stand that he was at one time "unofficially engaged" to marry her. She was so weak at the conclusion of the hearing that she was helped from the room, leaning heavily on the arm of her lawyer.

Referring to Duell's testimony and statements in the courtroom, the day previous, Judge Mack said:

"It appeared to the court at that time that there was a question as to the mental condition of the witness."

In beginning his address, Judge Mack said:

Downright Perjury

"The plaintiff consents, after a conference, to the action that this court intends to take. The court finds that the contract has been breached both by the assignee and the assignor and further finds that the defendant, Lillian Gish, has been over-reached and that the confidence she imposed has been taken advantage of."

The court then touched on general phases of the action and said that in "only one other civil case" over which he had had jurisdiction had there been more "downright perjury committed than on the part of Charles H. Duell."

Duell, in addition to being a film producer has been a lawyer and the reference to disbarment had no bearing on his brother, Holland Duell, who acted as attorney for the plaintiff, Charles H. Duell.

English Vice-Admiral Succumbs In London

LONDON, April 2.—Vice-Admiral Sir Michael Culme Seymour died here today. He has been second sea lord and chief of naval personnel since last year. He was promoted from captain to rear-admiral in 1916 and to vice-admiral in 1920. He served in the battle of Jutland in 1916, the one big sea engagement of the war and was mentioned in dispatches.

Albanian Garibaldi Is Killed By Old Enemy

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 2.—Lieutenant E. H. Hale of the United States Marine corps, was killed this afternoon when a D.H. type plane crashed to the ground at Corry field from an altitude of 200 feet.

Local Drivers Tagged Minus 1925 Licenses

Nearly a dozen Glendale motorists have been tagged for failure to obtain their 1925 license plates during the past two days, and a number of others have been permitted to go after they had proved to the police that they had made application for the 1925 license before the last few weeks.

Police Judge F. H. Lowe today fixed $25 as the bail for drivers who refuse to sign a ticket to appear in court, although as yet all arrested persons have agreed to appear.

"We will accept no excuse from motorists who failed to make application until they read a recent story in the newspaper that they were liable to arrest," Chief of Police John D. Fraser said today. "There are a number of instances, however, where drivers have tried for several weeks to get their license plates without success, due to slight technicalities. If they can prove to use that such is the case, that is all that will be necessary."

RIVER TREATY URGED FOR PASSAGE

Senate Asked To Pass Bill Offered By Finney On Colorado Project

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—Adoption of the Finney resolution in the Assembly, ratifying, with reservation of Imperial valley's rights, the new six-state Colorado river pact, was asked of the Senate shortly before noon today.

Senator Chester M. Kline, San Jacinto, representing Riverside, Imperial and Orange counties, opened the argument for treaty with its protective clause. He pointed out that:

1—All senators and assemblymen from Imperial, Riverside and San Bernardino counties ask the Finney resolution be adopted.

2—Five other states have ratified it, and it is essential that California be the sixth signatory state at this time.

3—Federal construction of a storage dam at or near Boulder canyon is necessary, otherwise the lower basin states—Nevada, Arizona and California —only would receive their share of 7,500,000 acre feet of water during the flood season, much of which would go to waste in the Gulf of California.

Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena made the chief speech against the Finney resolution. He admitted being a land-owner in the Imperial valley on both sides of the international boundary, but disavowed any personal motive in opposing the building of a high dam or an all-American canal, the two reasons he said that were behind the Finney proposition.

Senator Johnson spoke for an hour, after which the Senate recessed until 2 o'clock, at which time the debate will be resumed.

LEADS AT GOLF

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—Macdonald Smith took a long lead in the north-and-south open golf tournament today when he played the third round in 70 and had a total of 208 strokes for the three rounds, nine better than Leo Diegel, who was next with 217.

New Move Is Expected to Get War Debt

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Definite indications were given this afternoon that the United States government shortly would renew determined efforts to collect the $7,000,000,000 war debt owed by foreibn nations.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, member of the World War debt commission, announced that a meeting of the commission has been called for this month and several sessions will be held before Congress returns.

GASOLINE TAX ROW CAUSES OFFICIALS TO SPLIT

Chairman Toy And Perhaps One Other Member May Offer Resignation

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Harvey M. Toy emphatically denied here this afternoon that he intended to resign as chairman of the California State Highway commission as rumored in Sacramento. "There is nothing whatever to the story," Toy said.

Commenting on the reported break between himself and Governor Richardson over the gas tax bill, Toy declared that "the governor and the highway commission are in absolute accord."

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—Unconfirmed reports were circulated in the capitol today that at least one and possibly two members of the State Highway commission will resign as a result of developments which took place in a conference with Governor Richardson yesterday. The conference terminated in the highway members announcing that they would not submit a budget, although earlier in the day budget information had been prepared for presentation to the Legislature.

Harvey M. Toy, of San Francisco, chairman of the state road body, and a staunch supporter of the increased tax, is said to have told Governor Richardson during yesterday's confab that "I want to resign right now." Toy is said to feel that the governor virtually sounded the death knell of the gas tax bill when he refused to agree to allocation of the funds.

Nelson T. Edwards, Orange county member, is also said to be dissatisfied with his job, his dissatisfaction dating back to the time when the highway committee of nine submitted its report.

Questioned concerning reports that Chairman Toy had split with Governor Richardson and declared his intention of quitting, the governor's secretary, Harry Lutgens said: "The governor has nothing whatever to say at this time."

The governor denied himself to interviewers.

May Force Action

With the highway financing program again converted into a hopeless tangle when hopes of a solution of the problem seemed brightest, proponents of the 3-cent gasoline tax and a plan for budgeting the State Highway commission today declared that members of the highway board would probably be subpoenaed and forced to give the budget information which they flatly refused to furnish voluntarily.

Backers of the plan to compel the highway commissioners to supply information on a tentative allocation of funds for road work during the coming two years declared that the commissioners had prepared the necessary data and were willing to submit it to the Senate prior to their conference with Governor Richardson late yesterday.

Issue Statement

In the conference at the executive office, the governor again stood firmly against supplying information on how it is proposed to spend the highway funds and the members of the road board issued from the conference room with the following statement, in lieu of the expected budget.

"The highway commissioners are separately and collectively out of sympathy with the movement to allocate to specific roads, definite amounts which would be raised by the proposed gas tax from May 1926 to and including May 1928."

Earlier in the day, Secretary W. F. Mixon of the commission, acting as spokesman, for the members, had declared that the road body would furnish a definite statement to allocation of funds according to routes. Mixon's statement said that the commissioners strongly favored the allocation by routes, but were opposed to division of the money according to units of routes.

UNDER ARREST

David Meadows, Glendale, was arrested by Hollywood police last night and returned to Glendale today on a warrant issued by Police Judge F. H. Lowe charging him with obtaining goods under false pretenses. Meadows is alleged to have purchased a suit of clothes from a local clothier on credit after misrepresenting himself.

Elbert Minkey, 2548 Marvin street, Los Angeles, was arrested this morning on a charge of transporting liquor. He was released on $75 bail.

GETS $250 FINE

B. W. Colburn, Glendale, was fined $250 for transporting liquor and $250 for possession after pleading guilty yesterday in Police Judge F. H. Lowe's court, and was ordered held in the county jail to work out the fine at the rate of $1 per day if he is unable to pay it. At noon today he was still in the Glendale city jail, while friends were attempting to raise the money. In the event of his transfer to the county jail the sentence amounts virtually to a year and a half.

HORSES PLAY BIG PART FOR CIRCUS

Al Barnes' Tent Show Here April 8, Features Golden Steeds

What would you do, if you saw a beautiful girl from the land of romance riding a golden horse?

Well, that is what you'll see when the Al G. Barnes Big Four Ring Circus comes to Glendale, Wednesday, April 8, with the "Equine Ballet" featuring one hundred dancing horses and one hundred women.

In the extravaganza which opens the big program, horses of pure, natural golden color ridden by girls of extraordinary beauty will dance before you. This is the dream that Al G. Barnes has brought to a wondrous reality—a dream of gathering together the one hundred most beautiful girls and horses in the world and presenting to the public an offering which would eclipse anything previously staged.

Only Part of Show

These splendid steeds, valued at $112,000, are only a part of the 550 trained horses of the show. More than 2000 educated wild animals, including Lotus, the largest and only performing blood-sweating hippopotamus on earth, will be seen when the big-top goes up.

You will also see more than a hundred "sunkist" bathing beauties of Southern California in the ballet and chorus of "Pocahontas at the Court of Queen Anne," the pageant that opens the program. Many of these pretty girls have played principal parts in the latest motion picture productions this year.

KITE CONTEST AT STRICKLAND HOME

Annual Event Being Staged Today By Members Of Kiwanis Club

Several members of the Glendale Kiwanis club assisted Rex Kelley, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and a member of the Kiwanis club, in staging the annual kite contest at the Strickland home this afternoon. Prizes donated by members of the club were awarded the winners, and club members acted as judges. The club members met at Hooper's Service station, Broadway and Louise street, at 1:30 o'clock and motored to the home.

The regular monthly business meeting of the club will be held tomorrow noon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, Secretary Burton McGinnis announces. President Frank Fox will preside. The attendance prize will be donated by W. L. Truitt. Next week will be a "father and son" meeting, it has been announced.

Speeds as high as forty-five miles a second are attained by meteors.

ATWATER MASONS TO BE HOSTS AT SMOKEER

Affair Will Be Held Tonight at Office Of Arthur M. Gilman Co.; Members Of All Lodges Are Invited

Open house for all Masons of the district will be kept by Atwater lodge tonight when that organization is host at a smoker at the office of Arthur M. Gilman Co., 3218 Glendale boulevard. Newton Van Why, past master of Unity lodge, Glendale, will be the principal speaker. He will be introduced by Fred S. Chapman, master of Atwater lodge, who will preside.

All Masons of the district irrespective of whether they are members of the local lodge or are affiliated elsewhere are invited to the smoker, Mr. Chapman said. The affair will commence at 7:30 o'clock.

Plan Church Basement

Addition of a basement, 40x80 feet, to be used for a banquet room and assemblage quarters is planned at the Neighborhood Christian church, 3852 Edenhurst avenue, according to an announcement by Rev. J. W. Utter today. At present the church is handicapped for lack of a basement or other convenient place for serving dinners or holding other activities of a social nature.

Rev. Utter expressed his willingness to permit the use of the basement as well as the upper church auditorium for school purposes in the event the Los Angeles school board sees fit to accept his offer. The quarters would accommodate at least the smaller children, Rev. Utter said, and could be used until such time as a new school plant between Glendale and Los Feliz boulevards could be built.

Anxious To Come Back

Frank D. Gilson takes The Glendale Evening News way back in Vermont, Ill. The other day he read in the Atwater column that an old friend, Clinton Dace, was to open a new barber shop in the Atwater district. Mr. Gilson, although he owns a large barber shop in the east, and has his established home there, with his wife and children, once spent the winter in Glendale, and has ever longed to come back. In a letter to Mr. Dace he tells of reading the story concerning his new business enterprise and asks if there is room for one more in the Atwater shop. If there is, Mr. Gilson says he is coming back to California and to the Glendale section for keeps.

Honor Pastor At Dinner

Many residents of the Atwater district attended a dinner in honor of Rev. C. L. Hudson, who completed pre-Easter services at the Neighborhood Christian church last Sunday night. The affair was held at the Christian church last night, when events of the Hudson campaign for larger church attendance were discussed and further plans for increasing the church membership were worked out. Basket dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock under the direction of women of the church.

Tableau Rehearsals Open

Members of the Women's Missionary society of the Neighborhood Christian church have commenced rehearsals for a Chinese tableau to be given on Sunday night, May 3. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, for many years missionaries in the Orient, will return to Atwater Park to assist in staging the tableau. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt were recently the guests of the Missionary society at the church. The play will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nee, Mrs. W. G. Thompson, president of the society, announced.

One hundred and fifty children, members of the Sunday school class at the Christian church, enjoyed a wienie bake in the Los Angeles river bed last Saturday night. The event was a reward for large Sunady school attendance. The children were promised by Rev. J. W. Utter, pastor, that when the attendance reached 125 the party would be given. On a recent Sunday there were 136 present.

Personals From District

Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Triebe, who recently purchased the residence of August T. Page, at 3740 Glenfeliz boulevard, moved into their new home yesterday. Mr. Triebe is head of the salvage department of the Veterans' Bureau in Los Angeles.

George Daniels, 3160 Atwater avenue, is recovering from the effects of two severe operations performed upon his left foot. Mr. Daniels is sergeant-at-arms of the Los Angeles City Council.

Jerry Lorton, 3506 Garden avenue, confined to his home recently after an operation on his foot, is recovering.

Dr. and Mrs. Ben L. Reece entertained at dinner at the Oakmont Country club last night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton S. Decker.

EVANGELIST TEXT BASED ON PRAYER

Rev. Bennard Tells Why Some Are Answered And Others Refused

Rev. George Bennard, evangelist, holding meetings at the Central Avenue Methodist church, preached Tuesday on "Prayer." He showed the great underlying principles of prayer and why it is that some people do not have their prayers answered while others do. He said:

"The first great fundamental in prayer is 'motive,' why do we pray? As James says, many pray and receive not, because they ask wrongly, that they may consume that which they would receive upon their own lusts. A right and unselfish motive must be present in the heart. There must also be uppermost in mind that which is in accord with the will of God.

"As Jesus prayed 'not my will but thine be done,' so we must ask in conformity with His will. Furthermore there is one and only one great name by which and through which we can expect to receive, that is the name of Jesus. He taught His disciples that whatever they asked in His name, that they should receive. And then the one who prays must be in earnest.

"Half hearted, indifferent praying accomplishes nothing. It is the effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man that avails much. All prayer to be effectual must be through the power of the Holy Spirit. He will teach men to pray and lead them in the things for which they should pray."

Services are held each night at 7:30 o'clock.

CHRYSLER ENGINE STANDS TO FRONT

Power, Flexibility, Economy Pointed To By Local Dealer Clark

The power, flexibility and economy of the engine of the new Good Maxwell, as designed by the Chrysler engineers, have proven the sensation of the four-cylinder field since the new models were introduced to the motoring public, according to Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chrysler dealers, but he claims that the reason for this sensation is to be found in work that has been done by the Chrysler organization on the car.

"The Maxwell has been completely re-designed and re-built, according to new plans," he says. The rear axle is different, the transmission has been improved, and the motor has been designed from start to finish in order to reach the Chrysler standards.

Economy Shown

"The economy of the Maxwell is shown in the fact that it delivers twenty-five miles to the gallon of gasoline; its pick-up from five to twenty-five miles an hour in eight seconds proves its flexibility; and the fact that it can maintain a fifty-eight-mile-an-hour clip for an unlimited period shows what power is contained in the motor.

"These accomplishments stand for every model in the new Max well line. The closed car, in spite of its additional weight, can meet these conditions just as easily as can the open models, and the same power and economy are manifest in every Maxwell that leaves the factory. The fact that the new Good Maxwell has swept the country as it has done is proof that the car is making good on the claims that are made for it, and further proof is furnished by the testimony of Maxwell owners themselves, who have shown by actual road tests over a long period that the Maxwell power plant is one of the most powerful installed in any car on the market today."

Humane Society Plans 'Kind To Animal Week'

Further plans for the local observance of "Be Kind to Animals Week," April 13 to 19, will be made tomorrow night at the meeting of Glendale Humane society at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce offices. E. W. Kulp, president, other officers, and special committees are formulating plans for the observance in Glendale.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, April 2.—The Shell Oil Co. has purchased the property belonging to A. L. Goldenberg on East Michigan avenue off Los Angeles avenue. An oil station will be established at this place as soon as the residence is moved to an adjoining lot. Mr. Goldenberg is also offering for sale his vegetable stand in the Michigan avenue store of the Sam Seelig Co., as his health no longer permits him operating the business.

Mrs. C. Mehard, postmistress of the La Crescenta postoffice, has sold her lease, stock and fixtures of the store building, Bide-A-Wee, to Mrs. R. Dabney and her sister, Mrs. M. Aberhouse, who are from St. Louise, Miss. They will continue the store and tea room under the old system and will also operate the postoffice during Mrs. Mehard's leave of absence.

Dr. Annis and Paul Rodet of Highway Highlands have bought the lease, stock and fixtures of the grocery store in the Highlands, where they will conduct a grocery and green goods market.

G. Hannigan and Roy Tate who are joint proprietors of the Highway Highlands garage, will move the oil stand from its present position at the grocery to be run in connection with the garage as the new grocers have discontinued the sale of gas and oil at the old stand.

A number of the La Crescenta upper grade children were excused from classes yesterday to attend the Glendale Day at the battleships in Los Angeles harbor. A. T. Blanford said the visit was an educational feature.

Owing to conflicting dates in the valley there will be no meeting of the P.-T. A. until after Easter, the reading circle will, however, continue to meet every Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Eloise Farmer throughout the month.

Books are being received at the La Crescenta branch of the Los Angeles county Free Library for the book week box, the contents of which will go to the sailors on outward-bound vessels. Books of all kinds, fiction and non-fiction, are solicited and magazines are not accepted. The library, at the corner of Los Angeles and Montrose avenues, is open Wednesday and Saturday nights from 7 to 8 o'clock and Friday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. Seventeen of the leading magazines are on the loan list and a good non-fiction reference shelf is at the disposal of the residents of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Van Duesen have returned from a short visit to San Diego. En route the Van Duesens stopped at Laguna where their summer home is.

Immense floodlights are to transform Niagara Falls into cascades of liquid color at night as a result of international co-operation between the United States and Canada.

OVERLAND HAS ALL-STEEL SEDAN

Addition Of This Model To Local Dealer's Stock Is Announced

Addition to the new all-steel sedan, recently announced here by Murray Motors, Inc., 905 South Brand, gives the Overland a complete line of all-steel bodies mounted on the famous triplex spring chassis. Touring car, coupe and sedan are now built entirely of steel, without wooden framework or joints.

This new development is the result of scientific and metallurgical experiments in the construction of all-steel bodies, in which the Willys-Overland, Budd Co. and steel industry engineers collaborated in an effort to improve conventional designs.

Today, engineers admit that the all-steel design is the nearest approach to perfection in a motor car body because of its greater strength, safety, endurance, proof against fire, economy and beauty.

Results Obtained

The all-steel construction on closed cars permits use of smaller posts between doors and at windshield corners. This minimizes traffic hazards and insures better vision to the driver besides adding to the graceful appearance of the car, they say. It also gives greater rigidity to the body, lessens body vibration and eliminates squeaks and rattles common in mortised wood joints.

Steel being impervious to fire, naturally this new construction reduces hazards from this source. Its greater strength is also an added safety factor against collision shocks that would destroy coach work of wood and steel combined. The lighter weight of the new design as compared to the composite body types has been found to render greater economies in gasoline and tires, the engineers report.

Glendale Pythians Put On Degree In Burbank

A large delegation from Glendale lodge No. 331, Knights of Pythias attended the meeting last night of Burbank lodge, Knights of Pythias. Chancellor Commander Sam E. Wright headed the delegation. Under the direction of the newly appointed master of works, Mr. Edwards, with a picked team from Glendale lodge, put on the rank of Knight degree. Two new names were added to Burbank's roster of members. Glendale lodge is recognized as having one of the best working degree teams in Southern California.

Preliminaries To Track Meet Set for Today

The preliminaries for the Central league track meet, scheduled for yesterday at Broadway field, were postponed when it was found the Alhambra tracksters could not be present. The preliminaries are being run off this afternoon at the field and the finals will be held Saturday afternoon. The Dynamiters have high hopes of copping the Central league pennant this season, which would give them three league pennants in track. The Class B and Class C teams won the league meets last week at Broadway field. Saturday's track carnival will start at 1:30 o'clock, when athletes from six schools will participate.

SALES RECORD IS MADE IN MARCH

Hupmobile Agencies Report Good Business During Preceding Month

"As conclusive proof that things are looking up in the automobile world, comes announcement of our sales record for March," said H. V. White, manager for the H. W. Swanson Co., Glendale, Hollywood and Pasadena Hupmobile dealers.

"March proved to be one of the best months from a sales standpoint in the history of our concern," Mr. White said. "Activity was greatly stimulated with the arrival of our new straight eight models, the wonder car of the year. As for April, it has already started off with a bang here in Glendale, and I was informed last night that continued activity is expected at our Pasadena and Hollywood branches also. Things are looking good in the automobile world."

J. BROCKMAN FUNERAL ON FRIDAY

Last Rites For Capitalist And Philanthropist To Be Held At Home

Funeral services for John Brockman, capitalist and philanthropist of Los Angeles and Glendale, who died Sunday night, will be held at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning at the home on the Brockman estate, 301 Kenneth road, followed by requiem mass at 10 o'clock at Holy Family Catholic church, 220 East Elk street. Rev. Michael Galvin of the Glendale parish and Father Dubbel of the Burbank parish will officiate.

Active and honorary pallbearers will be men of prominence in California and national affairs, close friends of Mr. Brockman, and associated with him in business life and philanthropic activities. Active pallbearers will be Charles H. Toll, L. H. Roseberry, Shirley C. Ward, Dr. E. J. Cook, Dr. H. H. Koons, Dr. Charles L. Lowman.

Honorary Pallbearers

The list of honorary pallbearers includes: Lee Phillips, J. F. Sartori, Frank Simpson, J. J. Haggarty, Dr. E. H. Thompson, Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, Preston T. Slayback, Tracy Q. Hall, Reese Llewellyn, E. L. Doheny of Los Angeles and vicinity; and Judge John R. McFie of Santa Fe, N. M.; Col. J. W. Carter of Silver City, N. M.; Major General William H. Carter of Washington, D. C.; R. A. F. Penrose, jr., of Philadelphia; D. M. Barringer of Philadelphia and Alfred Porter Coles of El Paso, Texas.

Mr. Brockman's death brought to a close a life history rich in romance and interest. The story of his life is intimately linked with the story of Abraham Lincoln, General U. S. Grant, General Sherman, with all the famous men and important events of the days of the Civil War and with the winning of the west.

Goddess of Beauty to Reign

Cosmetics prepared by MAX FACTOR, center, one of the foremost cosmeticians and authority on beauty in America today, will be featured at PENDROY'S Friday night, when Mr. Factor will be present as honored guest at the special display and springtime reception.

The Goddess of Beauty is to reign supreme Friday night, when the springtime reception from 8 to 11 o'clock at the Pendroy store, South Brand boulevard and Harvard street, will honor Max Factor, former cosmetician of the Imperial Russian court and of the Imperial Russian Grand Opera company, more recently cosmetician and artist furnishing cosmetics and making up prominent American stage and motion picture stars, and, above all, recognized authority on beauty and how to preserve it.

Glendale people have been invited to visit the Pendroy store tomorrow night, meet Mr. Factor, see the artistic display of Factor preparations now installed in the Pendroy store and enjoy displays in other departments and the dance to be held on the third floor.

Since Mr. Factor is to be the honored guest, Glendale people will be interested to learn something of his interesting background. He was born in Lodz, Poland, and since the age of 8 years, when he was an apprentice to a wigmaker, he has been in cosmetic work. After his successes in Russian imperial circles he came to the United States, where he won added honors with his preparations and art of makeup in the theatrical and motion picture worlds. He has worked with American stage stars from Anna Held to the present day. In his motion picture work he has furnished all cosmetics and done all make-up for such prodigious productions as "The Thief of Bagdad," "The Sea Hawk" and now "Ben Hur."

So great was the demand for his merchandise for general street wear that Mr. Factor has decided to make available to American women his products. Tomorrow night Glendale women will be privileged to meet Mr. Factor and ask him any questions on beauty

SERVICES FOR NEXT WEEK OUTLINED

Meetings Will Be Held At Local Theatre At Noon Except On Friday

The full program for Passion Week religious meetings at the Lincoln Theatre, in which many churches of Glendale and vicinity will participate, was announced today. The meetings will be held at the theatre each noon excepting Friday, when the First Methodist church will be used. Following is the schedule:

MONDAY—Under direction of the Presbyterian denomination, Rev. W. S. Middleman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Eagle Rock, speaker.

TUESDAY—Under direction of Baptist denomination and Christian Missionary Alliance, Rev. Joseph Hogue, Alliance Tabernacle, Los Angeles, speaker.

THURSDAY — Christian denomination in charge, Rev. R. W. Abberley, pastor First Christian church, Pasadena, speaker.

FRIDAY—At the First Methodist church, Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris, pastor, speaker.

The service at the theatre each day will be preceded by an organ recital by Frank Lanterman from 12 to 12:15 o'clock.

Worthy Grand Patron Will Confer Degrees

Russell B. La Fontaine, worthy grand patron, will be present to confer degrees on Mr. and Mrs Fraser at the meeting of Glendale Chapter No. 422, Order of Eastern Star, Saturday night, at 7:30 o'clock at Masonic temple, 232 South Brand boulevard. Mr. Fraser is master of Tujunga Blue lodge. Mrs. Nellie C. Jennings, worthy matron of Glendale chapter, will preside at the meeting. A social time is being planned, following the meeting with cards as the diversion. Mrs. Maude Evans is chairman of the entertainment committee and Mrs. Henrietta Murray is chairman of the refreshment committee. Prizes will be awarded in the card games.

New Parking Signs Being Placed In L. A.

Visitors to Los Angeles will appreciate the permanent parking signs in the central traffic district now being erected by the Automobile club of Southern California. A total of 24,000 signs will be erected in the down-town district. These are of metal, eighteen inches square and are suspended ten feet from the sidewalk.

It is believed the new signs will avoid much confusion. There are constantly thousands of motorists passing through Los Angeles who are unfamiliar with the city ordinances and unintentionally violate the law. The new parking signs are so placed that the motorist at no time will be more than sixty feet away from a sign announcing no parking between 4:30 and 6 p. m., and a 45 minute limit between 7 a. m. and 4:30 p. m., with the exception of Sundays.

OFFERING TIRES ON CREDIT TERMS

Viking Safety Cords, Sold In Glendale By Smith, Are Guaranteed

Viking "safety" cords, with an unconditional guarantee of 15,000 miles may be had on easy credit, even as low as $1 down, at the Smith Tire Co., 239 South Brand boulevard. No other tire on the market carries a guarantee similar to that offered by the Viking Co. and no more lenient or convenient credit than that offered by the Smith Tire Co. is to be had anywhere.

"We not only allow most liberal credit, but we offer a tire that is unsurpassed in quality. Viking cords contain more material than ordinary tires and weigh more. They are better tires," Irwin Smith, manager of the tire store, said.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH GETS REPORTS

Trustees Elected, Financial Condition Given As 'Very Excellent'

Treasurers of all organizations of Glendale Presbyterian church reported and the election of trustees was held last night at the annual congregational meeting of Glendale Presbyterian church. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the church, was moderator and R. P. Isitt was clerk. W. G. Boyd, chairman of the trustees, reported. Trustees elected for one year were: A. L. Baird, C. E. Boss, W. G. Lauderdale, A. J. Lockwood and R. L. Morrow.

Reports from the various organizations showed excellent financial condition. The congregation adopted the pension plan, which links the church with 4000 other churches in the United States for the retirement fund for ministers.

Financial Report

Outstanding features of the reports were the treasurer's reports of the women's associations, which showed that $4000 had been paid to the building fund and the $2000 apportionment on the missionary fund had been paid. Treasurers giving reports were:

W. G. Lauderdale, church; A. R. Eastman, building fund; Spencer Jewell, Sunday school; Miss Elsie Koehler, beginners' department; Mrs. Grace V. Harrison, primary department; Percy Jewell, young people's department; Mrs. R. L. Crotser, adult women; J. C. Jensen, adult men and adult men missionary; Miss Louise Hart, Philathea; Percy Jewell, Young People's Christian Endeavor; Spencer Jewell, senior intermediate C. E.; Norman McIver, junior C. E.; Mrs. R. W. Mottern, senior C. E. and leper work; Mrs. G. F. Snyder, Friday Morning Bible class; Mrs. A. D. McCoy, penny-a-day fund of women's association; Mrs. D. B. IT IS EASY ENOUGH—
To find some excuse for the sins in which we wish to indulge.
To see the faults in others which are no temptation to us.
To get a following by stirring up some old hatred.
To think we would be great if we had some other man's chance.
To hold our position if we are doing our work exceptionally well.

COMMUNITY PERSONALITY

Santa Barbara, which was a city while California was still under the rule of Spain, is conducting a campaign to preserve an individualistic architecture, retaining the Spanish influence. Santa Barbara's chief claim to distinction lies in her history, in her Spanish origin, and it will mean a great deal to the city to foster the atmosphere of the early days through her architecture.

Every city of any consequence has, or should have, individuality. Personality is as important for a community as for an individual. Every city should lay claim to something that is not common to every other community, and make the most of it.

The trouble is that in community building, as in everything else, there are too many imitators. A certain city has some feature that makes it attractive and other cities, instead of being original, imitate the successful one.

Although all of California was once under Spanish rule, Santa Barbara's age makes it particularly appropriate for her to feature and preserve the real Spanish architecture. Every city should emphasize some feature that would be a slogan, an individual note and a foundation for growth.

Glendale, as a city, cannot go back so far for a keynote as Santa Barbara, but there are dozens of ways in which Glendale might individualize and distinguish herself from all other cities. Of course, our record for growth is attractive and has helped to bring many people here, for it is a trait of human nature to follow the crowd. For one who lives in Glendale or visits here frequently the growth of the city is very apparent. But the casual visitor is not so greatly impressed, for there is more or less building activity all over Southern California. Something a little more tangible than our record for growth would appeal to the tourist.

No Southern California community, as a community, has made the most of its opportunity to become a real all-the-year-round flower garden. The organizations, churches and citizens of Glendale could make a concerted effort to plant roses, or any other flower or tree, or all kinds of trees, vines, shrubs and flowers, for these things, green and blossoming in the winter months, are especially attractive to the eastern visitor. The average eastern person who has never seen California thinks of it as a place where every home is covered with a bower of roses. That is one reason some people are disappointed.

There are many other ways in which Glendale could distinguish herself from other Southern California cities. The one given would be inexpensive. No doubt Glendale citizens can suggest better ones.

NEWSPAPER NOT DICTATOR

Harry S. Webster, business manager of the San Bernardino Sun, in an address before the Hemet-San Jacinto Kiwanis club on the duty of the newspaper to the community, exploded the old-fashioned belief held by some newspapers and some people that the press should be the moulder of public opinion, in the sense of being the mentor of the community and dictating the principles, policies and projects that the public shall accept. Mr. Webster said:

"This is decidedly not what is intended. Newspapers that function honestly have an entirely different conception of their obligations to the public. It is the purpose of a newspaper in a community to publish plain statement of fact—as nearly honest and accurate as possible—unbiased, unprejudiced and uncolored. It is assumed that if the newspaper gives the information on any given subject or topic that the reader, in the light of the information given through the columns of the newspaper, will utilize his own mental processes, to formulate his own opinions, arrive at his own conclusions and then act on his own initiative—thus the newspaper, in supplying the facts to the public, generally makes it possible for 'public opinion to be moulded.'"

People use their brains too freely nowadays to allow newspapers to dictate to them as to what they shall think or how they shall vote or act. All they ask of a newspaper is the facts in the case.

AMERICAN COOPERATION IN GERMANY

That the Dawes plan is bringing about a feeling of restored stability and confidence among the German people was recently illustrated in two ways. When the new German ambassador arrived in this country he announced that he brought a message of the recognition of the Dawes plan and American cooperation as the chief aids to the economic recovery of his country.

About the same time came the news that the German government was buying $50,000,000 of our gold, over and above the loan credit recently established in America by the flotation of $110,000,000 in German reparation bonds, and that this transaction was being financed by shipping to America good American money in the shape of one, two and five-dollar bills.

When the Dawes plan was accepted it was predicted that German stockings and chimney corners would yield up their hoards. United States paper money that has been coming over at the rate of $5,000,000 a month was treasured in German homes during the years when no other paper money of any country was worth its face value in gold. And with the feeling of confidence engendered by the Dawes plan, these American bills are coming out into the light.

A FAT TIP

The doctors come in for their share of criticism these days, but an exchange defends the profession, saying, if doctors paid more attention to their bank books and less to their medical books we would be far worse off than we are now. If physicians had no conscience they would encourage the fat ones to "go to it," because fat, which is always due to the excessive eating of rich food, adds to the length of the doctor's bill. Yet the doctors show more dissatisfaction with avoirdupois than with any other symptom in their patients and are always advising them to be more careful with their diet.

A Chicago waiter says his fraternity are more polite to plump people than to thin. It's the skinny fellow whom you see nibbling at a piece of dry toast and sipping a cup of black coffee in a restaurant. The fat ones enjoy their food and order accordingly. Fat men and women, fat dinners and fat tips make a happy combination for the waiter.

Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters gives the readers of The Glendale Evening News many a "fat tip" every day.

OH, GRAVE, WHERE IS THY VICTORY?

Confessions of An Ex-Musician

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I am an ex-musician.

That is, when I was a young man of twenty-one I was actively engaged in the study of music. I not only played the piano, but I had a class of music pupils whom I conducted through the devious avenues of art.

I suppose I was a bum teacher and poor player, but I got a good deal of fun out of it.

I never took but one lesson in my life. I did not like that lesson and quit my teacher after one sample of her work. I do not say this as an excuse, but merely state it as a fact. Doubtless I would have done better to have remained under her tutelage. But I did not.

I went at the study of music in my own peculiar way. I bought Schubert's Moments Musicaux, Beethoven's Sonatas, Chopin's Waltzes, Mendelssohn's Songs Without Words and other pieces.

I found these difficult, but very intriguing. I pounded them all out on the piano. I took them apart and studied every combination of notes and learned every motif.

Afterwards I took up the Wagner operas in this way. I bought all the books I could that told about Wagner and his music. I read them in French, in German and in English. I set about to learn all the motifs of his pieces.

I don't suppose I was ever a good musician, that is, that I ever had the scientific skill to perform. But I had the love of it and I had many a pure hour of enjoyment in following it.

I would not take anything now for the memory of that solid enjoyment. If I had had some teacher with imagination to envisage my difficulties and help me out of them I would have made much faster progress. As it was I had to get through myself.

With the consequence of the crowding in of many affairs my music was dropped and for years my life was devoid of it. There was always a piano in the house, but nobody played on it.

I loved music so well that I would rather do without it than hear it badly played.

Then came the automatic piano, by which the works of the best masters could be interpreted for me by skilled artists just the way they would have done it themselves.

I cannot tell you what a pleasure it was to put on these rolls and hear those pieces that I had labored over in my youth done expertly.

If I had only had this when I was studying, how many a difficult problem would have been solved before my eye, or rather my ear. I had spent days in wondering what certain musical notes meant and it could all have been explained to me in a moment by the touch of the artist.

Not the least among the advantages enjoyed by the music student of today is that of hearing any composition played correctly with absolute accuracy by this instrument. It can only improve the taste and clear the way for progress in the case of the young pupil.

Of course, there may be some who will be content merely to listen, but for those eager souls that are anxious also to improve their own art, it will be a godsend.

Horoscope

Uranus in friendly place rules this day, according to astrology. Jupiter and Mars are adverse.

There is a promising sign for those who set out on travels or undertake removals today.

It is an auspicious sway under which to think seriously, and plans originated at this time should be fortunate.

All that pertains to strictly mental activities should benefit while this configuration prevails. Teachers, lecturers and editors should benefit.

There is promise of real American literature which will be published this year, but it will be slowly recognized.

Jupiter frowns on business at this time when there may be many apparently unfavorable influences prevailing.

It is not a lucky rule for domestic felicity and there is to be the bitterest sort of discussion of the divorce problem in the next few months.

Again the stars smile on occult investigations and there are to be converts to spiritism among famous scientists.

Unsettled views on important national issues may affect the popularity of a cabinet officer, who will reveal independence of policy.

One of the signs of the time is to be a clarifying of thought on many social questions, the conservative separating from the radicals by a wider gulf than has been noticeable since the World War.

Astrologers who read in Mars the warning of much war discussion again admonish the people to beware of difficulties.

Australia now is subject to discordant planetary influences which make for seismic disturbances and great storms.

Many orientals are to emigrate to Australia, if the stars are read aright, and new problems will arise for the government.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid speculation in the coming year. Travel and change of location appear to be foreshadowed.

Children born on this day may be too free in spending money, but these subjects of Aries will be able to provide for large personal wants.

Today's Poem

CONFESSIO AMANTIS

When do I love you most, sweet books of mine?
In strenuous morns when o'er your leaves I pore,
Austerely bent to win austerest love,
Forgetting how the dewy meadows shine;
Or afternoons when honeysuckles twine
About the seat, and to some dreamy shore
Of old Romance, where lovers evermore
Keep blissful hours, I follow at your sign.

Yea! ye are precious then, but most to me
Ere lamplight dawneth, when low croons the fire
To whispering twilight in my little room,
And eyes read not, but sitting silently
I feel your great hearts throbbing deep inquire,
And hear you breathing round me in the gloom.

Richard Le Gallienne.

Stray Dogs In Butler Due For Electrocution

BUTLER, Pa., April 2.—Butler is believed to be the only town in Pennsylvania which plans to install equipment for the electrocution of unclaimed dogs. There will be no more shooting of dogs running at large here, according to Lee M. Keely, who has been authorized by the City Council to act as dog catcher.

ARMENIAN KILLED

MOSCOW, April 2.—M. Mieassnikoff, one of five prominent men killed a few days in an aeroplane accident near Tiflis, was one of the leading Armenians in Russia, being secretary of the Transcaucasian Communist party. He was a warm friend of Americans in the Caucasus and had done much to assist the work of the Near East relief, having frequently visited the orphans under American care at Alexandropol, "city of children." He was on his way to an official conference in Moscow in a military aeroplane which caught fire and crashed from a height of 6000 feet.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

One of the magazines, in a brief preface to a discussion of a current problem by a popular figure, announces that the author is in a position to give "an impartial opinion."

No man is in a position to give a purely impartial opinion, because no man is entirely free from prejudice. All of man's education tends to make him biased.

However, no man is ever willing to admit that he has any prejudices. But sometimes the facts confront him sternly, as in the case of the two gentlemen in the following story, now an antique:

Redd: "I wonder why it is that when men like William Jennings Bryan and Billy Sunday accept good money we have a tendency secretly to dispise them."

Pinke: "Well, I presume because they are posing to be disinterested. When they take away such big returns we set them down as hypocrites."

Redd: "But they have a right to make a living."

Pinke: "You might say that of any one else—any get-rich-quick chap, for example, provided he can get away with it."

Redd: "But the get-rich-quick man is cheating his customers."

Pinke: "Well, a good many people feel the same way about Bryan and Sunday. I don't say they are, mind you. I am only giving that side of the argument, and, according to it, they are cheating their customers by deluding them with false hopes. Bryan says that a combination of free silver, grape juice and peace will cure all the ills of man, and he gets five hundred dollars a lecture for saying it. Bill Sunday gets thousands of dollars for dragging hell into the limelight. They are both popular forms of amusement. Why shouldn't they be paid? There are far worse moving picture shows than Bryan or Sunday."

Redd: "You believe that, now, don't you? Be honest and say it's your genuine opinion, and not put it off on someone else."

Pinke: (lowering his voice): "Well, I'll tell you. I believe it about Bryan but not about Sunday. Sunday's all right. He hates money!"

Redd: "You're wrong! It's true of Sunday, but not of Bryan. Bill Bryan is all right. He's a patriot. I wouldn't trust Sunday, but Bryan's whole thought is for others. (Looking at his watch) Good heavens! I didn't realize it was so late. I must rush off."

Pinke: "Is it that late? I must be going, too. Where are you going?"

Redd: "I'm going to hear Sunday. Where are you going?"

Pinke: "To hear Bryan."

Apropos this subject, there appears in a virtually forgotten play by Kane O'Hara, this line:

Who's Who

"He has increased the field of electrical equipment to an extent that represents the addition of at least a billion dollars in capital value to the electric light and power industry." So say authorities of Hans Weichsel, electrical engineer, designer of the new Fynn-Weichsel motor.

Weichsel is a native of Germany, but has been, since 1912, a citizen of the United States. He was born February 27, 1878. After being graduated with high honors as an electrical engineer at the University of Dormstadt in 1900, he worked as a student engineer with various industrial organizations, and then in 1904 came to the United States with the intention of staying only nine months. But he decided to remain. In 1906 he joined the Wagner Electrical Corp., of which he is now chief designing engineer.

He married an American girl and they have two children. Their home is in St. Louis.

Previous to his development of the new motor, he was known in the electrical profession for many successes in electrical designing. He is the author of a number of advanced treatises in his field.

"Storms are gathering beyond the purple horizons of Moroland," warns the sultan of Sulu, last of his rank and the only dependent monarch receiving a salary from the American government.

"The president in Washington speaks with his governor general in Manila and asks if the Philippines should be granted immediate independence. If it comes there will be war.

"Many nations once fought for control of Sulu," continued the sultan, in an interview at his capital, Jolo, "but our Moslems bared the sword victoriously to all except America.

"If the Philippines are made independent now the second largest island, Mindanao, will join Sulu in revolting. We cannot live under any government but American.

"The power of democracy is growing. With my death another dictator shall have gone forever, for I have no sons. Mariau, it is good, yet would I live to see Moroland richer and more peaceful.

"My niece, the Princess Tarbata, has just returned from an American college. True, she has bobbed hair and cheeks scarlet as the hibiscus flower, but she is teaching my people health and industry. She teaches the children games, tells them betel chewing is evil and that one wife is sufficient. Had I sons like her our pearl lagoons would not be pirated, and cocoanut groves would surround and make rich every nipa hut."

PIONEER DRUG FIRM CELEBRATES SUCCESS

Great Sale Will Mark Official Opening of Roberts & Echols New Home Corner Broadway and Brand

Twenty-two years ago two Oklahoma pharmacists met in the bustling little town of Perry, Oklahoma, and thus began an acquaintance that terminated years later in the successful partnership of Roberts & Echols in this city. For eleven years these men, Fred H. Roberts and Frank M. Echols, have been in business together in Glendale with never a break and seldom even a difference of business opinion, and under the firm name of Roberts & Echols recently purchased the three-story modern business block at Brand Blvd. and East Broadway from the Security Trust and Savings Bank. On Friday, their Spring Opening Sales Day, they are giving their thousands of patrons in Glendale and vicinity an opportunity to secure special offerings arranged through the co-operation of manufacturers.

The first location of Roberts & Echols Drug store, when opened in Glendale eleven years ago was next door, 102 E. Broadway, where their patronage grew and expanded steadily year after year. At that time there were but few drug stores in the outlying districts. With keen business acumen they realized the value of keeping in close touch with the outlying residential districts and planned their delivery system with the idea of giving residents who lived a long distance from the center of the city, just as good service as those who resided closer to their drug store. That policy has proven itself over an eleven year period—and they still enjoy an extremely large patronage throughout all Glendale and continue to operate a rapid delivery system for the benefit of their patrons. At the present time three boys are kept busy in this service.

Eleven years ago the partners established their business in Glendale. They themselves mixed all the prescriptions. Besides themselves they employed one man to operate the fountain, and one boy to deliver orders and run errands.

Today the firm has twenty-three regular employes. The principals themselves also work—behind the counter; in the prescription department; in the office—wherever they are needed, making a total of twenty-five persons at work compared with four eleven years ago.

The business requires the constant services of five registered pharmacists. The big fountain has six attendants. A postoffice sub-station is kept open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the benefit of the public.

When the business had outgrown the old quarters construction of the new banking home across the street made it possible for Robert & Echols to purchase the block in which they are now located from the Security Trust & Savings bank. They tore out the old bank vault at a cost of $1000. They pulled out unsightly beams. They ripped off the plaster and lath; lowered the show windows and in their remodeling even put on new steel lath to hold the paster.

In all, the remodeling process cost the firm approximately $12,000. A huge basement, 60 feet long was constructed beneath the store room, now used as a storage space for merchandise and for the housing of the big refrigeration plant. The fountain is the only one mechanically refrigerated in the city of Glendale.

Then, to properly set off the whole effect, solid walnut fixtures were installed. Every fixture in the store is made of solid walnut.

Roberts was a boy and attended the public school in Winfield, Kansas. Although at that time they did not know each other, Echols went to school in Harper county, Kansas. Echols studied pharmacy and opened a place of business in Pond Creek, Okla., where he remained from 1895 to 1901. Then he went to Perry and met Roberts. Both received their first registered pharmacist certificates in the territory of Oklahoma. Both were pioneers in the business, Echols' certificate number being only 167.

Since coming to Glendale the firm members have always been members of the chamber of commerce. They recall distinctly the period of hardship for the chamber, when there was no funds with which to pay the expenses of officials or employes. All the work that was done then had to be done by the members in any time they could spare from their own work.

The two men have helped financially and otherwise, every worthy cause in Glendale during the entire period of their business here. They have taken an active part in all civic ventures. Roberts is an active member of the Glendale Elks and Optimists club; Echols is a prominent member of the Masons and Kiwanis club.

Believing that it is the best way to assure their patrons of the very best work and service, Roberts & Echols have for a number of years employed their own photographic finisher in the photographic department. A complete studio is installed on the third floor and nothing but work that comes over the counters of the durg store below is handled there. One-day service is provided. Films brought to the store during the early part of the forenoon are finished prints and ready for the customers at 6 o'clock the same day. Especially fine enlargements are also done.

Besides the regular fountain service a complete luncheon service is maintained. The firm employes its own expert cook. It has its own modern kitchen.

A modern drug store must carry in stock from 15,000 to 30,000 different articles of merchandise. The work of keeping that stock up is in itself a task of no mean proportions. Roberts & Echols have worked out a sistem that has proven highly efficient.

Each of the principals of the firm has a certain number of departments for which he acts as purchasing agent. Articles of merchandise that get low in their cases or drawers are jotted down on special blanks by themselves or by the clerks. Orders are rushed out daily and there is a constant inflow of drugs and merchandise.

As a special feature of the spring sales opening on Friday, visitors to the drug store are to be given "prize packages" containing small, unique packages of tooth paste, olive oil, face powders, perfumes, and in fact nearly everything that is to be found in a pharmacy. In each of the packages slips will be placed. At a final drawing, holders of lucky slips will be awarded valuable merchandise prizes. Manufacturers are co-operating with the local firm to make the "prize package" awards possible.

MANUFACTURERS AID IN FRIDAY'S SALE

Bag of Samples Will Be Given Away With Purchases of One Dollar or More at Roberts & Echols

In co-operation with many leading manufacturers Roberts and Echols have arranged to give a large bag of valuable sample merchandise with every purchase of one dollar or over on Friday—consisting of generous portions of Tooth Paste, Soap, Perfume, Talcum, Face Powders, Face Creams, Shampoos, Chewing Gum, etc., all standard nationally advertised goods. In addition over one hundred prizes will be distributed through these bags making the bag samples really worth the amount of the purchase and in many cases the buyer draws a valuable prize in addition. The prizes consist of twenty-five and fifty cent tubes of tooth paste and many other articles worth from twenty-five cents to three dollars and a half.

Not only will many hundreds of bags of samples be given away, but scores of unprecedented bargains will be offered on quality merchandise at this great sale. Months have been spent in searching the market for values that will add to the good will and patronage of this popular Glendale drug firm. Remember, tomorrow, Friday is the day.

Leihy's Chocolates Featured Ten Years

Since primitive man first carried wild honey to his beloved and Julius Dragatus, a baker of Rome, made and sold the first "Sugar Plums" in 137 B. C., delicacy expression has indeed become an art. Candy craftmanship has developed through the centuries until today the art of the confectioner is now universally employed as the messenger of sentiment and brings happiness to those who receive it.

About fifteen years ago, George W. Leihy, a man with a vision of quality confections, engaged in the manufacture of Quality Chocolates to the retail trade and on that foundation has built a wonderful business and reputation.

Roberts & Echols, "Your Home Town Druggist" have featured Leihy's Quality Chocolates for the past ten years, and appreciate the care and effort that is combined to bring your "Messenger of Sentiment" to your sweetheart, wife or friend, with a spiritual significance that can attach to very few of man's creations.

One of the most popular places in Glendale to secure a delicious lunch is at the fountain of Roberts & Echols Drug Store.

MODERN FIXTURES ENHANCE SERVICE

Splendid Equipment Adds To Beauty Features Of New Store

The hand of the artist is seen in all the interior arrangements and fixtures of the Roberts and Echols store. The finish throughout is in natural black walnut, which adds a richness and atmosphere obtained but seldom in a place of business.

The entire store was completely equipped by the Commercial Fixture Company of 600 Park Ave., Los Angeles, which specializes in woodworking, distinctive cabinet work, bank and store interiors as well as mechanically refrigerated soda fountains.

A prompt delivery service is furnished to all parts of Glendale on phone orders for prescriptions and merchandise given to Roberts & Echols Drug Store. Just phone Glendale 195.

The Comalt Company Is Credit To Glendale

Outstanding in the bottled goods sold at the Roberts & Echols Fountain is the popular "Dublin Dry Ginger Ale," manufactured in Glendale by the Comalt Co., 463 West Los Feliz road. The new brand of ginger ale is proving very popular and is meeting the demand for an extra dry ginger ale, it is declared.

"Dublin Dry" is highly aerated under high pressure and pasteurized in the bottle. It is sealed in an attractive green bottle to preserve its strength and zest and its perfect quality is always guaranteed.

Other soft drinks and sodas in all the popular flavors are manufactured and distributed by this concern. Their business is well and favorably known all over the southwest and the publicity attached to their products have helped to put Glendale on the map. The Comalt Co. has its business offices at the plant, 463 West Los Feliz road. S. W. Brown is president and general manager.

A German officer has designed an aero dynamo, driven by a propeller, to provide electricity on farms.

Modern Plumbing Is Capably Installed

All plumbing in the well-equipped soda fountain and kitchen of the new Roberts & Echols store was efficiently handled by the Johnson-Reeves Plumbing & Heating Co., located at 1209 North Central avenue.

The firm has been established in Glendale for over three years, and has installed the plumbing in many of the homes recently built in the Kenneth road, Bellehurst and Rossmoyne districts, as well as other sections of Glendale. This company specializes in quality plumbing fixtures, and handles no "seconds," and a considerable portion of its business has been the installation of the plumbing and heating systems of public buildings, including that of a number of Glendale schools.

Roberts & Echols Drug Store is headquarters for kodaks, films and all kodak supplies. One day service is given on finishing and developing films by an expert who works exclusively for this firm.

Starting a limited train requires the effort of a thousand men.

GLENDALE ICE CREAM FEATURE

Home Product Is Served Exclusively At The Fountain

Roberts & Echols have the distinction of being the first and the largest patron of the Glendale Ice Cream Co., manufacturers of quality ice cream and ices, at 109 North Glendale avenue, of which Edmund C. Herring is manager.

There is a difference in ice cream, as most people know. Some is made in such a way that a plate full looks more than it is. This is a trick of the trade, the cream being aerated, and the customer gets mostly air. But the Glendale Ice Cream Co.'s ice cream is different, for it is all solid ingredient, with the most tempting of flavors, and its weight is in each quantity all that the law calls for.

Glendale ice cream is called for where one is securing the cream for the family gathering, or where he drops in to secure a delicious plate of the cooling and nourishing delicacy. Some of those who strongly advocate a plate of Glendale ice cream twice a day emphasize this nourishment which is found in the Glendale ice cream, and that means they have found all they asked for and more.

The Glendale Ice Cream factory furnishes most of the leading fountains in Glendale, and has a large patronage in Eagle Rock, Pasadena, Burbank and throughout the San Fernando valley.

LOCAL CONCERN IS REORGANIZED

Hellman Construction Co. Offices Located In Security Building

The firm formerly known as May & Hellman, and located at 109 North Maryland avenue, has been taken over and reorganized by W. H. Hellman under the firm name of Hellman Construction Co. The new headquarters of the concern are now located at 419 Security building.

Mr. Hellman states the same policy will be continued, and the new firm will carry on a general contracting and building business. Loans will be furnished and estimates given, Mr. Hellman states.

Smoke causes an annual loss of nearly $17,000,000 in Philadelphia.

Largest Awning Ever Made In This City

The largest single awning used for any store here is the new awning in front of the west side of the Roberts & Echols building on South Brand boulevard. This awning was manufactured in Glendale by the Glendale Tent & Awning Co., of which W. T. Gilliam is proprietor, a concern that through the merit of its products has won a large patronage in Glendale and vicinity.

The coming year, in addition to tents, awnings, porch and lawn swings, etc., this company will make a specialty of handling camping equipment.

Kaighin's Candy Is Always Kept In Stock

Wherever possible it has been the policy of Roberts & Echols to sell products made in Glendale, and since C. A. Kaighin established a candy factory in Glendale, his candies have been featured. The quality of Kaighin's candies is known all along the Pacific coast, as well as many points in the middle west—as nothing but the purest and best of ingredients are used. The Kaighin Candy Co. is located at 120 South Maryland in a modern sanitary factory.

Glendale Contractor Supervised Work

The remodeling of the former Security Bank building into one of the most up-to-date drug store establishments in Southern California was capably handled by G. W. Calkins, builder and contractor of 1321 Valley View road, Glendale. Mr. Calkins has built some of Glendale's finest homes and a few months prior to remodeling the present Roberts & Echols building had built a very distinctive home for Frank M. Echols on Mountain street.

Glendale Creamery Is Local Institution

The milk and cream served and sold at the Roberts and Echols' fountain is furnished by the Glendale Creamery Co.—a pioneer Glendale firm which was established in 1908. In addition to furnishing raw and pasteurized milk and cream,—the Glendale Creamery is local distributor for Ideal Certified milk.

Holy Week Service To Be Held At Noontime

Rev. H. O. Kringel, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, reports noonday Lenten services will be held from 12:10 to 12:40 o'clock every day during the week before Easter at the Morosco theatre, 744 South Broadway, Los Angeles. On Good Friday, there will be an additional service from 12:50 to 1:30 o'clock. Prof. P. E. Kretzmann of St. Louis will give the pre-Easter messages.

LIGHTING SYSTEM WELL ARRANGED

Novel Lighting Effects Are Installed In This Modern Store

Charles C. Carroll of 320 Burchett street, installed the up-to-date lighting system in the store and windows which makes the Roberts & Echols' corner one of the brightest spots in town.

The brilliantly lighted pharmacy with its many bright, attractive windows is a source of pleasure to the passerby as well as the patron.

Through the proper use of electric lights the pharmacy corner promises to be a centering place for the man, woman and child seeking either pharmacy goods, the delicious ice creams, soft drinks, confections or lunches made possible through the installation of the latest facilities for such service or, calling for other needs such as one expects to find at the modern drug store.

— Editorial —

In keeping with the progressive spirit which characterizes the growth and prosperity of Glendale, Robert & Echols have spared nothing, and without reservations have equipped and installed a drug store in their building at southeast corner of Brand and Broadway (formerly Security Trust & Savings Bank), representative, we believe, of the wonderful city which we serve.

The proprietors appreciate the friendly attitude evidenced by the citizens of this community in their relationship with this store. It is as the outgrowth of this cordial feeling, together with the desire to provide a greater measure of service, that this new and beautiful Drug Store has been made possible.

This, our first great sale since moving to our new location, enables us to extend a cordial invitation to all to visit us on Friday, April 3rd, and become convinced of the sincerity with which we are trying to serve.

We thank you.

FRED H. ROBERTS,
FRANK ECHOLS.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, April 2.—Preparations for the May Day festival at the Eagle Rock school are nearing completion. Entertainment will include a track meet, games and Maypole dances. Parents and teachers will attend with the students.

Dr. Bayard Dodge of Princeton university and president of the American university at Beirut, was honor guest at a luncheon at the Presbyterian church. The girl reserves acted as hostesses.

Edward Accomazze, produce merchant, has opened a new tract in the vicinity of Hill drive. He plans to divide it into thirty lots and to erect a modern residence on each. A permit has already been issued for the first structure to cost $3,500.

Two Eagle Rock couples recently celebrated their fortieth and forty-first wedding anniversaries. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright, married forty-one years ago, were guests of honor at a banquet, held at the Black Cat tea room, at which Mr. and Mrs. Murfield, wedded for forty years, were present.

The board of directors of the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce will refrain from advising for or against installation of ornamental lights on any street in the city. The matter is to be left entirely in the hands of the property owners, according to a decision reached by the chamber. The board, however, recommended Marbelite standards with Westinghouse lighting units for residence streets and metal standards on Colorado and Eagle Rock boulevards.

Good Enough to have the BEST

TO the pride we take in the Glendale Security Building, home of this Bank, we add a pride in the tenants who are occupying the offices.

In a class by itself among Glendale business structures, at the center of transportation and trade, provided with every modern convenience, beautifully finished and decorated, the distinction of these offices is attracting a class of business and professional men "good enough to have the best."

The difference in cost is so little that it pays to enjoy the difference in convenience and elegance.

NOTHING IS TOO GOOD FOR CITY

Soda Fountain Is One Of Largest In State Of California

That nothing is too good for Glendale has been the guiding idea of Roberts and Echols in securing the new equipment for their new home.

Especially was this idea carried out in the installation of the soda fountain which is the largest and the only mechanical refrigerated fountain in Glendale.

Those who delight in the delicious drinks and ices or would have the best in luncheo served where every environment is of the finest will find real pleasure at the Roberts and Echols' fountain. Rich in its colorings this counter has set a new point of development for others to seek.

Dear Dr. Brady:—

Is there a store in this city where I can obtain your goods? Your soap makes a shampoo that is more satisfactory than any other I've ever used—My hair is heavy and very white—with your shampoo it is soft and without that yellow tinge. I first learned of it in a beauty parlor, Rose Ave., Ocean Park. I always keep it on hand but have used more this trip home as I've given so much to friends.

My address—

Mrs. M. Callahan, 4204 Cass Ave., Apt. No. 6, Detroit, Mich.

Wonder Girl to Speak Here

HELEN KELLER, left, who will tell her own amazing story of breaking through the barrier of blindness, deafness and silence, Friday night at the Broadway High school, shown in her garden with MRS. ANNE SULLIVAN MACY, her instructor and companion.

Helen Keller, noted throughout the world for her wonderful ability and desire to overcome a handicap that would discourage any one else ,will speak at the Broadway High school Friday night, telling her own amazing story of how she broke through the barrier of blindness, deafness and silence. Miss Keller will speak under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon club, the Thursday Afternoon club, Glendale federation, Parent-Teacher associations, and numerous service clubs of the city.

Accompanying Miss Keller to Glendale will be Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, who has been with Miss Keller since childhood, first as her instructor and then as a companion. Miss Keller's ability to speak is attributed to the teachings of Mrs. Macy. Miss Keller will appear in the interests of the American Foundation for the Blind.

LEGION WINS IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Defeat Rotary Two Straight Sets, 6-2, 6-3, In Match At Patterson Park

Legion tennis players, Harry Schmidt and Glenn Mapes, defeated the Rotary players, John Cate and R. Ernest Tucker, in the first game of the service clubs' court tournament played at Patterson park this morning. The former service men took two straight sets, 6-2 and 6-3. The Legion team will meet the Kiwanis club next week on the second flight.

There are seven clubs with teams entered in the tournament. Three games will be played each week, with one team drawing a bye. The clubs having teams entered are: Lions, Rotary, Optimists, Exchange, Kiwanis, Realty board and American Legion. The games for next week will be: Realtors vs. Optimists, Kiwanis vs. Exchange, and Lions vs. Rotary.

The games will be played on the new courts at Patterson park, and at the end of the tournament, the winning team will be presented with a cup.

Sailor Huffman Gets Revenge On Jack Lee

Sailor Eddie Huffman got revenge for the defeat he suffered at the hands of Jack Lee several weeks ago, when he reversed the verdict in ten rounds at the Wilmington bowl last night. Huffman won four rounds, Lee won three and the remainder were even. Sailor Mike Hector, of the U. S. S. Tennessee, stopped Don Downey of Downey in the third round. Sailor Ritchie King and Pico Ramies fought the best bout despite the fact that the sailor won nine out of ten rounds and grabbed an easy decision.

Washington Crews Are Ready For Big Races

OAKLAND, April 2.—University of Washington's freshman and varsity oarsmen today were in splendid condition for their race with the University of California crews on the Oakland estuary a week from next Saturday. They plan to work in the water twice a day. Yesterday they had their first workout when they launched their shells and proceeded to go through some easy practice. The Huskies showed a snap and rhythm that was beautiful to behold.

NEW WELLS STARTED

TULSA, Okla., April 2.—Thirty-six new wells were started in Kansas last week. Greenwood county led with twenty-seven.

LEGION NOTES

With Governor Richardson, Senator Samuel M. Shortridge and Senator Hiram Johnson, together with the members of the California State Legislature as invited guests, the $1,500,000 U. S. Veterans' Bureau hospital at Livermore is to be dedicated April 11.

American Legion members from all parts of the state are to participate in the dedicatory ceremonies. State Commander Nathan L. Coombs and Adjutant James K. Fisk will officially represent the department of California.

General Frank T. Hines, director of the United Statees Veterans' bureau, has also been invited to the opening of the new government hospital.

In addition to the dedication ceremonies, an inspection of the hospital property is to be open to the public. Music and dancing will feature the night's entertainment. The Thirtieth Infantry band as well as local bands will furnish the music for the affair.

General Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' bureau, has been invited by State Commander Nathan F. Coombs to be the guest of the American Legion of California during his coming visit to this state.

California is preparing to extend a real western welcome to Mrs. Claire D. Oliphant, national president of the auxiliary of the American Legion. Mrs. Oliphant will be the guest of Los Angeles on April 3, while the Legionnaires and their ladies of Fresno will greet the distinguished visitor on April 4. San Francisco and Sacramento will act as hosts on April 6 and 7 respectively. Mrs. Lilly Samuels, state president and Mrs. Elizabeth I. Drendell, state secretary, will journey to Los Angeles to welcome Mrs. Oliphant when she enters the state.

Appropriations and grants of relief totaling $426,987,750, for the benefit of World War veterans, particularly for the disabled, were made by the recent session of Congress, according to James K. Fisk, state adjutant of the American Legion.

For additional hospital construction in California, Illinois, Oregon and in the New England states an appropriation of $10,000,000 was made, according to Fisk.

California will receive an additional amount from the appropriations because of the decision to enlarge and improve the soldiers' home at Santa Monica.

Members of the American Legion who are members of the California State Legislature are whipping into shape the details of the proposed constitutional amendment carrying with it a $20,000,000 farm and home loan issue and which will be submitted to the voters in 1926.

Sufficient support to assure the necessary two-thirds majority vote in both the Assembly and Senate has been enlisted by the legionnaires.

Practically the entire $10,000,000 bond issue voted by the people in 1922 for farm and home loans to World War veterans will be exhausted by next spring, according to officers of the State Veterans' Welfare board.

George J. Hatfield of San Francisco has been named a member of the American Legion's "France travel committee" which will make the arrangements for holding either the 1927 or 1928 American Legion national convention in Paris. Hatfield has received word of his appointment from National Commander James A. Drain of the legion. Several hundred California war veterans are expected to make the trip to France for the convention.

SHIPMENT EXPECTED

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—A shipment of 5000 cases of Argentine canned beef, the first direct shipment ever to reach this port from Argentine, will arrive here next week.

STORE HANDLES COLGATE'S GOODS

This Well Known Firm's Products Are Known All Over World

You'll find the noted Colgate toilet products at the new home of the Roberts & Echols drug store at the corner of Broadway and Brand boulevard.

Travelers over the world are familiar with these products, for they are offered everywhere, wherever milady seeks the beautifying touches which the science of the chemist has made possible, and where the toilet goods of the highest purity are in demand.

For many years this store has stocked Colgate products with the thought only of having the very best, the very finest of goods, and it has been the motive which actuated it to place on the shelves of the new store the fine line of Colgate products which have become a household friend over the land.

FARM IMPLEMENTS

KANSAS CITY, April 2.—Demand for agricultural implements and supplies continues extremely heavy. One firm has exceeded its season's allotment of tractors by 200. Horse-drawn implements are in greater demand than for several years.

BETTER ROADS WORK GIVEN SENDOFF

Imperial Valley Due For Its Share, Highway Board Outlines Plan

Following a meeting of the California Highway commission, Commissioner N. T. Edwards announced that the state highway engineer had been authorized to proceed with the paving of the state highway route through the town of Westmoreland, Imperial county, located on the main trunk line connecting Los Angeles with the Imperial valley.

A grade seventy feet wide will be made through the town and a twenty foot concrete pavement will be placed at an estimated cost of $12,422 to be paid from the third state highway fund. The distance to be covered by the improvement is 0.4 of a mile. The work will be under the direction of the division engineer.

San Joaquin Projects

Contracts for two large reconstruction projects in San Joaquin county, to be financed with gasoline tax revenues, were awarded today by the California Highway commission as follows:

Building of a 532 foot bascule lift span bridge across the San Joaquin river as Mossdale, awarded to the McKay-Schruth Engineering Co. of Los Angeles; bid $193,650.89; engineer's estimate $209,792.

Paving of 11.5 miles of the San Joaquin valley trunk line between the Stanislaus river and Turner station, awarded to J. F. Knapp of Turlock; bid $257,443; engineer's estimate $285,195.20.

Replace County Bridge

These contracts involve the largest expenditure of state road funds yet allotted to San Joaquin county where 78.6 miles of county-built pavements are located on the state highway system. The new Mossdale bridge will take the place of an existing county-built structure inadequate for present day traffic.

The new pavement south of Turner station will replace a county-built oil macadam with a new twenty-foot concrete pavement on a sixty-foot right of way. The original width of this section was forty feet, an addition twenty-foot right of way having been secured by the county during recent months.

Counties Penalized

In announcing the award of the contract, Chairman Harvey M. Toy, said:

"Practically all of the existing state highway in San Joaquin county was originally built by the county and presented to the state. Very little bond money ever has been expended in San Joaquin county and were it not for the gasoline tax, which provides the reconstruction funds, the deplorable conditions existing on the

DEATH VALLEY HAS SCENIC WONDERS

Two Days' Drive From L. A. Is Land Of Desolation For Motorists

Just a two-days' drive from Los Angeles lies the land of desolation which the hand of man has never mastered—Death Valley, the lowest point in the United States and one of the lowest in the world. The land is 280 feet below sea level and few indications are to be found that man has ever traversed this hopeless place, yet the human tragedies which have been enacted in this region have given it the right to its name.

In spite of the grim horrors abiding on this prairie of rock and sand, Death Valley has a fascination. Here are to be found wonders located in no other spot, and for motorists who enjoy adventures far from the main highways, this trip will be especially appealing. While it is a furnace in the summer time, defying life, it may be visited with comparative comfort at this time of the year.

The route recommended by the National Automobile club is via Newhall, Saugus, Lancaster and Mojave, where the pavement ends and the real desert begins. Leaving Mojave, sand, cactus and chaparral feature the landscape in all directions. Deserted shacks along the route tell a story of hopes deferred. The first mining town reached is Randsburg, then Johannesburg, both of which have seen their most colorful days, and there is very little activity in the mines at the present time.

Far From Civilization

Leaving Johannesburg, the desert continues with no towns and a few waterholes and springs. One begins to feel that civilization is many miles distant. The route passes through Granite Wells, Leach Springs, Owl Holes and Saratoga Springs, and the going becomes rougher, much of the route lying in washes. Just thirty miles from Shoshone the trail begins to climb, winding between massive rocks, first to the right, then to the left, then down grade again, and at the bottom of a range of hills, apparently tucked away from the world, lies Shoshone. Meals and supplies may be obtained here.

Then the route is traced down grade and a little west of Bradbury Wells a turn is made to the right and the real adventurous part of the trip begins. The route follows up through a shallow canyon so narrow that a car can scarcely pass through the walls, then drops into a great bowl banked with rocks of brown and gray, and ahead, in the distance, can be seen that hole in the

Fire Chief Gets Studebaker Special Six

CHANDLER DEALER LAUDS SEDAN CAR

Real Touring Model Today Is This Type; Winner Of Public Approval

The real touring car of today is a sedan.

Don J. Barton of Barton Brothers, 1119 South Brand boulevard, distributors of Chandler cars, is authority for the statement. He says:

"In the old days, closed cars were heavy, cumbersome and incapable of long-distance trips. Naturally the open car, with its greater range of travel, was the only model that could be used for touring, and so it came by its name. With progress in body construction, the closed car, particularly the sedan type, has gradually developed by progressive improvement until today it weighs but little more than the open car, and lacks scarcely any of the performance of the so-called touring car."

When the Chandler company announced its coach imperial at the New York show, offered at the same price as the five-passenger touring car, it immediately became one of the most sought-after models in ten years of Chandler history.

Holding its own in appearance beside a massive red fire truck at fire department headquarters, the new Studebaker Special Six roadster, recently purchased by the city of Glendale for Fire Chief A. H. Lankford from the Packer Motor Co., Inc., 245 South Brand boulevard, is attracting much attention among city officials.

The machine, that cost about $1,725, is equipped with a Duplex body and steel top; big spotlights with red reflectors and extra heavy bumpers.

Fire Fighters' Favorite

Studebaker Special Six roadsters are being used almost exclusively by the Los Angeles fire department and other departments throughout the country, according to Don Packer of the Packer Motor Co., Inc.

Its reserve power, quick starting and proven reliability were considerations that entered into the purchase of the car for Glendale's fire chief. Usually tops are removed from fire cars because of the ever-present danger of accident and turning over in rounding city streets at high speed. With this machine, however, the top is to be kept because of the fact that its steel construction in the event of tipping will act as a safeguard to the occupants.

PRECISION RULES NEW JEWETT CAR

Local Leader Tells of Detail In Building Motors of This Model Auto

The weight of one, two or three pennies or the thickness of a thin sheet of paper means little to the various units of the motor car seen on the street. Vary the mechanism of that motor car at any one of a dozen places by the weight of those pennies or by the thickness of that thin slip of paper. There are places where one might commit such an act and ruin the motor. Precision rules today in the manufacture of the power plant of an automobile.

In the manufacture of the new Jewett motor, D. R. Tompkins of the D. R. Tompkins Motor Co., 219 West Colorado boulevard, local Paige and Jewett distributors, states that the first pistons put into the first car made, January 2, 1925 and those in the last car made December 31, 1925, will not vary so much as the weight of three pennies. If such an error occurred the motor could not get to the block test in the factory before inspectors would notice it.

London fogs are less severe than they were, and this is said to be due principally to the condensation of aqueous vapor on floating particles from soft coal fires.

A museum is to be constructed in Washington as a monument to the nation's inventors and to preserve a record of America's progress in engineering and industry.

WHAT GAS TAX WILL MEAN TO DRIVER

Southern Auto Club Explains Each Motorist Will Pay $20 Each Year

Just what will happen to the average motorist in increased taxes in the event the proposed state legislation goes through is causing some interesting speculation in motoring circles, according to reports reaching the Automobile club of Southern California.

One interested motorist wants to know if it is true that 67 per cent of his state taxes will go to highways that he will seldom use, if ever.

He comes very near to sounding out the situation, according to the figures, as under the proposed tax laws, the license fee will be increased $2 and an addition of 1 cent made to the present 2 cent gasoline tax.

$20 Each Year

This means that the average motorist, instead of paying approximately $13 a year to the state will pay $20. Of the $13 he is now paying, the state gets half. Under the new law, the entire proceeds of the additional 1 cent tax would go to the state, and not half to the counties for maintenance, as is now the case. Should the average motorist pay $20 annually instead of $13 prevailing now, the division, roughly, will be that the state will get $12.50 after the overhead of 8.7 is deducted.

As the state will collect 57 per cent of the taxes in Southern California and proposes to use 66 per cent of the money on state roads in the northern part of the state in the $217,000,000 program required to complete the state system, it appears that the anxious inquirer is right when he figured that 66 per cent of the taxes collected from him by the state will go to roads he rarely, if ever, will see.

Used Car Regulations Recalled For Dealers

According to a bulletin received by the National Automobile club from W. H. Marsh, chief of the state division of motor vehicles, dealers and financiers who have failed to obtain the properly endorsed certificates on second-hand cars prior to 1925 who have neglected to clear repossessed cars are required to submit a fee of $4.50 at the time application is made for duplicate certificates on cars registered prior to 1925. This $4.50 covers the registration fee of $3.00, transfer of $1.00 and duplicate certificate 50 cents with weight fee and a penalty, if the latter is due.

Dealers Warned About Taking Cars in Trade

In order to prevent future trouble and inconvenience to motor car dealers, it is suggested by W. H. Marsh, chief of the state division of motor vehicles, that dealers require non-residents to obtain California registrations on foreign cars before they will be accepted in trade. If this policy is followed out by dealers, there will then be no uncertainty, according to the National Automobile club, to the papers of clearance, that would otherwise be presented to the dealer by the non-resident and transfer will be made to the dealer by means of the 1925 certificates.

Presence of ethylene, now widely used as an anesthetic, in the air, puts blooming carnations to "sleep" for twelve hours without killing them, and colors green citrus fruits yellow.

San Gabriel River to Have Improved Bridge

One of the most important 1925 reconstruction projects in Southern California, according to a recent report received from the touring department of the National Automobile club, will be the erection of a new reinforced concrete bridge across San Gabriel river on Whittier boulevard to take the place of the present county-built wooden structure which has for some time been inadequate for traffic. The bids will be opened by the state highway engineer on April 13. The commission has readvertised also for bids for the construction of the San Juan creek bridge.

Arrest Faces Autoist Without 1925 License

Traffic officers operating under instructions from the state division of motor vehicles will be given instructions to arrest any person driving an automobiile on the public highways without 1925 license plates beginning April 1, according to a bulletin issued by the National Automobile club. The total registrations for 1925 up to date, inclusive of all types of vehicles approximates 1,200,000.

Canadian Tourists To U. S. Given Auto Advice

Canadian tourists crossing the border into the United States are given free of charge thirty day permits covering their automobiles, according to the report issued by the touring department of the National Automobile club. If, at the end of this time, however, the motorist wishes to extend his visit beyond the thirty-day limit, he is compelled to make application for an extension of time and have his car appraised at the United States customhouse, put up a bond for the amount of duty on the car in case it is not returned in the period of extension, and pay a custom broker's fee and secure a consular invoice.

Angeles Forest Leads Recreational Centers

Angeles national forest ranks first in the state of California among the list of fourteen national forests as a recreational center during the year 1924, according to figures compiled by the touring bureau of the National Automobile club. Travel to Santa Barbara national forest was second and Tahoe national forest in Central California ranked third.

'Shingle And Suffer' Doctors Warn Women

LONDON, April 2.—"Shingle and suffer." That in brief is the ultimatum delivered to women by London medical men. The prevalence of shingling is responsible for the large number of minor but excruciating ailments that are now prevalent among women, they say.

Neuralgia, neuritis and many other nerve troubles are a few of the ills brought about by shingling, due to the back of the head being suddenly uncovered after it has been used to being covered for years, they declare.

'Star Boarder' Named In Husband's Divorce

FITCHBURG, Mass., April 2.—Doing all the chamber work, washing the star boarder's clothes and preparing and serving his meals, all in an endeavor to keep peace in the family, was too much for Gaudias Boucher. So Boucher is suing his wife, Pamelia, for divorce, alleging unfaithfulness.

Eugene Bonin, of Lowell, was named by Boucher in his testimony in probate court as the "star boarder." Mrs. Boucher has filed a cross-suit for divorce.

OLDSMOBILE HAS CAMPING FEATURE

Sleeping Accommodations Included With Model Shown By Hunter

From the number of people that came to the sales room of C. H. Hunter, 208-10 West Broadway street to see the Oldsmobile coach with arrangements for sleeping, one would think that nearly everybody likes to go camping and take their own hotel accommodations with them. So many people remarked how nice the arrangements were and how comfortable, and so easily fixed without any alterations.

The back cushion removes and is placed between the rear and the front seats, fitting in this vacancy completely without cutting or any additions being made whatsoever. This makes a bed approximately 6 feet by 4 feet and can be made up in several minutes. There are no extra charges for this feature. There seems to be a large demand this spring for just this sort of an automobile and the Oldsmobile is indeeed fortunate to be able to give the people just what they want.

Death Valley's Scenic Wonders on Auto Trip

world—Death Valley. Just an hour's drive from this point, always descending, and the ground forbidden to men is reached. Immediately one begins to realize why it was so named—not only the sand but the gravel appears to be black and the rocks strewn over it are of countless colors due to volcanic action in past centuries. Ahead is space in all directions, space leading apparently nowhere and not to be measured. To the right is the Funeral Range of mountains and to the left the Panamints, which in early days were the scene of many a gold strike and the proximate cause of so many deaths.

Skulls Tell Story

An hour's drive brings the motorist on level ground and the travel for the rest of the day means a panorama of mountains where the rocks seem almost alive due to their vivid colorings, and desolation in the valley itself.

There are a few springs in Death Valley which are truly havens of rest. A few patches of green vegetation surround these springs, but nowhere else. Each spring has been the objective of many a heat-crazed miner and many there were who failed to reach them and died in the choking heat.

At Tule Springs the ground is strewn with skulls of dead oxen and mules—the faithful animals who pulled the renowned 20-Mule Borax across the desert wastes many years ago, while here and there a wooden sign marks the burial places of those who paid the penalty claimed by the valley.

Devil's Golf Course

The most unusual sight in the valley is the Devil's Golf course. Here are to be seen hummocks of salt which have been forced up out of the clay-covered salt beds by water acting on the soda and alkali. For two miles the route is over these hummocks, a rough, crude trail. The salt formations assume very grotesque forms; in places they resemble cities with spires, tall buildings and cathedrals; in others are to be found types of buildings of every known kind of architecture.

Beyond the salt beds lies Furnace Creek Ranch, the green spot of the valley, the growth there being tropical in nature. This seventy-five-acre tract is owned by the Pacific Coast Borax Co. Water is obtained from a mountain spring. Meals and sleeping quarters are found here.

It is not advisable to cross over the northern end of Death Valley through Wild Rose canyon and Emigrant pass because there are many sand dunes and the road is often obliterated by cloudbursts and sandstorms. While automobiles have gone over this route, it lies over rock-strewn passes, thorugh rough canyons and ravines and is a very hazardous undertaking. No single car is advised to make the trip.

OAKLAND STANDS TEST OF MILEAGE

Minneapolis Owner Writes to Local Dealer Of Real Service Per Mile

To put 37,791 miles on a motorcar speedometer in one year is no mean undertaking in itself even out here on the long stretches of paved boulevards of California, but Jeff Larson of Minneapolis has just completed his first year with his Oakland and he states that on a mileage of this total his Oakland six has cost him only $63.55.

"I drove my Oakland an average of 191 miles a day for the 203 days that I have used it," says Larson in a letter to John Neuschaefer, Glendale Oakland dealer, 420 East Colorado. "I have not spent one cent on the motor and only $63.55 for repairs. This was for two new rear springs and a gas tank which I smashed up in hitting an open culvert while traveling 55 miles an hour on an emergency call.

Tires Stand Up

"My tires have done remarkable service. They have averaged 17,240 miles. One of them went 26,000 miles, without being taken off the wheel.

"On one occasion this year I drove 519 miles in one day and again I drove from the business center of Minneapolis to Fargo, over a bad 16-mile detour, a total of 297 miles in six hours and 40 minutes. With me it is no longer a question of what motor car is best suited to hard and strenuous usage. It is only a matter of which Oakland model suits my work best.'

NEW GAS STATION ADDS TO SERVICE

W. A. Moore Ready To Open On Glendale Boulevard At Riverside Drive

A new gasoline station is being opened for business at the corner of Glendale boulevard and Riverside Drive in Los Angeles. W. A. Moore the proprietor states that he is going to make a special drive for Glendale business as there are always so many cars from Glendale which drive down town. Pan gas and Oils will be handled by the new station, also another good grade of gasoline will be sold at a cheaper rate for those who are looking for this type of gasoline. A motorist will be able to purchase automobile tires and tubes, auto accessories, have his car greased, repaired or have vulcanizing done at the new station.

The Riverside Inn is run in connection with the Service Station and this establishment specializes on home cooked meals with a soda fountain in connection. Sandwiches of all kinds may be had.

All lumber, building materials, hardware, sash, doors, etc., were furnished by the Riverside Lumber Co., who are located one block from the Glendale boulevard bridge west at 3021 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles.

Duarte Chamber Asks Bond Issue For Spans

The Duarte Chamber of Commerce has petitioned the Los Angeles City Council for a bond issue at the coming June election for funds to construct two bridges across the Los Angeles river—one at Glendale boulevard connecting Hyperion avenue and the other at Fletcher drive, according to a report received by the touring department of the National Automobile club, 1305 South Figueroa street, Los Angeles. It is suggested in the petition that the county pay a portion of the cost of these bridges.

What Proposed Gas Tax Will Mean to Motorist

of nine, the proposed division of funds for completion of the state highway system as it now exists will be $144,565,944 for the northern counties and $72,696,478 for the southern counties.

The average motorist is beginning to realize that he is being heavily assessed for highways that get only 10 per cent of his travel, and that the roads which get 90 per cent of his travel and which are built by cities and counties must needs have some attention if he is to do most of his traveling in comfort and safety. The plan of assessing the motorist alone for new construction in the state highway program is arousing widespread opposition.

Texas Beats Tax

People in localities which pay only a fraction of the gasoline tax, approve it as they hope to receive many times over what they are assessed in new state road work.

Texas is the latest state to turn down a proposed increase in gasoline tax. It already has a 1 cent tax, and a bill in the Legislature to raise this to 2½ cents was rejected by the Senate committee on state affairs after the measure had passed the House. An increase in revenue of $8,000,000 was expected from the passage of the bill and one-fourth of this was to be used for school purposes. A graduated weight tax for automobiles was also turned down.

Better Highway Plans To Proceed At Once

main trunk lines through the county would continue indefinitely.

"San Joaquin county has been penalized for its progressiveness of 1915. The same thing is true in Santa Barbara, Sacramento and other counties where the original pavements were built by the county.

"The commission will correct these conditions just as rapidly as funds are available but, under present revenues, it will be five or six years, and probably longer, before all of these county-built highways of the lighter types can be replaced with modern pavements designed to stand up under present day traffic.

"The San Joaquin county situation is only an example of the reconstruction problems facing the highway commission in many parts of California."

NEW NASH SEDAN IS HANDSOME CAR

Luxurious, Has Appearance Of Higher Priced And Larger Auto

Following the biggest sales and production period in its history, Nash motors has announced the introduction of a new four-door sedan on the Nash Special Six chassis. Handsome in appearance and luxurious in appointment, the new sedan has been designed and built for that field of buyers who appreciate and prefer eerything in the way of appearance and luxury usually found in cars of higher price and larger size, according to Charles McDaniel of the McDaniel Motor Co., 1234 South Brand boulevard, local Nash dealers.

The standard equipment includes four-wheel brakes, full balloon tires and five disc wheels. The car is powered with the Nash perfected valve-in-head motor, assuring unusual power, quick accelleration and smooth performance. The silver-finished hardware, including door handles, window lifts and dome light add to its appearance.

The Freedom of the Seas—On Land

ROVERS of the land—these Paige-Jewett travelers. They answer the irresistible call of distance by going wherever they choose—and always getting back.

For the land is an open main for cars like these. They while away long miles with the freedom and certainty of an ocean liner.

Years of such freedom of travel follow the purchase of a Paige or Jewett.

There's power beneath their sparkling beauty that you've never dreamed of. Power that carries you over a mountain pass or through the rough road to camp—always in high—always with the same certainty.

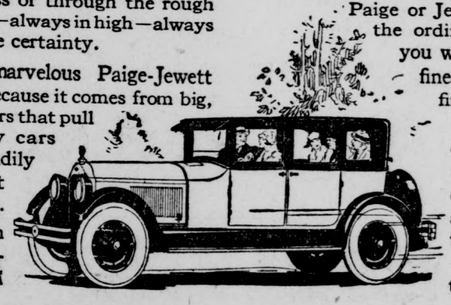
And this marvelous Paige-Jewett power lasts. Because it comes from big, powerful motors that pull these sturdy cars smoothly, steadily in the hardest kind of going.

You seldom think of shifting gears—and on those rare occasions when you do slide into second—it's a simple, effortless movement—thanks to the new Paige-Jewett clutch and transmission. Velvet smoothness at this vital point!

Balloon tire ease is improved by new type spring construction. You ride roughest roads, conscious only of a slow, cradle-like motion.

Something new you say? Decidedly! Unknown until Paige-Jewett engineers produced this superior type of motoring in the New Paige and the New Jewett.

And there's little need for service. Paige or Jewett need but the ordinary attention you would give any fine car—to keep it fine.



For all of the qualities necessary to long, care-free travel are built into these two cars—and built in to stay. (550-3)

JAZZ GIRL HEARS LIFE STORY TOLD

Dorothy's Father On Stand Relates Instances Of Her Misconduct

home, he said. He stated that Dorothy's mother usually remonstrated kindly with the girl, but sometimes grew angry and "yelled at her."

He said Dorothy had been finicky about her eating. Asked about her reputation for truth-telling, said:

"She seemed to want to tell lies most of the time."

He said she was not frank, concealing her conduct from her parents. She was moody and depressed at times. This state of affairs started at the age of 11. He said he had never heard her make threats against her mother.

He told of an occasion in the county jail when Dorothy was being questioned by her attorneys. She was "out of her head," he declared, and said she had cried, screamed, and tore her hair and clothing.

"She was 'hollering,' swearing and cursing like a mad person," he amplified. "She was in a cold sweat and shivering."

He told of an occasion last Tuesday evening after she had fainted in the courtroom when she was in an hysterical state.

Father Grilled

The state subjected the father to a grilling cross-examination.

The father said he had visited his daughter once a week in the county jail, and that on only one occasion had she acted normally.

"She didn't appear to be able to answer questions.

"When I asked her if she realized what she had done, she didn't reply. She didn't seem to realize what it was all about."

He was questioned closely about his conversations with the girl. He insisted that many times she failed to answer simple questions. He declared he always took gifts, but that she never thanked him or showed appreciation other than to seem happier after their receipt.

Ellingson's testimony at the coroner's inquest, in which he said he had observed nothing wrong with the girl's mentality, was read to the jury.

Other testimony given at the coroner's inquest at variance with the father's testimony today was also read. At that time he had stated he had no impression one way or the other as to her sanity.

Tells Death Scene

Police Lieutenant Charles Dullea of the police homicide squad, was called, and described the death scene in the Ellingson home. He told of the gunshot wound and of finding the revolver with which she was slain.

"Have you that revolver?" he was asked.

Dorothy lowered her head as the huge revolver was produced and identified. She did not faint, though, as the exploded shells, two in number, were produced. Her nervousness increased, though, and the police matron placed her arms about her to calm her.

Defense and state clashed over introduction of the weapon. Defense counsel admitted it was their intention to show by circumstantial evidence that Dorothy killed her mother. This was a complete change in their procedure.

Despite the fact she had heard her own father call her insane, seeing a huge revolver with which she is alleged to have killed her mother produced in court and heard the story of the finding of her mother's body, Dorothy, for the first time in a week, walked from the courtroom at noon today without collapsing.

She was smiling as she left the courtroom at the evident discomfiture of Attorney Mooslin, whose face was scarlet.

She was heard to remark "that old Mooslin didn't seem to like it."

Court adjourned early today on account of the absence of certain witnesses.

MOTHER SEES GIRL 15, BURN TO DEATH

Four-Months-Old Daughter Barely Escapes Same Fate In Home

CHICO, Cal., April 2.—Fifteen-year-old Mary Ellen Wright was dead today, having been burned to death in her home in Paradise, near Chico, late yesterday in spite of heroic efforts of her mother to save her. The mother, Mrs. W. A. Wright, succeeded in rescuing her 4-months-old daughter from a blazing crib.

Mary Ellen became hysterical when her clothing caught fire from a stove, and ran into the bedroom where she unintentionally set fire to the crib of her infant sister. After rescuing the baby, Mrs. Wright turned frantically to Mary Ellen, but it was too late.

"A copy of a return sworn to by a husband may be furnished to his wife where it clearly appears on the face of the return that it is a joint return and where there is nothing in the return inconsistent with its being a joint return."

Olympic Games Hinted For Los Angeles Stage

know. The Southern California citadel has been awarded the games for 1932 and has been laying its plans accordingly. It would take a handful of pennies, more or less, to swing the thing in 1928.

Two Competitors

Stockholm and London also have been mentioned as possible sites for the classic, if Amsterdam stops in the back stretch. Two factors, however, are operatng against the chances of either city, to wit: That London had the games in 1908 and Stockholm in 1912. That neither want them now. The latter is regarded by some as an important consideration.

The inference therefor is obvious. If all other possible sites give the proposition a wide detour, Los Angeles probably will feel itself in duty bound to step in four years earlier than expected. It will take a lot of doing.

L. A.'s Promise

In the first place, the coast town has declared itself in favor of a program that will make the holding of the Olympic games there a very expensive privilege. Realizing that Europeans are not only poor but geographically remote, Los Angeles has contracted to take care of their transportation and at present plan to do so by means of an ocean liner that will bring the invaders to the coast through the Panama canal.

The erection of a stadium and quarters for visiting athletes are also major items to be considered in a comprehensive budget. If it had to, could Los Angeles swing it as early as 1928

My bet is that Los Angeles would give it the old college cry.

TORNADO RELIEF FUND IS GROWING

L. A. Chamber Of Commerce Acknowledges Donations By Glendalians

The following letter has been received by A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News, from Emerson Spear, president of the Junior division of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, relating to the contributions for the tornado relief fund, made by residents of Glendale and forwarded by this paper:

"Thank you and the people of Glendale kindly for the contributions to the tornado relief fund. We wish to assure the residents of Glendale that this money will be placed where it will do the most good in alleviating the suffering and hardship of those in the stricken area. All moneys received will be forwarded to the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce and arrangements have been made with them to see that the most effective use of the money has been made."

The donations by Glendalians have passed the $500 mark. The list at noon today shows:

Previously acknowledged	$506.25
Lillian Ballagh	5.00
P. E. Drains	5.00
Total	$516.25

Another institution benefiting by Mr. Brockman's generosity is the Mary Mount Sisters' school for girls, which is housed in the old Brockman home, 814 West Twenty-fifth street, Los Angeles, donated by Mr. Brockman to the Madames of the Sacred Heart. Mr. Brockman was also owner of the Brockman building on Seventh street, Los Angeles. He had resided in Glendale ten years on his estate, which is one of the show places of the foothill district. Surviving him is his only daughter, Mrs. Charles C. Thompson.

'COMING THROUGH' NOW AT GATEWAY

Tom Meighan With Lila Lee Starring In Current Picture Drama

Despite the fact that Thomas Meighan and his company, making "Coming Through" for Paramount on location at Birmingham, Ala., filmed most of their scenes fifteen or twenty miles from the city, hundreds of residents flocked to the location and watched the action every day.

The Birmingham News, the leading newspaper of the city, had to put on a special telephone operator from 8 to 10 o'clock in the mornings to answer the avalanche of queries as to where the company would be working during the day.

Gallery Gods

Many of the spectators even brought their lunches along, parked their cars in the vicinity and made a day of it. But the limit was reached when an elderly lady brought a rocking chair in the rear seat of a small automobile and carried it up close to the base of operations. Comfortably seated there, she watched Tommy Meighan and Director Sutherland do a full day's work.

Is Meighan popular? We'll say so!

"Coming Through," a mining story adapted from the novel, "Bed Rock," by Jack Bethea, will be shown at the Gateway theatre today, Friday and Saturday. Lila Lee, Wallace Beery and others appear in the cast.

First Baptist Church To Hold 'Open House'

Another "Open House" affair is to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at First Baptist church, East Wilson avenue and North Louise street, by the Tri Mu class of the church. Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Howard, Ray Bentley, Mrs. J. W. Baggs, Mrs. Wayland Wood, E. C. Boynton. The class is sponsoring these affairs to provide an opportunity for newcomers to the city to get acquainted Tonight there will be games and radio entertainment.

Horseshoe Club Plans Meeting For Tomorrow

A call has been issued to members of the Glendale Horseshoe and Roque club to meet at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at headquarters to endorse candidates for City Council. George Payne, club president, will preside. With the call to members comes the announcement that no candidates are desired at the meeting.

Madrigal Club Will Hold Extra Rehearsal

The Madrigal club will hold an extra rehearsal tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Congregational church for the old folks' concert, to be held April 17. All members are urged to be present and bring their music for the concert.

Romantic Kid

HOOT GIBSON, in "The Hurricane Kid" at Glendale Theater, gets away from "rough stuff."

A romantic story of western ranchers, their hardihood, sportsmanship and courage, is told in "The Hurricane Kid," Universal-Hoot Gibson special production now showing at the Glendale theater.

Like the past few Gibson productions it was staged in the most beautiful western backgrounds obtainable in the ranch country of California, and directed by Edward Sedgwick, maker of the best Gibson attractions.

The cast includes Marian Nixon, who under contract with Fox has played with Tom Mix, Buck Jones and other western stars, and is regarded as one of the most promising actresses of the younger group today. Others in the cast supporting Gibson are William A. Steele, Harry Todd, Arthur Mackley, Fred Humes, Violet La Plante and "Pal," Gibson's beautiful horse.

Special care was taken to get the most unusual scenes in western picture history of "Pal" and other horses in natural "horse stuff."

Gibson, known for his human interpretations of the western type of hero, usually so conventionally portrayed, has the role of an itinerant cowboy who blunders into one mess after another because of a high regard for the ladies and a determination to see no wrong go unavenged. It is a role requiring a human emphasis rather than the customary gun fighting "rough stuff."

The vaudeville offering includes Lou Zoeller, song writer, and Janet Bodwell, the world's smallest prima donna in "Numbers of Their Own." Benito, in "Fiddling Around," is a feature of the bill.

ference tents will be pitched, and on which smaller tents to house the attending Adventists will be erected. All of the visiting members will reside under canvas during the ten-day conference.

For general meetings a large auditorium will be erected near the front of the tract.

The Southern California conference is considered one of the most important of the four that are located in California. Two years ago the annual camp meeting was held at Los Angeles, when more than 3,000 Adventists attended.

Series of Meets

Beginning about May 1, a series of evangelical meetings will also be started in Glendale, to continue up to the time of the camp meeting, it was announced today. They will be conducted by Rev. Philip Knox, Long Beach pastor. The location had not been determined upon today.

These meetings, it was said, will be exceptionally interesting and instructive because of the fact that Rev. Knox is a talented astronomer. His lectures will be illustrated with stereopticon slides of astronomical subjects, showing the power of God in creating the universe and the heavens.

THEATRE OFFERS BETTER PARKING

Increased Crowd At Players Performances Of 'Manna' Are Accommodated

The increase in attendance at the Glendale Playhouse the past few weeks has resulted in some congestion at the corner of Central avenue and Lexington road during theatre hours when cars are parked on all sides of the surrounding blocks. There is heavy traffic with some delay just before curtain time, partially because neither street is of very great width. To remedy this, Mrs. Dobinson announces that, through the kindness of the Stombs Realty Co., cars may be parked on the Stombs lot.

The Stombs company's office is at the lower corner of Central avenue and Lexington, across the latter street from the theatre. The vacant lot in rear stretches down Lexington for a distance of nearly half a block, and will accommodate scores of cars. Entrance to it is gained by a driveway down Lexington, nearly opposite the entrance to the Playhouse's stage door. The lot may be used by patrons of the theatre free of charge. In parking they will observe such rules as will permit them and others to get cars out safely.

"Manna", the current play, is so many sided that different patrons are impressed by different bits. The splendid work of Miss Lloyd as Kitty Schneider and the revealment of greater histrionic powers than he was suspected of possessing by Joseph McManus as Peter Linden are two of the sensations of the play. Joe Cox gives a powerful portrayal of the severe and obstinate old grocer, Papa Schneider, and Ethan Allen's unctuous humor as Policeman O'Hara are frequently mentioned.

Vets Impersonated

But the four disabled veterans, buddies of Peter, are not forgotten when praise is being apportioned. Edward Peil as "Nellie" O'Brien; Richard Ehlers as "Slim," the tubercular boy; Charles O'Malley as "Goofie," who is slightly off as a result of shellshock; and James Worsley as Kelly, are so natural that one really forgets they are acting. There are no false notes in their portrayals individually, and they work together with admirable skill. They are just strays of humanity, blasted from busy and useful careers by the holocaust of war, and still somewhat dazed by the savage relentlessness of the blow.

The scene in which the three others tease the belligerent O'Brien is especially well done. Because, while it seems merely like horseplay, there is an undernote of pathos because "Nellie" is incapable physically of carrying out his threats, and if he were they, in similar lack of strength, would fall like grass before him.

"Manna" seems due for a long run. Because there are all the human elements in it that make for a long run—pathos, dramatic suspense and smiles. Everybody goes away happy.

With each photograph will go a number, and at 10 o'clock there will be a drawing of numbers and the holder of the lucky number will be given a French lamp doll, an exact reproduction of Miss Rich in costume, as she appears in her late picture, "Idaho."

Special window displays and counter decorations are being arranged on an elaborate scale. Otto K. Olsen will have charge of lighting. He is working with P. L. Morris, Pendroy's decorator. Factor preparations will be featured in one of the large display windows. In the other windows fashion's dictates for spring will be shown. There will be ready-to-wear, millinery, lingerie, infants' goods, shoes and lace tunics, shown in various styles, colors and materials.

Employes of the store will be in their departments and while nothing will be sold, merchandise will be shown.

MAC BAIN BACKED FOR CITY COUNCIL

Club Formed Of Professional Business Men to Back His Campaign

At a meeting held last night and attended by a number of business and professional men of this city, the "MacBain for Council Club" was organized. Harry E. Hall was elected chairman and will have charge of the club's activities in the campaign to be launched for MacBain's election.

Headquarters have been established at the business offices of the Valley Mortgage & Finance Co., 221 East Broadway. Members of the club have pledged themselves to support their candidate and to foster in every way possible the best interests of Mr. MacBain.

Automobiles will be provided for voters on election day and every effort made to insure a large vote. Owing to the fact that many candidates have entered the race for council, the club will propose no ticket but confine their efforts strictly to the MacBain campaign.

Preliminary details for a comprehensive canvass of the city were completed today and many new members were added to the organization. Chairman Hall has called a meeting of the club for next Wednesday evening, April 8, to be held at the business offices of Twining & Myers, realtors, 108 West Broadway.

HINDU KILLS TWO RICH FARMERS

Landowner and Fruit Grower Shot Dead Following Row Near Brawley

BRAWLEY, Cal., April 2.—Victor Sterling, prominent landowner, pioneer of Imperial valley, and John B. Hager, owner of the Certified Fruit Co., are dead here today following a shooting affray late last night when they were killed by Parker Singh, a Hindu. The shooting occurred five miles southeast of Calipatria, near Brawley.

Two bullets from a .45 calibre pistol entered Sterling's body, one passing through his chest and the other blowing off the top of his head. Hager was shot several minutes later in a lettuce field where he ran after the first shots had been fired.

The twelve animals were in individual crates, and were immediately taken to Hollywood, where they will appear in pictures with their driver. The dogs and Kasson left Tacoma on March 31, after a long trip over the snow and aboard ship from Alaska.

To The Public

In a sworn affidavit presented for publication today, George Seal, candidate for the Glendale City Council, branded as false an impression created by a newspaper story that he was involved in an attempt to drive the Los Angeles Basket Co. out of its Glendale plant.

In the affidavit Mr. Seal sets forth that he presented the petition against the operation of the basket company to City Clerk A. J. Van Wie, but that he acted only in the capacity of a messenger for business men and property owners of South Glendale, who requested him to make the delivery. Mr. Seal alleges that he had no knowledge of the contents of the document he delivered.

"I want it made plain to the voters of Glendale that I favor the establishment of more industries in Glendale and the protection of those that are already here," Mr. Seal said, in discussing the affidavit. "I withdrew from membership in the Chamber of Commerce because that organization refused to assist me in establishing a laundry in Glendale that would have employed several hundred persons.

"On the other hand," Mr. Seal continued, "I favor the muffling and silencing of machinery at the basket factory that is now keeping residents of the south Glendale district awake at nights. This, I understand, can be done without injury to the business in any way."

AFFIDAVIT

GEORGE SEAL, being by me duly sworn, deposes and says: That on the morning of Tuesday, March 31st, 1925, in the course of his business calls in the southern part of the city of Glendale, he was handed a paper by one of the prominent business men and residents of the southern part of said city, and asked by said person to deliver the said paper to the City Clerk of Glendale, in the capacity of a messenger only; that he agreed to do so and did so deliver the said document to the City clerk, without acquainting himself with the contents, subject matter or tenor of said document, and that he was, and in fact still is, unacquainted with the subject matter and contents of the said document, and in performing the delivery of the said mentioned document to the City Clerk of Glendale, he did so in the capacity of a bearer of a message and without any interest or motive whatsoever in so doing; and that any statement to the effect that in delivering any document to the City Clerk of Glendale he did so in the capacity of one circulating a petition derogatory to the Los Angeles Basket Co. is without fact or foundation.

GEORGE SEAL.

State of California,) County of Los Angeles) SS.

I, Raymond W. Lee, a Notary Public, in and for said county, and state, do hereby certify that George Seal, affiant in the foregoing affidavit named, was by me duly sworn; that said affidavit was then taken at my office in the State of California, County of Los Angeles, City of Glendale, on the Second day of April, 1925, between the hours of 9:00 A. M. and 10:00 A. M. of that day; that said affidavit was reduced to writing by me, and when completed was by me carefully read to said affiant, and being by him attested was by him subscribed in my presence.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal the day and year in this certificate first above written.

RAYMOND W. LEE,
Notary Public in and for said County and State.

PECULIAR FEARS OF RACE DRIVERS

Afraid To Take Any Chances In Traffic, But None At 133 Miles Per

By SPEED WAYE
Written for The Evening News

CULVER CITY, April 2.—What is fear to an automobile racer? Have they any fear? Do you think that a man who could whirl around a wooden saucer at the rate of 135 miles per hour would have any fear in his make-up? With the thumb on the nose constantly being wagged at Death and an utter scorn for what everybody says is the speed at which the Grim Reaper exacts his toll, racing drivers would not be accorded any misgivings, yet—

If you pulled a gun on Harry Hartz he would run for a week, even if he did keep on racing after he pulled a series of "Gilhoolies" in front of a grandstand at 130 miles per hour and kept on going.

Tommy Milton hates to drive his wife downtown in Los Angeles. He has an utter respect, approaching awe, for the truck-driver who wheels a Ford delivery van or a grocery car around the myriad crossings downtown or through the massed traffic. He is bathed in a cool sweat any time he does this—yet if you saw Tommy scooting by the side of a rival on the turn in the race or entering into a brush with a foeman at faster than 133 miles per hour on the straightaway, you would never think the man had any qualms in his makeup at all.

Are Poor Sailors

Many pilots fear the sea. They are not afraid of being sick, but they have a dread of a ducking in the cold salt water. A trans-ocean trip is the last thing they want, and the thing they desire to duck most. They would drive in a race across the ocean on a bridge at 140 miles per hour, but riding the waves is something else again. Funny, isn't it?

DePaola won't go into a race until he has his lucky piece. He feels something is going to happen to him. If he comes to grief during the race he will blame himself for forgetting the mascot. If he did not have the mascot but thought he had it, he would not be perturbed in the least. Psychology, maybe, but fact, nevertheless.

Anyway, on Sunday, April 19, at the Culver City speedway, fans will have a chance to study these personages at the racket in which they take everything so-so and marvel at the fact that everyone of them suffers from some little complex which strikes terror to the heart stout enough to withstand the things an ordinary person would die from. Yet the things these drivers fear are the things which never register on the nervous system of the ordinary layman.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

Failure of the Christian church team members to show up last night at the Harvard High school gym prevented the Calla Lily casaba tossers from fattening up their individual scoring records. No forfeit was claimed, by the milkmen in hopes the churchmen would be able to play the game before the season ended. It is the only remaining game on the milkmen's schedule, and when it is played, the Calla Lily team will stand in second place with nine victories and three defeats, making their percentage .750.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Just how Joe Benjamin is likely to shape up for his bout against Tommy O'Brien, the middle western knocker-out in their bout at the Velodrome on April 30, will be made clear on the west coast shortly when the Stockton Fashion-Plate will tackle Ace Hudkins.

Hudkins, who migrated from Nebraska to the sunny California clime, is regarded by many as the best lightweight on the coast and if Joe gets by him in good style many easterners reverse their opinions.

Vic Foley, who holds the bantamweight championship of Canada by virtue of his knockout victory over Howard Mayberry, is being quietly groomed for a shy at Charley Rosenberg, the world's bantamweight titleholder.

Foley is very shy in the matter of publicity but his fists have been doing a lot of talking for him of late. Two sizzling draw bouts with Mike Ballerino, who is credited with a victory over Kid Sullivan, the junior lightweight champion, should be sufficicent to stamp the Canadian champion as classy.

But in addition he has beaten Midget Smith, Danny Edwards, But Ridley and Johnny Farr. Ridley is the boxer who carried Kid Kaplan, the featherweight champion, through ten tumultuous rounds and Johnny Farr's work is well known. Foley is one of those little chaps who does not mind spotting an apponent several pounds in addition to a beating.

Benny Leonard is playing in vaudeville in Newark this week and among the social events likely to happen will be an official call on the late lightweight king by the present welter emperor, Mickey Walker. Jersey is Mickey's home state and the least he can do is to make Benny welcome.

MERCHANTS PLAY CLASSY HATTERS

'Red' Conkwright To Hurl In Sunday's Game; Visitors Have Strong Team

After being rained out last Sunday, the Glendale Merchants will take the field against the Classy Hatters next Sunday afternoon at the local baseball park on San Fernando road, determined to make up for the layoff. They will need all the strength they can muster, for the Classy Hatters come to Glendale with a record that makes them the favorites.

Manager M. R. Bacom announces he will use Walter Hydler, who turned back the Buick Autos two weeks ago, and "Red" Conkwright, stellar hurler with the Danville, Ill., club last season. Conkwright has been sold by the Danville club to Memphis, of the Southern league, but will be available for next Sunday's game. He pitched for Burbank last winter, winning seventeen out of twenty games. He and Hydler will share the pitching burden, Nobles doing the receiving.

The Hatters defeated the Pacific Electric club during the winter season, and won twenty-eight out of thirty-four games. Ardnt is scheduled to do the hurling for the visitors and his battery mate will be Naghbauer. Manager Bacom announces the new fence has been put around the park and hereafter a small admission charge will be made.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Placed in the hands of a competent trainer, Luis Angel Firpo, the fur-bearing human being, could and would take his place once more among the leading contenders for the heavyweight title, was the opinion expressed by Jimmy De Forrest as he carefully marked the dotted line for Tom Gibbons and Gene Tunney. He didn't say, in so many words, that Firpo could defeat either or both under these conditions. One could simply draw one's conclusions.

"Firpo has the strength and the punch," De Forrest said. "He has the heart and he can take it. There is not the slightest doubt in my mind, that, if he will make up his mind to take training seriously, he will be back where he was before, challenging for the title."

James himself doesn't crave the position. He trained Dempsey for the Willard bout at Toledo and the best he got out of that was the air, beneficial but inexpensive. Next, he teamed up with Firpo at a time when the latter thought a right cross was something you used for a headstone.

Within a year, De Forrest had moulded a handful of red clay into white statuary and Firpo, on the threshhold of his big moment, decided that he had come to a point where advice was not only irksome but unnecessary. At a single gesture, Firpo was without a trainer and Jimmy De Forrest was without a job.

Firpo then went on alone to stop Willard but was lucky to get away with it. He was a sensation against Dempsey because the champion lost his head and fought like a stevedore. Firpo, poorly trained and without proper attention in his corner, was within a punch of the title. He never landed it because the only level head in his corner was flat.

De Forrest, quiet and efficient, might have made Firpo champion that night. And he thinks it can be done again.

"But not by me" he disclaimed hastily. "I'm a matchmaker now and about to get something out of boxing for the first time. Yet I want to make this clear. Firpo right now is a great prospect for any man who can take hold of him and make him do the right thing. He is young, only twenty-eight and so strong that I don't believe he has hurt himself by his manner of living.

"He is coming back from abroad soon, and from what I have been given to understand, is ready to place himself in charge of some competent trainer.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

FORT BENNING, Ga., April 2.—It is the pitching, everybody says, that will tell the tale for the Washington club this year. It's the pitching that will make or break the Giants. It's the pitching that will settle the fate of the Yanks and it is the pitching that will show whether Ty Cobb can get through with Detroit this season.

Maybe so. Pitchers are as necessary to baseball as water to a bath. But there is something bigger and smarter than pitching about the Washington Americans this year, something that no club in either league possesses, something that never has been as prominently in evidence as this spring.

One of the biggest factors for the success of Washington is possession of that pair of instantaneous, sixty flashes a minute, sure shooters at second base and shortstop. There is no pair like the combination of Roger Peckinpaugh and Stanley Harris in either league, and for that matter none like them in the world.

They are going faster than they did in 1924. They are the most perfect human machine that ever played short and second together, and they have the added proof of the records to bear that out. There may have been greater individual players than either of them in their positions, and there probably have been, but there is no combination like them, and never has been.

It is their ability to get the "second man" part of the time and in some games most of the time, that makes them mean so much to the Washington club. They can get more "second men" than any pair in baseball.

Many clubs try for double plays and get the first runner but misses the second. This pair gets the second runner more times than any other pair on the diamond.

Do you realize what that means in baseball? It means when the double play is the first two out that Roger and Buck get not only the first man but the second who might be a subsequent menace to the team and score a run. It means that day after day, where other clubs are trying for the second runner and failing to get him, Roger and Buck are putting him out of the way.

In the world series it was the fast double plays that was raising hob with the Giants. Partisans called them lucky. They weren't. It is what this pair is doing all of the time.

How do they do it? By perfect co-operation. Roger is in his position and calls to Harris as some butter comes up, "Get away from me, Stan." That means Harris is to go over toward first base. Or he may call to him and say "move up closer, I'll swing over."

If the batter is a man who is likely to hit to deep short, back to third, Harris will call to Roger, "I'll take care of the bag. You look after the throw." Another batter may threaten to hit near second. Peck will call to Harris, "stick close by. We'll pin this fellow on a toss and a quick one to Joe," the latter being Joe Judge at first. And so it goes all the afternoon. One calling to the other and both of them knowing how they intend to try to make the play and both of them ready to go through with it.

They are supreme in this form of defense and when the Washington team goes after its second pennant there is nothing, perhaps not even the pitchers, that will help it more, because that deadly old sabre, cutting the second runner down time after time, reduces scoring chances by just the number of times that it succeeds and runs, not base hits, win ball games.

If you can smother runs you can let the other team maul itself black in the face for a batting average.

Walter Johnson's favorite diversion, aside from baseball, is casino. He is the casino champion of the Washington club. He had just swept the board, capturing Big Casino and the ten of spades with the ten of clubs when he was asked how he had wintered.

"Pretty well," said Walter, "for an old man." A wink in his eye.

"But you never should call yourself old."

"I want to get in the swim," answered the big fellow. "They all called me old last fall, didn't they? And some of them held my funeral. I just thought I would try to be popular and swing in with the rest of the 'boys.'"

"How many games will you win this year?"

"Exactly as many as this arm will let me—and you will note that it is still pretty good in taking big casino."

STRONGER SEALS' TEAM PROMISED

Manager Ellison Says All Departments In Better Shape This Year

By BERT ELLISON
Manager San Francisco Baseball Club

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The club that will represent San Francisco in the Coast League race this season will be stronger in every department than the club of last year. Our pitchers are better, the infield will open its third season together and our outfield will be stronger. The catching, with the three veterans, Sam Agnew, Archie Yelle and Pete Ritchie, cannot be improved upon as a combination.

The addition of Pitchers Douglas McWeeney, Jeff Pfeffer and Dick Moudy should make our pitching staff the best in the league. Oliver Mitchell won twenty-eight games last year. That was the largest string of wins handed in by any pitcher in the league. Today he is in better shape than at this time last year.

More Experience

Marty Griffin and Guy "Lefty" Williams were untried at this time last season. This year they are trying out with a year's experience and should do a great deal better. Bill Crocket had a year's experience before joining us and he shows promise of becoming a great right hand pitcher.

Bob Geary, the old reliable, will again turn in twenty or more wins. Jeff Pfeffer and Doug McWeeney will step right along with the leading pitchers of the circuit. Dick Moudy will be the biggest sensation to break into the coast league in years. Never before in my experience in baseball have I seen a pitcher, either veteran or youngster, who had as many different kinds of deliveries and curves as Moudy. He will be the real surprise of this circuit this season.

BOWLING SCORES

The Smokehouse pin shooters, entered in the Mercantile league by Paul Leuthner, proprietor of the Smokehouse, 220½ East Broadway, carried off high honors in the league, the schedule coming to an end within the last few days. The league leaders had a margin of seven victories on their nearest opponents, the Central Cleaners. Leuthner rolled in sixty games, shooting a total of 10,164 pins for an average of 181. The league standings are:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Smokehouse	46	17	.730
Central Cleaners	39	24	.619
Brown Drug	37	23	.617
Paenner Bros.	38	25	.603
Glendale Bootery	31	32	.492
Palace Barbers	22	38	.367
Coast to Coast	23	40	.365

TO NIGHT'S CAGE GAMES

The last game in the fifth week of play for the second round of the Glendale Merchants' basketball league will be played tonight when the Radios and the Legion teams clash at the Harvard High school gym. The Radios defeated the Standard Oilers Tuesday night, and are on their way to tie with the Calla Lily aggregation for second place. The Legion is in next to cellar positions, and the Radios should have no trouble winning tonight's contest. In the first round the Radios defeated the Legion team 41 to 11.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, April 2.—From all points in Wisconsin the writer has heard glowing tales of the work George Little has been doing in reviving interest and enthusiasm in Wisconsin throughout the state.

Spring football practice brought to an end a spirited campaign of university propaganda in which almost every day found the new athletic director at Madison in some part of the Badger state pleading the Wisconsin cause with fiery oratory.

Clubs and civic organizations throughout the state are keen for this keen type of college man and there is no doubt that the next football season will see the Wisconsin eleven supported solidly and miltantly.

There will be seven weeks of spring practice at Madison and real work will begin April 1. Besides Irv Uteritz, the former Michigan quarterback, and Jim Brader, Guy Sundt who won fame in the Badger line, will assist Little in laying the groundwork for the autumn campaign.

With the idea of furthering interest in football among the students. Little has invented a game corresponding in some respects to tag football, which will be introduced as an intra-mural sport next fall. Little hopes to have at least 500 students engaged in this game at Camp Randall.

He and Dr. Meanwell will conduct a summer coaching school at Madison for two weeks beginning June 15 and later at the regular summer coaching school session Little, Lowman, T. E. Jones, Dr. Meanwell and Fieldin Yost will hold classes in athletics.

The football season is yet a long way off but one game of the 1925 season offers right now a thrill to the writer. That is the Wisconsin-Michigan contest of October 17, the first big game of the western conference season. In this game the football strategy of Little will be pitted against that of Yost and Herrin, and in this, all other things being equal, will be found a partial answer at least to the debate which has long interested Ann Arbor as to whether or not Little ever got his just dues at Michigan.

Tom Jones, former director of athletics at Wisconsin, who is now concentrating on his track specialty, is preparing to take his track and field stars on a long, long journey the second week in April. The team, which looks like one of the best ever developed at Madison, will travel to the west coast, meeting en route Kansas, Utah and New Mexico, concluding with a meet against the University of California at Berkeley.

California, which annually shines in the weights, will be entered the Badger shot heaver, Herbert Schwartz, a Milwaukee boy, who put the shot 47 feet 3½ inches at the recent Illinois relays. Captain Vallely, a miler, who has done 4.24; Pat McAndrews, who runs the century in under ten seconds and Bergstresser a sophomore miler, are among the stars who will accompany the team in the first western invasion in the history of Badger athletics.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

Copyright, D. Appleton & Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

"What are they up to? Devilry! Undermining American institutions; destroying American property and American lives—that's what they're up to. Who are they? Germans who couldn't down America in one way, so are trying to do it in another; Russians who want to make this country the hell they have made their own; Italians who want to tear down everything that is tried and old because they are so fed up with antiquity; Irish who don't know what they want, and all the people who want what the other fellow has got."

"Most of the world then."

"Well, there are a few others of us, but we mostly sit back on our heels, eyes shut, ears shut, and let a gang like these get in their work."

"Oh, come now, Flint!" protested Graham.

"Well, don't we? What are you doing about it, eh? No, we let them burrow, burrow, burrow, and by and by there'll be a crash. Down will come our government crashing about our feet. Then we'll wake up and say: 'Dear, dear! Who'd have thought it!'"

"Oh, I say!" again protested Graham, but more feebly.

"I got wise to this particular plot we're trying to scotch by a lucky chance, while I was working on something quite different—funny how things at the opposite poles touch sometimes. I'm not saying what the plot is—not yet, but they don't mean to make a fizzle of it like the Wall street affair—they mean to get their men this time, sure. They're not going to; we've taken our measures, but they think they are. We were just waiting to get a last bit of evidence before rounding up the whole bunch. Also we wanted to coax a certain big fish into the net before pulling it in. The man Brown was the big fish sure as you're born."

"And now, by my clumsiness, I've scared off the big fish and all the minnows," mourned Graham.

"Now, there's no use crying over spilt milk," said Flint consolingly. You've marked our big fish for us, that's certain. He may have broken your line and made off, but he's got your hook in his nose, and you'll know him for your fish when the time comes. We've had our eyes on this man you call Brown, but who has another name with a Von to it, but we haven't been able, till now, to connect him positively with this particular gang. But as soon as I heard that your Mr. Brown was the man that my Mr. Brown, otherwise Garvy, was following, I knew you had marked our fish for us."

Flint took a last look round the shed in which stood the empty ash cans. "Haven't left a scrap of anything, confound them!" he growled. "Now for that back exit. It's got to be in this shed somewhere. It doesn't open into the sheds on either side, for we know all about the people who own them—they are straight. The man whose shed backs up on this one is 100 per cent American, too—a plumber, if you remember, name Merrit. His place is two doors off, from the gentleman who is planning to bury us. Between them Mike Healey has a grocery store, and next him there's a Jew tailor."

Graham was a good deal impressed. "How in the world did you see all that? I only saw the paperhanger and the undertaker."

"Nothing so wonderful when you consider that I've been all over that ground before. We had an idea that there might be a back way out, but we hadn't found it; the scoundrels had ringed themselves round with so much respectability, real or seeming. There was a nice little woman, clever as they make them, in that shop of yours when I was there—not a trace of the foreigner about her, but a Russian, I guess, all the same. That smiling boy you found there was a blunder."

"But where is your exit?" demanded Graham. "I don't see any way out of here."

"Where such scoundrels as these are concerned, look for the path that's natural to them—the downward one. It's here somewhere."

Flint went carefully over every foot of the rough flooring, stamping and listening. At last, in the protecting shadow of the ash cans, the postulated opening was found.

"Give me a hand here," Flint called.

In a moment the two men had lifted the unnailed boards and disclosed a deep excavation reached by means of a rough ladder.

"Might be a trench in Flanders," said Flint, as he lowered himself into its depths.

The bottom of the ladder reached, Flint turned on his electric torch. A narrow passage was then disclosed which ran back a few feet under the rear wall of the shed before it turned sharply to the left.

"Now, what do you know about that!" he cried. "Look at it run right under the corner of our 100 per cent American plumber's shed! They beat the world for impudence, those fellows!"

Crouching low, the two men made their way along the tunnel till they found the way blocked by a second ladder. Flint handed his torch to Graham, and mounted. In a moment he was down again.

"Nailed down his floor, but forgot to pull up his ladder, like a fool," he said. "As I measure it up, we're under Mike Healey's shed. Think of a decent Irishman mixing up in a thing like this! From what our friend, the undertaker, said, there must be a way through the sheds beyond Healey's and four perfectly good exits through four different shops. Plain as daylight when you know. I'll have a few pleasant words with Mike Healey some time, I'm thinking."

John Graham had given little thought to talk about anarchistic activities in America. He still gloried in its door open wide to all the people of the earth. He still called his land the Melting Pot. But now, this trench, dug by alien spades in the sacred soil of his native land, became to him all at once the grave of his illusions. Looking down into it, he felt suddenly old and sad, for each illusion as it goes takes a bit of a man's youth with it. Before the war he had had illusions about Germany. Out of imagination plus a very superficial knowledge he had created an ideal—a jumble of Beethoven's symphonies and the Liebestod; clean streets; beer and derschoen. Vaterland, aufwiedersehen; moonlight on the castle of Heidelberg. This illusion had perished on the bottlefields of France. And now Italy—a word that brought to his mind all beauty, all delight—the lapping of water against the marble steps of old palaces; the sweetness of Umbrian art; Browning's "Wind-Grieved Apennines"; divine little cakes in the via Santi Apostoli; now Italy of his dreams was proved also an illusion, for Italian hands had helped dig this ditch; Italian brains, according to Flint, were plotting to destroy all he revered. And Fitzpatrick—he was in the plot, too. And Evadne—could it be that she was cognizant of it?

Flint seemed to read his thoughts. "You see now," he said suddenly, "why I wanted to keep Mrs. Hurst's name out of the murder investigations. I knew she was somehow in with this bunch before I read her letter; my man heard her trying to telephone to this house, you remember. We didn't want to scare our birds, and we were afraid that if she was made to tell her story at the inquest she would lose her head and let out something which would put them on the run before we were ready to nab them. So the inspector and I fixed it up to keep her out of it for the present. We are keeping our eyes on her, of course."

Graham's heart sank. "I thought you had given up that idea," he managed to say. "I had begun to credit you with some sense—some insight."

Flint's eyes twinkled. "Sorry to have lost your good opinion," he said. Then he added gravely: "To be frank with you, Mr. Graham, I didn't think at first that Mrs. Hurst had anything to do with her husband's murder in spite of what you will admit was pretty strong evidence against her. It was just a hunch I had. But as soon as I found out that she was in touch with the men we were watching, I wasn't so sure about her. A woman who was in with them I would doubt every day in the week, even if she looked as innocent as a baby."

Graham could keep up his feeble pretense of indifference and detachment no longer. "For God's sake don't talk like that, Flint!" he cried. "I've got to believe in her—I love her, man! I've simply got to believe in her. I've got to prove her innocent of the veriest shadow of guilt, and you've got to help me."

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HOLE

Once upon a time, when Sammie and Susie Littletail, the rabbit boy and girl, were playing with Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, in the woods, the animal children saw an old stump, with a number of holes in different places on the rough bark.

"Oh, what a nice old stump," cried Susie.

"It's like the postoffice, with little holes, for windows, where you can get different kinds of stamps," said her brother.

"One, two, three, four, five holes," counted Johnnie, the squirrel.

"That's one apiece and one left over," added his brother Billie. "Let's each choose a hole for ourselves and we can put different things in them, like nuts, when we find them. Only, since Sammie and Susie don't eat nuts, they can put carrots and lettuce in their holes."

"But what shall we put in number five hole?" asked Susie.

"We'll call that Uncle Wiggily's hole," suggested Johnnie. "He can put anything he likes in his hole—candy or nuts or money or anything he wants to, and we could come and get things after he's through with them."

The animal children thought this would be great fun, and they played for some time at the stump of the five holes, the rabbits putting in their two holes bits of carrot and cabbage, while in their holes Johnnie and Billie placed nuts, acorns and things that squirrels like.

"Now, let's go and tell Uncle Wiggily about his hole," suggested Susie, when they had finished playing for the day.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, we found a lovely hole in a stump for you," chattered Billie, when the four animal children called on the bunny gentleman in his bungalow.

"And when you want to give us lollypops or gum drops you can leave them in your hole in the stump and we'll go get them," offered Sammie.

"Will you? That's fine," laughed the bunny uncle. And he really did put good things to eat in the stump hole, from time to time. So the animal boys and girls got the habit of calling it "Uncle Wiggily's Hole," and Tommie Kat, the pussy boy, printed that name over the stump with a bit of fire-blackened stick for a pencil.

For many days Uncle Wiggily left little treats in his hole for the animal children. They would reach their paws down inside the stump, and nearly always they would pull out a bit of candy, an apple or perhaps a penny.

One day the Fuzzy Fox happened to pass the jolly old stump. He saw the openings in it and read the sign "Uncle Wiggily's Hole."

"Oh, ho," said the Fox to himself. "The old rabbit is trying to fool me. That's why I haven't seen him lately. He's living in this hole instead of his bungalow. But I'll soon have him out."

Then, thinking Uncle Wiggily was down inside the hole, marked with his name, the Fox reached his paw in crying:

"Come on out! I've got you!" But of course Uncle Wiggily wasn't there, so the Fox didn't get him. "He must be away down at the bottom of the hole," said the bad chap to himself. "But I'll get him."

Standing on his tiptoes, the Fox reached down as far as he could—away, away down, until his paw was stuck inside the stump so far that he couldn't pull it out again—it was caught fast at the bottom of the hole where there was a crack in the wood.

"Ouchie! Wowchie! Let go of me, Uncle Wiggily. Let go!" howled the Fox. "I guess you've caught me instead of me catching you. Let go." But Uncle Wiggily wasn't in the hole to let go, so he couldn't help the Fox any. And there the bad chap had to stay caught, until the Police Dog happened to pass and, seeing the bad chap, arrested him, and took him off to jail, getting his paw loose with the corkscrew.

And as the Fox was being taken off to jail, along came the bunny gentleman with a bag of gum drops which he put in the stump hole for the animal children. So, after all, something good came out of the rabbit's hole that day. And if the head of the stairs doesn't try to hang its hat on our dog's tail when he wants to wag it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's bow and arrow.

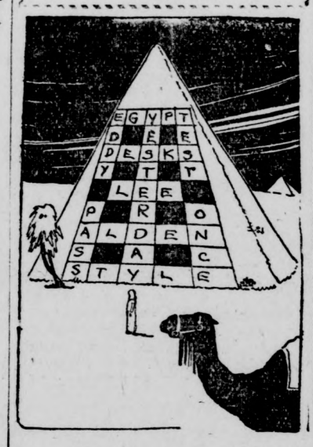
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED



Vice-President Dawes Interested In Gas Co.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 2.—Announcement that the vice-president of the United States, together with his associates, has acquired control of the $5,000,000 Jacksonville Gas Co., was heralded by business men here as a sure sign that the Florida gateway city is on the verge of a tremendous boom.

General Charles G. Dawes visited this city recently, and the purchase of the local gas company by the Dawes interests, of Chicago, of which his brother, Rufus C. Dawes, is president, was believed to be a direct result of the visit.

Eight-Months' Old Boy Asks College Course

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Perhaps the youngest matriculant to apply for entrance in any college or university in the country is Joseph Walter Bond, Jr., 8-months-old, who informed the University of Pennsylvania recently through his father, an alumnus, that he wants to enter Penn so he can graduate with the class of 1945.

Venison from the reindeer is rapidly becoming a regular item on the menus of restaurants throughout the northwest and is popular at clubs in the larger cities of this country.

F. W. Woolworth Co. Building

Glendale

With more than double the floor space it formerly occupied at 111 North Brand boulevard the F. W. Woolworth Co. will open its doors at 113 North Brand boulevard at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Open house will be held during the afternoon and evening, but no merchandise will be sold. An orchestra has been provided for the opening, and souvenir balloons will be given to the kiddies who attend.

Continual growth of business transacted by the company in Glendale since its establishment here three years ago necessitated the change, according to Manager E. F. Peck. The new location, a building especially erected for the Woolworth Co., has been equipped with wholly new fixtures and stock. The first floor and basement will be occupied by the company, and the second floor will be leased, according to Mr. Peck.

On Saturday morning at 8 o'clock the store will be open to buyers with a long list of articles especially priced in celebration of the expansion. They will include enamel ware, towels, decorated serving baskets, chinaware, aluminum ware, canvas shoes, fiber silk hose, rubber aprons, pillow cases and candies.

The present store will be closed finally at noon tomorrow, Mr. Peck said today.

"We have enjoyed a remarkable growth in the amount of business transacted since coming to Glendale," said Mr. Peck. "The local establishment ranks high among the 1400 odd branches of the F. W. Woolworth Co. that are scattered the length and breadth of the United States. That is due largely to the loyal support we have been accorded by the people of this city. We will be glad to welcome all our old friends to our new location.

Plans are being completed to welcome a crowd of several thousand visitors to the new store tomorrow afternoon and evening.

MacDonald & Kahn, Inc., superintendents of construction, with offices at 1200 Spring Arcade building, Los Angeles, are the general contractors for the new F. W. Woolworth building. This structure is a valuable addition to Glendale's business district, and was built in record breaking time. MacDonald & Kahn are specialists in erecting store and office buildings and other structures of considerable size. Their large force of workmen makes possible the construction of buildings of any size, requiring less time than is usually considered necessary.

All wiring and fixtures in the new F. W. Woolworth building, 113 North Brand boulevard, were installed by the Newbery Electric Corporation, 726 South Olive street, Los Angeles, as in fact has all electrical work for the F. W. Woolworth Co. buildings in Southern California.

This company has been established in Los Angeles for twenty-two years and maintains a large stock of materials and an adequate force of workmen, which makes it possible taking on large jobs at short notice. A specialty is made of office and store buildings, theatres, school buildings and other state buildings. One hundred and seventy-five men are on the firm's payroll at the present time.

R. C. Spilsbury, vice-president and assistant general manager of the concern has for many years been a Glendale resident.

FASTING

Joining the crowd looking up at a beautiful 14-story apartment house in my neighborhood, my eyes eagerly searched for some point of interest. I had expected to see some man doing some perilous work or one of the so-called "human flies," but I saw nothing unusual at all.

"Why this crowd looking up at the building?" I asked a woman.

"A lot of us are reporters. We are watching Mrs. X.'s apartment—that corner apartment on the eleventh floor—in case she throws out one of her husband's shirts with a message pinned to it. You know, she has been having some difficulty with her husband and she has locked herself in his room and has been without food for seven days."

I had read of the case, but had paid no particular attention to it. Neither had I noticed that she lived on the corner across the way from me. Immediately, of course, the case assumed much greater interest.

"What a terrible thing," the woman went on, "for her to go without food for a week. She will break down her constitution, won't she."

"No," I responded. "I think not. From her picture, I judge she is overweight. A fast for a week will be highly beneficial to her. It will not only reduce her weight and clear her system, but it will clarify her mind and perhaps help her out of her difficulties."

"Oh, you're a physical culturist?"

"Yes. And a physician."

"Why, I thought only physical culturists advocated fasting!"

We had a nice chat, the woman reporter and I, exercising our eye and neck muscles at the same time. No shirts appearing, I walked on, deciding that I had better write an article on fasting as the interest in the subject would undoubtedly be stimulated by this spectacular episode.

The reporter's remark indicates what many believe: that only the so-called physical culturists advise fasting. It isn't true.

Physicians do advise short fasts for many cases. In auto-intoxication, overweight, high blood pressure and certain other disorders, short fasts are undoubtedly of great benefit. Notice that I say "short" fasts. Prolonged fasting is dangerous and has resulted in many deaths. The body, not being supplied with its vitamins, mineral elements and proteins, feeds on itself, so the muscles and organs, including the heart, waste away.

There is a condition of high toxity and acidity brought on through this process of prolonged fasting. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, condemns prolonged fasting very much. He claims that the disadvantages of prolonged fasting far outweigh any advantages, and that the advantages may more easily and more comfortably be obtained by a scientific regulation of the diet. The so-called fruit fast or green leaf vegetable fast, of from 500 to 1000 calories a day, will give all the advantages of fasting, without the disadvantages.

Not long ago, there were several deaths in a Chicago sanatorium conducted by a fasting faddist. Patients had been kept on fasts until they had literally starved to death.

There is no doubt that many people have fasted for longer periods than a week and have recovered without ill effects, but let me repeat, we believe better results can be obtained by the fruit or green leaf vegetable fast.

If you need a good cleaning out, go on an orange juice or other fruit juice fast for three or four days—a glass every three hours, with a glass of moderately hot water between. You should take some agar, two or three tablespoonfuls, two or three times a day, for bulk. You can soak the agar in water and then take it with your orange juice, if you like.

This "fast" is of undoubted benefit to the many who suffer from the disorders I enumerated.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them lecibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Ribbon Doll Bookmarks: Take a piece of taffeta ribbon one inch wide and ten inches long. On one end sew two tiny, flat ribbon feet (you will have to make these and paint shoes upon them); on the other end sew a round circle of the same kind of ribbon. This circle represents a head; paint eyes, nose, mouth and pink cheeks upon it, and cover the top of it with French knots made with yellow embroidery silk, for hair. A fetching necktie may also be added at the "neck," where the circle joins the top of the bookmark. In use, the head will be at the top of the closed book, and the feet extending just below.

French Powder Puffs: Buy a little ten-cent doll, about three inches long. Also buy a sherbet glass, and a powder puff which will fit into the glass nicely. You will need one-half yard of five-inch-wide ribbon and one or two yards of baby ribbon to match, to make the following effective decoration to cover the top of the puff: Gather the wide ribbon, sew ends together in a French seam, and tuck the gathered part under the doll's arms. Cover gathers with the baby ribbon, putting a bow in back, then bring this baby ribbon to the edge of the wide ribbon, with other little bows scattered here and there. Sew the puff to the doll's feet. When the puff is in the glass, the wide ribbon covers it nicely. You can make the article still daintier if you add a ruffle of gold lace to the doll's dress.

Cover for Hot Water Bottle: Buy either one large ball or two small balls (one ounce to a ball) of white four-fold Germantown and one large (or two small) balls of any desired color, same yarn. With a number four bone or amber crochet hook, and the colored yard, chain 17, join in a ring, and work 32 single crochet in the ring. Row Two: Work one single crochet in first stitch, * chain two, one treble crochet in same stitch, skip one stitch, one single crochet in next stitch, repeat from *, working 16 clusters. The last single crochet is worked in first single crochet of previous row. Row Four: * Chain two, work two treble crochet over chain two of previous row, work one single crochet in next single crochet of previous row, repeat from *, working 16 clusters in row. With white yarn repeat row three till there are 17 rows of white and five rows of color. Make a beading at top and work a cord and tassels to draw through it.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

WHEN YOU SPEAK

You've often heard the expression: "She's all right until she opens her mouth," haven't you? I hope that's never applied to you, for a soft voice and a pleasing manner of speech are so important that not even the most beautiful woman should be without them. A pretty face attracts at first but Venus herself would have palled upon the most ardent of her admirers had sharp, sarcastic phrases in a high nasal voice issued from her lovely lips.

Firms with antiseptic mouth washes to sell, advertise the social error of a tainted breath, and other firms with other products to sell warn the feminine public that it isn't nice to go about with the least trace of a perspiry odor, but no one except a philanthropist will ever buy newspaper columns to tell anyone that an ugly voice is more irritating than either of these. A harsh voice must grate upon the nerves and the ears of those who listen, even though those very listeners possess voices as bad. At least I feel that must be so.

Watch your voice. Only you can find its faults and correct them, and you can do it yourself. Listen first, very critically, to the voices you hear around you, among your friends, among strangers, in your own family. Listen to your own as you speak. If it is harsh or irritating, lower the tone, soften it, drop the bad slangy words and substitute good English. Any cross word puzzle fan should know half a dozen words for every idea by this time. You can take elocution or singing lessons if you want or have time, but I honestly think you'll do more by listening to your own voice and to others, modeling your speech for a time upon that of the most cultivated people you know, and gradually, make your words and your manner of expression suit your personality—which is not harsh and nasal. If is were, you would not want to drop your bad tricks of speech.

Mae S.: The most becoming colors are usually those which match the color of the eyes and the hair, so in your case, it would mean all the shades of brown. If your skin is clear, you will be able to wear almost any color, but if it is sallow, avoid the cold greys or tan that do not have a pinkish tint in the shade.

Miss G. G.: With thin arms and a thin face, I should think that you needed to build up your weight. An excellent thing for this is cod liver oil; if this does not appeal to you, try olive oil in grape juice or any other fruit juice.

H. B.: I should surmise that your liver is causing your skin to have the harsh, leathery look you describe. Consult the doctor about it.

Tomorrow: Bobbed Hair and Noses

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brock-Jones of Western Springs, Ill., who have been visiting Mrs. James Heckman of 523 West Dryden avenue for the past three months, are leaving this week for Chicago via the northern route.

Claude Berger and W. C. McGuire returned last week from Frazier Mountain Park, where they spent a week, building a mountain cabin for Mr. Berger. Mr. McGuire plans to build a cabin later.

Mrs. Ella S. Welter of Fostoria, Ohio, who has been spending a month visiting her sister, Mrs. C. A. Brandstater and family of 401 West Wilson avenue, left yesterday for her eastern home.

D. A. R. Affair

It was with pride that Daughters of the American Revolution of General Richard Gridley chapter, meeting yesterday at First Congregational church, heard that at the recent state council meeting in Los Angeles, the report given by Mrs. E. M. Kennedy, Glendale historian, was the best given by any historian in the state. Miss Ida D. Myers, regent, who has been at Tulare for several weeks, was welcomed home this week, and presided at the meeting yesterday. The meeting was planned as an open meeting, and several guests were entertained.

During the business hour features were: Report that the chapter has sent 960 magazines to the Albion Street school in Los Angeles, and the call for more magazines; the announcement that Mrs. Eloise Andrews is a new member by transfer from a New York chapter; that the next state council meeting will be in May, with the state regent, Mrs. Manhart, present; the report of the seventh state conference in February at Oakland, by Mrs. E. M. Kennedy, delegate from the local chapter, who stated there are sixty chapters in California, five organizing chapters, and 3500 Daughters in the state organization, and 147,000 active members in the national organization; report by Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker of a musical she and Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Leppelman attended in Hollywood.

Mrs. Helen Knappen Scripps announced the program. Mrs. Elizabeth Mottern, accompanied by Miss Vera Knapp, sang "Her Rose," "Pansies," "Snowflakes," "When Song Is Sweet" and "Sacrament." Later Mrs. Theodore Peirce gave an original paper, "A Dream Journey Through Italy," and Mrs. Charles I. Peirce gave an illustrated talk on their visit in Italy. Mrs. B. O. Holbrook served tea.

Presents Paper

"The Art of Cartooning" was the inspiration for the very fine paper given yesterday by Mrs. R. H. Pickett at the meeting of the literature department of Tuesday Afternoon club. Sketching the development of the art of cartooning, and the work of well-known cartoonists, Mrs. Pickett took up the beginning of cartooning with caricatures; the purpose of cartoons, to crystallize public opinion on important events of the day; the development of emblematic figures in cartoons, such as Uncle Sam and John Bull; the importance of cartoons in life today, and the conservative and radical cartoonists. In connection with her talk women of the department gave two clever sketches illustrating humorous work of McManus and Frank King. In the "Bringing Up Father" sketch, characters were: Jiggs, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox; Maggie, Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth; the daughter, Miss May Lyons. Illustrating King's works, the characters were: Walt, Mrs. G. H. Rowe; Skeezicks, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox; the little friend, Miss May Lyons.

Other features of the program arranged by Mrs. Pickett were: Jokes given in response to roll-call; humorous readings by Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. A. M. Hunt; a sketch, "Mrs. Jarley's Wax Figures," given by Mrs. G. H. Rowe and Miss Rhodes; songs by Mrs. Elizabeth Hirsch, accompanied by Miss Gladys Hopner, "Barney Shea," "The Maiden in Gray," "Pastorale." Mrs. R. W. Bolton was presiding officer. Mesdames C. J. Higgins and J. W. Walton were hostesses.

Reading Circle

At the meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading circle yesterday at the library, Mrs. Bancroft reviewed a late article on "A Man Who Gave Up a Business Job to Become a Professor." The author emphasized the fact that "happiness is the greatest prize in life." Mrs. H. V. Henry, chairman, read the following articles, "Financing a College Education," "The New Mexico College" and "Lunches In Poorer Schools." The women of the circle were interested in the new study book begun by Mrs. Henry "The Home" by Charlotte Perkins Gilman. The chapters read dealt with the evolution of the home, and made a plea for doing away with the old customs that retard modern progress. There will be no meeting of the circle next week because of school vacation.

Name President

Mrs. Edward T. Abbott was elected president of the Young Mothers' class of Glendale Presbyterian church at the meeting yesterday afternoon at the church. Other officers elected are: Mrs. J. R. Chambers, vice-president; Mrs. W. H. Whitfield, secretary, and Mrs. George A. Kling, treasurer. Mrs. H. H. Wiebe, president, was in charge of the meeting. The newly-elected officers will take charge at the next meeting, on May 6. Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, teacher of the class, conducted the devotional service. The afternoon was spent in piecing a quilt for an orphans' home. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Edward T. Abbott, J. R. Chambers and Herbert Wright.

Tujunga Guests

Electa Social club members met all day yesterday at Tujunga, the meeting being held at the Masonic temple through courtesy of Eastern Star women of Tujunga. Mrs. Clytelle Hewitt, president, conducted a short business meeting. Plans were made for a trip to the Masonic Orphans' home at Covina next Wednesday, when two dozen pillow cases made recently by the club will be taken to the home. Part of the day was spent in sewing on quilts for the Eastern Star home at Pasadena. Sixty members were present for the meeting. Luncheon was served, with Mesdames Hettie Lawson, Georgia Lambie, Lillie Lynd, Margaret McCaughna and Ruth Flynn acting as hostesses.

Visit Studios

Women of the fine arts department of the Tuesday Afternoon club are to take up the study of sculpture, and preliminary to their first meeting they are to visit the studios of Julia Bracken Wendt and Lora Woodhead Steere in Los Angeles. Those planning on the trip will meet at the clubhouse at 11 o'clock. En route to Los Angeles a stop will be made at Forest Lawn Memorial park, where the club women will study the sculpture in the mausoleum, where they will hear a special art lecture. Reservations for the trip are to be made with the curator, Mrs. Roy Balkagh, Glendale 974-M.

Card Club Meets

Auction Science Bridge club members were guests yesterday afternoon at the Los Angeles home of Mrs. Glenn Chesney. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock for thirteen. Spring blossoms were used in decoration. Bridge prizes were awarded to Mrs. E. P. Hayward and Mrs. William McPherson. The club will meet April 15 with Mrs. Donald Baxter, 910 North Brand boulevard. Attending the party were: Miss Ann Morgan, Mesdames Gerald Blue, Donald Baxter, E. E. East, Harry Powers, Eloise Bondeau, E. P. Hayward, Charles Meadows, Burton, John Moore, William McPherson and James Everington.

With Mrs. Hobbs

Mrs. Grace Hobbs of 520 South Central avenue was hostess yesterday at the meeting of Chapter AH, P. E. O., with Mrs. Lucille Eames, president, in charge. Mrs. Carolyn Kennedy read an interesting paper. Luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock, assisting hostesses being Mesdames Catherine Ripley, Joe Kenndy and Mary Pearson. Thirty-five members were present. An Ivory soap shower for philanthropic work was held. Time was spent in sewing for the children's hospital. The next meeting will be held April 15 at the Fitzgerald ranch with Mrs. Sallie Braden as hostess.

Attends Benefit

Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, chairman of co-operation with ex-service men and women for Tuesday Afternoon club, attended the benefit card party and entertainment yesterday afternoon at the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles. This affair was given by chairmen of co-operation with ex-service men and women of Los Angeles District, California Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Gilliland reported that the entertainment was largely attended. Proceeds will be used to establish a billet or day nursery at Sawtelle for children of ex-service men.

Oakmont Bridge

Oakmont Country club was the setting yesterday for the open bridge luncheon for members and guests. The luncheon table was made attractive with the use of spring flowers, sweetpeas and snapdragons predominating. Mrs. C. C. Bowerman acted as hostess. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ray Morrow and Mrs. E. S. Beggs. Mrs. George Mitchell won the guest prize.

HOMES for the HOMELESS

$500 CASH
$5750—5 ROOM STUCCO

Here's about the most attractively planned—practically arranged bungalow we have had to offer for some time. This is the first building of a Builder who has been for some years superintendent of construction for a large L. A. Construction Co. And he certainly has worked out a wonder little home. Located near car, school, stores, in a fast building section.
Let us show you the place quick. It won't last at the price of $5750—$500 cash and $50 a month including all interest.

Leaving for Europe
10-Room DeLuxe Home

For $18,500 a home located in the very best of Glendale residential districts such as would bring $30,000 in Los Angeles. Solid gum finish, 5 bedrooms, basement billiard room, gas furnace, very best of construction and highly improved lot. This is one chance in a lifetime.

One of the Few

We are specializing only in property that is priced right and where the owner MUST SELL, for confidential reasons which we cannot publish. This five-room stucco corner with room for another bungalow on the side at $6000 is at least $1000 under priced which you will agree upon inspection. Terms will be arranged.

THE SECRET CANYON

Do you want a beautiful home tucked away in a wonderful canyon? Away from the noise and bustle of the outside world, yet only a stone's throw from a main boulevard, schools and cars—almost in the heart of the beautiful city of Glendale.
This beautiful canyon is like a secret garden for no one would guess of its existence and words cannot express its beauty, or its cool soothing restfulness.
The home itself is in perfect harmony with all this natural beauty, truly a work of art—the product of one of Los Angeles' best known architects. The grounds and canyon consists of an acre, all under cultivation.
Few are privileged to own an estate of this character, and we are proud to offer this wonderful place, at the very low price of $14,000.00, terms. Shown only by appointment.
This is your opportunity.

PRESENT TROPHY TO LEGION POST

Delegation from Los Angeles Visits Verdugo Hills; Reports Are Made

Verdugo Hills Post No. 288, American Legion, was presented with an engraved loving cup by members of Benjamin Bowie post, No. 228, Los Angeles, at the meeting of the Verdugo Hills post, held last night at the Sparr Heights Community building. The presentation speech was made by Past Commander Thurston of Bowie post, who stated the cup was a token of appreciation for the Verdugo Hills post's visit on March 2.

R. B. Troutner, second vice-commander of Verdugo Hills post, accepted the gift on behalf of the post and spoke on the fine spirit displayed by the visiting delegation. Harry Beal, commander of the Bowie post; Dr. Booker and J. C. McKinley, members of the visiting delegation, spoke on interpost relations and the spirit of the American Legion.

A. T. Blanford, chairman of the special building finance committee of the Verdugo Hills post, announced that the financing of the new post building had been completed. A. N. Vilmur, chairman of the building committee, reported excavating would be completed Sunday and requested members of the post to be present at the new site to dig ditches for the foundation forms. Adjutant J. Benton Wirt reported on the second annual mess call held last Wednesday night. Don Urquhart announced the next post dance would be held April 22.

J. L. Smith, Kiwanis song leader, was present at the meeting last night with his organ and led the singing in wartime melodies. J. K. Watkins offered the services of his building crew for a day's labor on the new post building. The next meeting of the post will be held on April 15 at the Sparr Heights Community building, and will be a joint meeting with the auxiliary, when an entertainment program and refreshments will be provided. Commander A. E. Baron announced.

CITY PRINTING

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF THE FILING OF THE ASSESSMENT FOR THE LAYING OUT OF, OPENING AND EXTENDING OF MARYLAND AVENUE IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE, TOGETHER WITH THE DIAGRAM OF THE DISTRICT TO BE ASSESSED FOR SAID IMPROVEMENT.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Street Superintendent of the City of Glendale has filed with the Clerk of the Council of the City of Glendale the assessment for the laying out, opening and extending of Maryland Avenue from the northerly line of Tract No. 93, as per map recorded in Book 14, Pages 22 and 23 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California, to a point approximately two hundred twenty-two (222) feet northerly of the northerly line of said Tract No. 93, all in the City of Glendale, in the manner contemplated by Ordinance of Intention No. 553, together with the diagram of the district to be assesssed therefor.

The date of the first publication of this notice is the 30th day of March, 1925. All persons interested are hereby required to file, in writing, their objections, if any they have, to the confirmation of said assessment by the Council of the City of Glendale, with the said Clerk of the Council, within thirty (30) days after the said date of the first publication of this notice.

A. J. VAN WIE.
City Clerk of the City of Glendale, and Clerk of the Council of the City of Glendale.
March 30-31. April 1-2-3-4-6-7-8-9, 1925.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF THE RECORDING OF THE ASSESSMENT AND DIAGRAM FOR THE OPENING AND LAYING OUT OF DORAN STREET IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the assessment and diagram for opening and laying out of Doran Street from the southeasterly line of Glendale Avenue to the westerly line of Adams Street, in the manner contemplated by Ordinance of Intention No. 808 of said City adopted and approved the 28th day of June, 1923, was recorded in the office of the Street Superintendent of the City of Glendale on the 20th day of February, 1925.

The date of the first publication of this notice is the 26th day of March, 1925.

All sums levied in said assessment are due and payable immediately, and payments of said sums are to be made to me in my office, at the City Hall, Glendale, California, within thirty (30) days after the said date of the first publication of this notice.

All assessments not paid before the expiration of said thirty (30) days will become delinquent, and thereupon five (5) per cent, will be added thereto, and the property advertised for sale as provided by law.

Proceedings Before City Council Today

City Manager's View

"In certain cases I believe that it constitutes class legislation to build streets and then pass ordinances keeping heavy traffic off," said V. B. Stone, city manager. "The property owners in most instances will save money in the long run to have at least five-inch macadam construction."

Property owners would be assessed approximately $30 per lot more for the additional two inches of paving, according to an estimate by J. F. Johannsen, city engineer. Supporting Gilhuly and Stone, Mayor Spencer Robinson declared that through thoroughfares should be open to every legal type of motor vehicle.

City Attorney Ray L. Morrow and City Engineer Johannsen will explain the situation to the principal property owners and the petition will be re-submitted to the council next Thursday.

Want Storm Drains

As the result of a petition filed with the council today by residents of Dryden, Campbell, Louise and Maryland streets near Bellehurst park, a resolution was adopted asking the county Board of Supervisors to instruct county engineers to make plans for formation of an assessment district for construction of adequate storm drains. The work will cost approximately $25,000, it was said.

"Neither the city nor the county can do the work alone," explained Councilman S. A. Davis. "Part of the territory is in the city; part in the county. I have asked Supervisor Wright to cooperate in the matter a number of times, but as yet he hasn't done so."

Mrs. J. H. Gewinner, 1123 North Campbell street, acted as spokesman for a group of residents in that district. She declared that for five years they have been trying to obtain relief from a "serious situation" without result.

"All the water from Bellehurst park and a lot of it from Rossmoyne comes down into our streets and homes," she said. "The whole territory is a lake after an ordinary rainfall."

Street Improvement

A petition to improve Flower street from the Burbank city limits to its present extent was approved and the city engineer and city attorney instructed to prepare a resolution of intention. Resolutions for the improvement of Eden avenue and Broadway from Glendale avenue to Everett street were adopted. The Broadway resolution provides for installation of an ornamental lighting system. Bids will be called for at once.

Assessment for the recent improvement of Central avenue was approved and a hearing on the issuance of bonds for the improvement of El Rito street was continued until next Thursday to give a number of protestants an opportunity to appear before the council.

With one dissenting vote, Councilman Davis, the city attorney was instructed to make a re-assessment for the opening and widening of Belmont street.

The Federal Paving Co. was awarded the contract to pave Howard street with macadam, and the city of Glendale was given the contract to widen and pave Palmer avenue. A resolution authorizing Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, to enter a bid on installation of the lights on Broadway was adopted.

C. of C. Gives Praise

City Manager Stone was commended in a communication from Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, for the manner and method in which the city is controlling its expenditures. According to a recent statement given the chamber by Stone, Wood said, all city expenditures are made in Glendale whenever possible in accordance with law and good business. Stone recently appeared before the board of directors of the chamber and explained in detail the method by which purchases are made here.

A request from officials of the Assembly of God, now holding a camp meeting in Glendale, for a ten-day extension for the use of city property because of "adverse weather conditions" that have "militated against tent meetings," was granted by the council. The extension permits the organization to use the property until April 14.

PUBLICITY VALUE FOR RADIO SHOWN

Greater Glendale Luncheon Club Hears Warren on Ether Waves

With the aid of prepared charts, Gould H. Warren, radio programs committee chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, showed members of the Greater Glendale Luncheon club the wide scope community advertising over the ether waves has taken since this city started broadcasting monthly programs several months ago. Ten million potential listeners-in are available at present, with many more millions to buy radio receiving sets within the next year, Mr. Warren pointed out in commenting on what he termed the vast importance of radio to communities in disseminating booster and advertising material. Radio is without parallel for this purpose, he said.

One chart exhibited by the speaker showed by means of small N. C. Points as fra north as Manithe United States from which more than 200 replies to the last Chamber of Commerce program were received. The farthest eastern point charted was Charlotte, N. C. Points as far north as Manitoba and British Columbia were also charted.

Advertising Varied

A second chart depicted the radius in which different types of advertising served its purpose. Nothing outside of radio has a worldwide advertising value, Mr. Warren said.

The meeting today was in charge of the radio program committee, Mr. Warren, chairman; R. Ernest Tucker and J. Arthur Myers. An attendance prize, donated by Mr. Warren, was won by Pierson Hanning. George F. Orgibet, luncheon club chairman, announced that Dr. T. C. Young and members of his membership committee would conduct the meeting next week.

Chief Fraser Confers On Glendale Poisoning

Chief of Police John D. Fraser today conferred with District Attorney Asa Keyes in connection with an investigation Fraser has completed into the case of attempted poisoning of Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, 643-B East Acacia avenue, by placing poison in the sugar supply in their home. County Chemist George L. Walker has reported that an analysis of the contents of the sugar bowl showed enough bichloride of mercury to kill twenty persons.

Los Angeles and San Francisco officers are co-operating with Chief Fraser in an attempt to locate the man believed to have been responsible for the attempted slaying. Chief Fraser said today that an arrest may be made shortly.

Only the sugar bowl was poisoned, said Fraser today after his investigation. Sugar in the sack from which the bowl was filled has been used without ill effects since the attempt.

It is possible that the county grand jury will act on Fraser's information.

Endurance Test Given New Star Car Model

Handcuffed and shackled into the driver's seat and driving a 1925 Star touring car with the right front wheel removed, J. H. Palmer, endurance driver, is endeavoring to break the world's endurance record. Members of the Los Angeles police force, together with the City Council, saw to it that Mr. Palmer was securely fastened into the driver's compartment. He told The Evening News representative that he has completed three days out of the scheduled five days and five nights' continuous driving. He has already visited twenty-two towns in Los Angeles county.

"At times I have reached forty-seven miles per hour, which shows the car's perfect balance, when you consider that I am making my entire trip on three wheels. This is possible only through the tubular backbone, one of the exclusive features of the Star automobile," he said.

Besides stopping at The Glendale Evening News office he was a visitor at the local agent for Star cars, Jellison Motor Car Co., 1004 South Brand boulevard.

Big paper bags tightly sealed and fitted, are being used by automobile manufacturers to protect autos from dust and cinders on railroad journeys.

EDISON REPORT

Southern California Edison Co's report of February earnings, which has just been completed, shows an increase of 10 per cent in gross revenue, a decrease of 35 per cent in operating expenses and an increase of 97 per cent in net earnings as compared with same month last year.

Earnings for February this year amounted to $1,828,183.13. This increase of 10 per cent is an index of the growth of the territory, as the major part of the additional load came from increased consumption in homes and industrial plants.

The Edison February report shows an increase of 97 per cent in net earnings compared with February of last year, due to the combined effect of greater output and lower operating costs. The total net income for February, 1925, is $1,116,176.57. Interest charges for the month were $409,423.27, leaving a balance applicable to depreciation reserve, dividends anad surplus of $706,753.30.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 2.—Stocks settled down to a lower level of prices today, in which respect they followed some of the important commodity markets. The rally in the last two days furnished good opportunity for speculative profits in the high-priced leaders, some of which had risen 10 points or more from the low of Tuesday's decline.

With the "edge" taken off the Pan-American oil deal by the announcement of the purchase of eastern business of the company and the withdrawal of E. L. Doheny from all but the California end of the business, Pan-American stocks were freely sold today. Standard Oil of New Jersey came to the front as the leaders in the oil stocks, which enjoyed a moderate rally in the fourth hour.

Heavy trading in the motor stocks was also a feature of the day. Mack Trucks settled back to 133¾, for a loss of nearly 3 points, but spurted to 139 later in the day. Nash Motors made a record high price of 305, a gain of 112 points from the low of the year.

Oil and motor stocks made the best response to the decline of call money rates to 3½ per cent in the last hour. Mack Truck was again the leader in the motor stocks, spurting to above 139 for a gain of nearly 4 points for the day. Western oil stocks, led by Pacific Oil, Shell-Union and Standard of California, sold higher, while Cosden and Indedendent oil led the companies with eastern headquarters.

United States Steel and Baldwin were in good supply near the close, Steel common losing 2 points for the day, General Electric over 2, Baldwin nearly a point. American Sugar sold up to 65½.

The market was fairly steady at the close.

Wheat prices broke 6c a bushel and French francs also showed irregularities in the late trading. Industrial reports were generally favorable, though showing seasonal declines in many industries.

Sales today, 1,075,000 shares; bonds, $11,578,000.

MEND THOSE "SHAKY" SHATTERED NERVES

Nature throws out a warning when the nerve force is in danger. Sharp, darting nerve pains, sometimes called neuritis, sometimes labeled neuralgia, are a sign that your nerves need instant attention before grave results develop. There is a danger line across which you must never allow yourself to pass. Beyond this line lies nervous exhaustion, complete breakdown and, alas, only too frequently, mental disorders.

Countless tests and experiments have developed a sure aid to relieve cases of nerve trouble, neuritis and neuralgia. This remarkable discovery is based upon the science of Homeopathy, a branch of therapy endorsed and followed by eminent physicians and searchers of scientific truths.

This discovery has been given the name of Eopa Neuritis Tablets, and they have been compounded to give relief from nerve pain while acting as a tonic to the nerve cells in building up the entire nervous system.

Eopa Neuritis Tablets are guaranteed harmless and are free from narcotics, bromides and coal tar products. Your druggist will recommend them.

Program Dedicated To Mr., Mrs. McCormack

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. McCormack, 624 North Brand boulevard, received an honor last night when Dr. Marion Tracy Whiting announced over radio KFI, that the program she was broadcasting for the Los Angeles Evening Herald, was dedicated to them.

Doran

Doran P.-T. A. will hold a "Father's Night" program tonight at 7:45 o'clock at the school. Pupils of the school will present the program, and refreshments will be served.

Reading Circle

Mesdames E. B. Moore, C. L. Viereck and Mae Rosenberg, speakers of the reading circle committee of First District, P.-T. A. motored to Hermosa Beach yesterday to speak on reading circle work.

Acacia

Members of the losing side in the recent cookbook contest held by Acacia Mothers' club, P.-T. A., were hostesses yesterday afternoon at a luncheon given at the home of Mrs. Arthur Wilson, 1216 South Adams street. Luncheon was served at a table attractively decorated to carry out a color scheme of pink, yellow and white. California poppies were flowers used with pink basket favors. As an April fool joke, cotton candy was served in the baskets. Members of the winning side who were guests were: Mesdames R. N. Stryker, major; Fred Hartman, captain; Harry Banks, Newton, LaChass, Matrinez, Moll, Evans and Little and Miss May Cornwell. Members of the losing side were: Mesdames L. D. Torry, major; W. B. Alexander, captain; Edwin Baldwin, Shriver, Harry Levey, Jennings, Purdy, Sudlow and Arthur Wilson.

After the luncheon the company went to the home of Mrs. Robert Lord, 120 Harvey drive, for a benefit silver tea. Forty women were present for the afternoon. Assisting Mrs. Lord were Mrs. Loren Mitchell and Mrs. Earl Hitchcock. April fool jokes were played on the members during the afternoon. When they were greeted at the door by Mrs. Russell Harris, a friend of Mrs. Lord, Mrs. Harris informed them that Mrs. Lord had moved and later said, "April fool." The program included piano duets by Jefferson Searles and Blinn McGann; piano solos by Ruth Mitchell and Jefferson Searles; violin trio by Kathleen and Frances Lord and Beryl Mitchell with Ruth Mitchell at the piano. Refreshments were served later.

RICE OUTLOOK GOOD

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—Recent rains in the rice and sugar sections have rendered the outlook for both crops better than for several years. Planting of sugar cane is completed and that of rice nearly done.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Hamilton of 5722 Eagledale avenue, Eagle Rock, are the parents of a son, born yesterday, Wednesday, April 1, 1925, at the Windsor hospital.

A son was born last night, Wednesday, April 1, 1925, at Glendale Research Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cook of 134 East Avenue Thirty-two, Los Angeles.

SNUBBERS AS AID TO TIRE ECONOMY

Cizek Auto Electric Co. Is Valley Distributor For Gabriels

Gabriel snubbers are more necessary on automobiles today than ever before according to Henry M. Kuhn of the Cizek Auto Electric Co., distributors for the Gabriel product in the San Fernando valley. With the advent of the balloon tire, Gabriel snubbers have become vital factors in tire economy. The cost of snubbers is more than saved in the added life given one set of tires, Mr. Kuhn said.

"Fifty per cent of the standard makes of cars now manufactured come with Gabriel snubbers as part of the regular equipment. Virtually all other makes have the holes bored and other necessary provisions made for the installation of the snubbers," he said.

Recently the Gabriel Co. improved its snubbers to fit cars with either balloon or high pressure tires equally well. This new feature has had a distinct appeal to the car owner, Mr. Kuhn said.

Plan Glendale Night At Hollywood Bowl

Glendale has been selected as the first city in the Southland to be honored with a special concert night in the Hollywood Bowl. The officials of the Bowl association make this announcement because of the friendliness and co-operation which has been indicated on all occasions by Glendale, in the support of civic movements pertaining to Hollywood together with the assistance which the Glendale fraternal organizations have extended to Hollywood organizations when most needed.

H. S. McCormack, the local chairman, reports 300 more books sold for the 1925 season than were sold for the entire 1924 season. The limit of books to be sold is 10,000. Books containing forty admissions to the bowl cost $10, a saving of 25 cents on each admission to book holders.

Rev. Edmonds To Talk On Glendale Election

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of Glendale Presbyterian church will speak on "The Coming City Election" tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. which will be held at the home of Mrs. Pierson Hanning at 235 North Orange street. Mrs. Paul Elliott will sing vocal numbers.

Sunday School To Hold Dinner Meet At Church

A dinner meeting of the Sunday school board of Glendale Presbyterian church will be held tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the church. H. L. Finlay, general superintendent will be in charge of the meeting. Teachers and officers will attend.

DEATHS - FUNERALS

HANNAH SLOAN BACHMANN

Hannah Sloan Bachmann, pioneer resident of Glendale, died Wednesday, April 1, 1925, at her home in San Fernando at the age of 91 years. Mrs. Bachmann came to Glendale in 1902 with her late husband, Charles F. Bachmann, whose death occurred in January, 1923. When they came to Glendale the Bachmanns purchased a ranch on East Windsor road, where they lived for several years. Later they bought the orange grove home at San Fernando, where they spent recent years. Mrs. Bachmann was born in 1834 on North Hero Island, in Lake Champlain, Franklin county, Vermont. Later she went with her parents to Watertown, N. Y., where she grew to womanhood and married. She was a woman of accomplishment and when 90 years of age wrote the words for a song, the music being the work of Martha Fraisher. Mrs. Bachmann chose the message of Christmastide "Glory to God in the Highest" for the title and theme of the song, copies of which are treasured by her family and many friends. Mrs. Bachmann leaves three children, Mrs. J. F. McArthur of San Fernando; Dr. C. William Bachmann of 831 East Windsor road, Glendale; and Dr. O. B. Bachmann of Los Angeles, Calif. Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, April 4, in the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Memorial park.

IN MEMORIAM

A member of Glendale Lodge, No. 331 Knights of Pythias has written the following poem in memoriam to Frank E. Peters, who passed away Saturday night, March 28, 1925:

He was a man, brave, kindly, loved
God made no better clay than he
His kindly soul shone through his eyes
Lighting his path thru life
To deeds of love and sympathy.
We miss him, miss his gentle smile
His kindly glance and hearty greetings
His patriot heart flamed at his country's call,
We miss such men.
We grieve, Ah not for him
But for ourselves, who, left behind
Mourn for his vanished face
He goes to claim the guerdon bright
For life well spent and Knighthood borne
In love and friendship
We linger here with one example less
To guide us.
He was a man.

Composer

HOMER GRUNN, who will appear on the All-American musical program Tuesday night.

Homer Grunn, brilliant American pianist-composer, will greet his Glendale friends next Tuesday night at the all-American concert to be given at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse under the auspices of Glendale Music club. Mr. Grunn's part in the program will be one of the features and of special interest to Glendalians, for Mr. Grunn has written musical sett'ngs for poems of Charles O. and Juanita Roos, residents of Glendale.

A number of Indian songs, words by Mr. Roos and music by Mr. Grunn, will be included in the program.

Sharing honors with Mr. Grunn will be Lester Hugo Castle, baritone, and Ruth May Shaffner, soprano.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at Roberts & Echols drug store, Brand boulevard and Broadway. Club members will be admitted by membership cards.

Cultivation of American music and musicians is the dominating interest of Glendale Music club and Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, founder and president, is urging Glendale people to crowd the club house auditorium for this all-American program.

Additional patrons for the program sponsored by Glendale Music club for next Tuesday night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse are: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kimlin, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Judd Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. De Camp, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Kinch, Miss Ruth Kern, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Robinson, Pearl Keller, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Gilhuly, W. L. Truitt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nesseroad, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Muhleman.

MEAT TRADE DULL

CHICAGO, April 2.—Meat trade last week was described by packers as having been very dull, especially for beef of which the storage supply is eight or nine per cent above last year's. Pork prices continued steady despite the decline in hogs.

NEW FEATURES ON CHEVROLET CARS

Balloon Tires To Be Part Of Regular Equipment, Hough Announces

The many new features announced for the Chevrolet touring car are proving strong attractions for the motoring public, according to James V. Hough, local Chevrolet agent, 241 South Orange street. The new cars are to be equipped with balloon tires, and Mr. Hough announces that the touring car so equipped can be immediately delivered at a cost of $682. In order to serve people of Glendale and vicinity Mr. Hough announces that his agency is open evenings.

"The new Chevrolet is making a big hit in Glendale, judging from our sales records," said Mr. Hough. "The many new features on the car are attracting a great deal of attention. We are open evenings for the benefit of those who wish to see the cars and who cannot find time during the day. Visitors are welcome."

Mr. and Mrs. Sherrod Buy 7-Room Home

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sherrod, proprietors of "Sherrod's" in the Palace Grand shops, 133 North Brand boulevard, have purchased a new home in the Kenneth road section, and will take possession about April 15. The house was built by J. E. Peters of 209 North Orange street. It occupies an eighty-five foot corner, at the intersection of Highland avenue and Glenwood road, and commands a wonderful view of Glendale and the valley.

The house is stucco construction, with tile roof, seven rooms, interior finish being southern gum, and embodies the latest ideas in modern construction. The deal was handled by R. N. Greenlaw of the Glendale Reality Co., 131½ South Brand boulevard.

Hollywood Residents Buy Home In Glendale

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Swan of Dundee drive, Hollywood, have purchased a new home at 648 Balboa, in Rossmoyne, and will take possession within a few days. The house contains six rooms, is stucco and tile construction, and is considered one of the prettiest homes in this subdivision. It was built by W. W. Wolcott, of 623 North Geneva street. The sale was made by R. N. Greenlaw of the Glendale Realty Co., 131½ South Brand boulevard.

Former Residents Of Ohio Endorse Jones

Pasadena, Calif., March 27.
Glendale Evening News,
Glendale, California.
Gentlemen:—

"We have heard that our former brother Ohioan, C. E. Jones, proprietor of the Poppy Shoppe, and better known as "Poppy" Jones, is a candidate for the office of city treasurer in "The Fastest Growing City In the World." Such an office requires a man with executive ability, sound business judgment, and particularly those sterling qualities of character which fit a man for a position of responsibility and trust.

"We have known Mr. Jones for many years past when a resident of Zanesville, Ohio, where he was secretary and treasurer of the Masonic club, secretary and treasurer of the Kent's Run Oil & Gas Co., and manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co. As friends of Mr. Jones and knowing his qualifications, we, the members of the Society of Muskingum County Ohioans, take great pleasure in hereby heartily recommending and endorsing him to the citizens of Glendale for their next city treasurer to be elected at the elections on April 14, 1925.

SOCIETY OF MUSKINGUM COUNTY OHIOANS.

PERRY D. GATH, Secretary.

Members Of Club Will Be Entertained Friday

Members of the Women's Athletic club are to be entertained Friday afternoon, April 3, at the home of Mrs. Virginia Farr, 504 Fisher street. Mrs. Farr is chairman of hiking and the affair is planned for members of that department. However, other members of the club may attend. Those planning on enjoying Mrs. Farr's hospitality, are to call her at Glendale 2975-J.

The company will meet at 1 o'clock at Harvard High school. During the afternoon they will hike over the hills near Mrs. Farr's home. Tennis department members played yesterday at Brookside park, Pasadena. They will spend next Wednesday at the park, leaving Glendale at 8:30 o'clock. Because of Easter vacation there will be no meeting of the gymnasium class next week.

Says His Prescription Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pain and Twinges -- Is Guaranteed

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Ahlmann Drug Co. and every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if ALLENRHU, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

ALLENRHU has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., for the discoverer of ALLENRHU, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRHU decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed Ahlmann Drug Co. and druggists everywhere to guarantee it as above in every instance.—Advertisement.

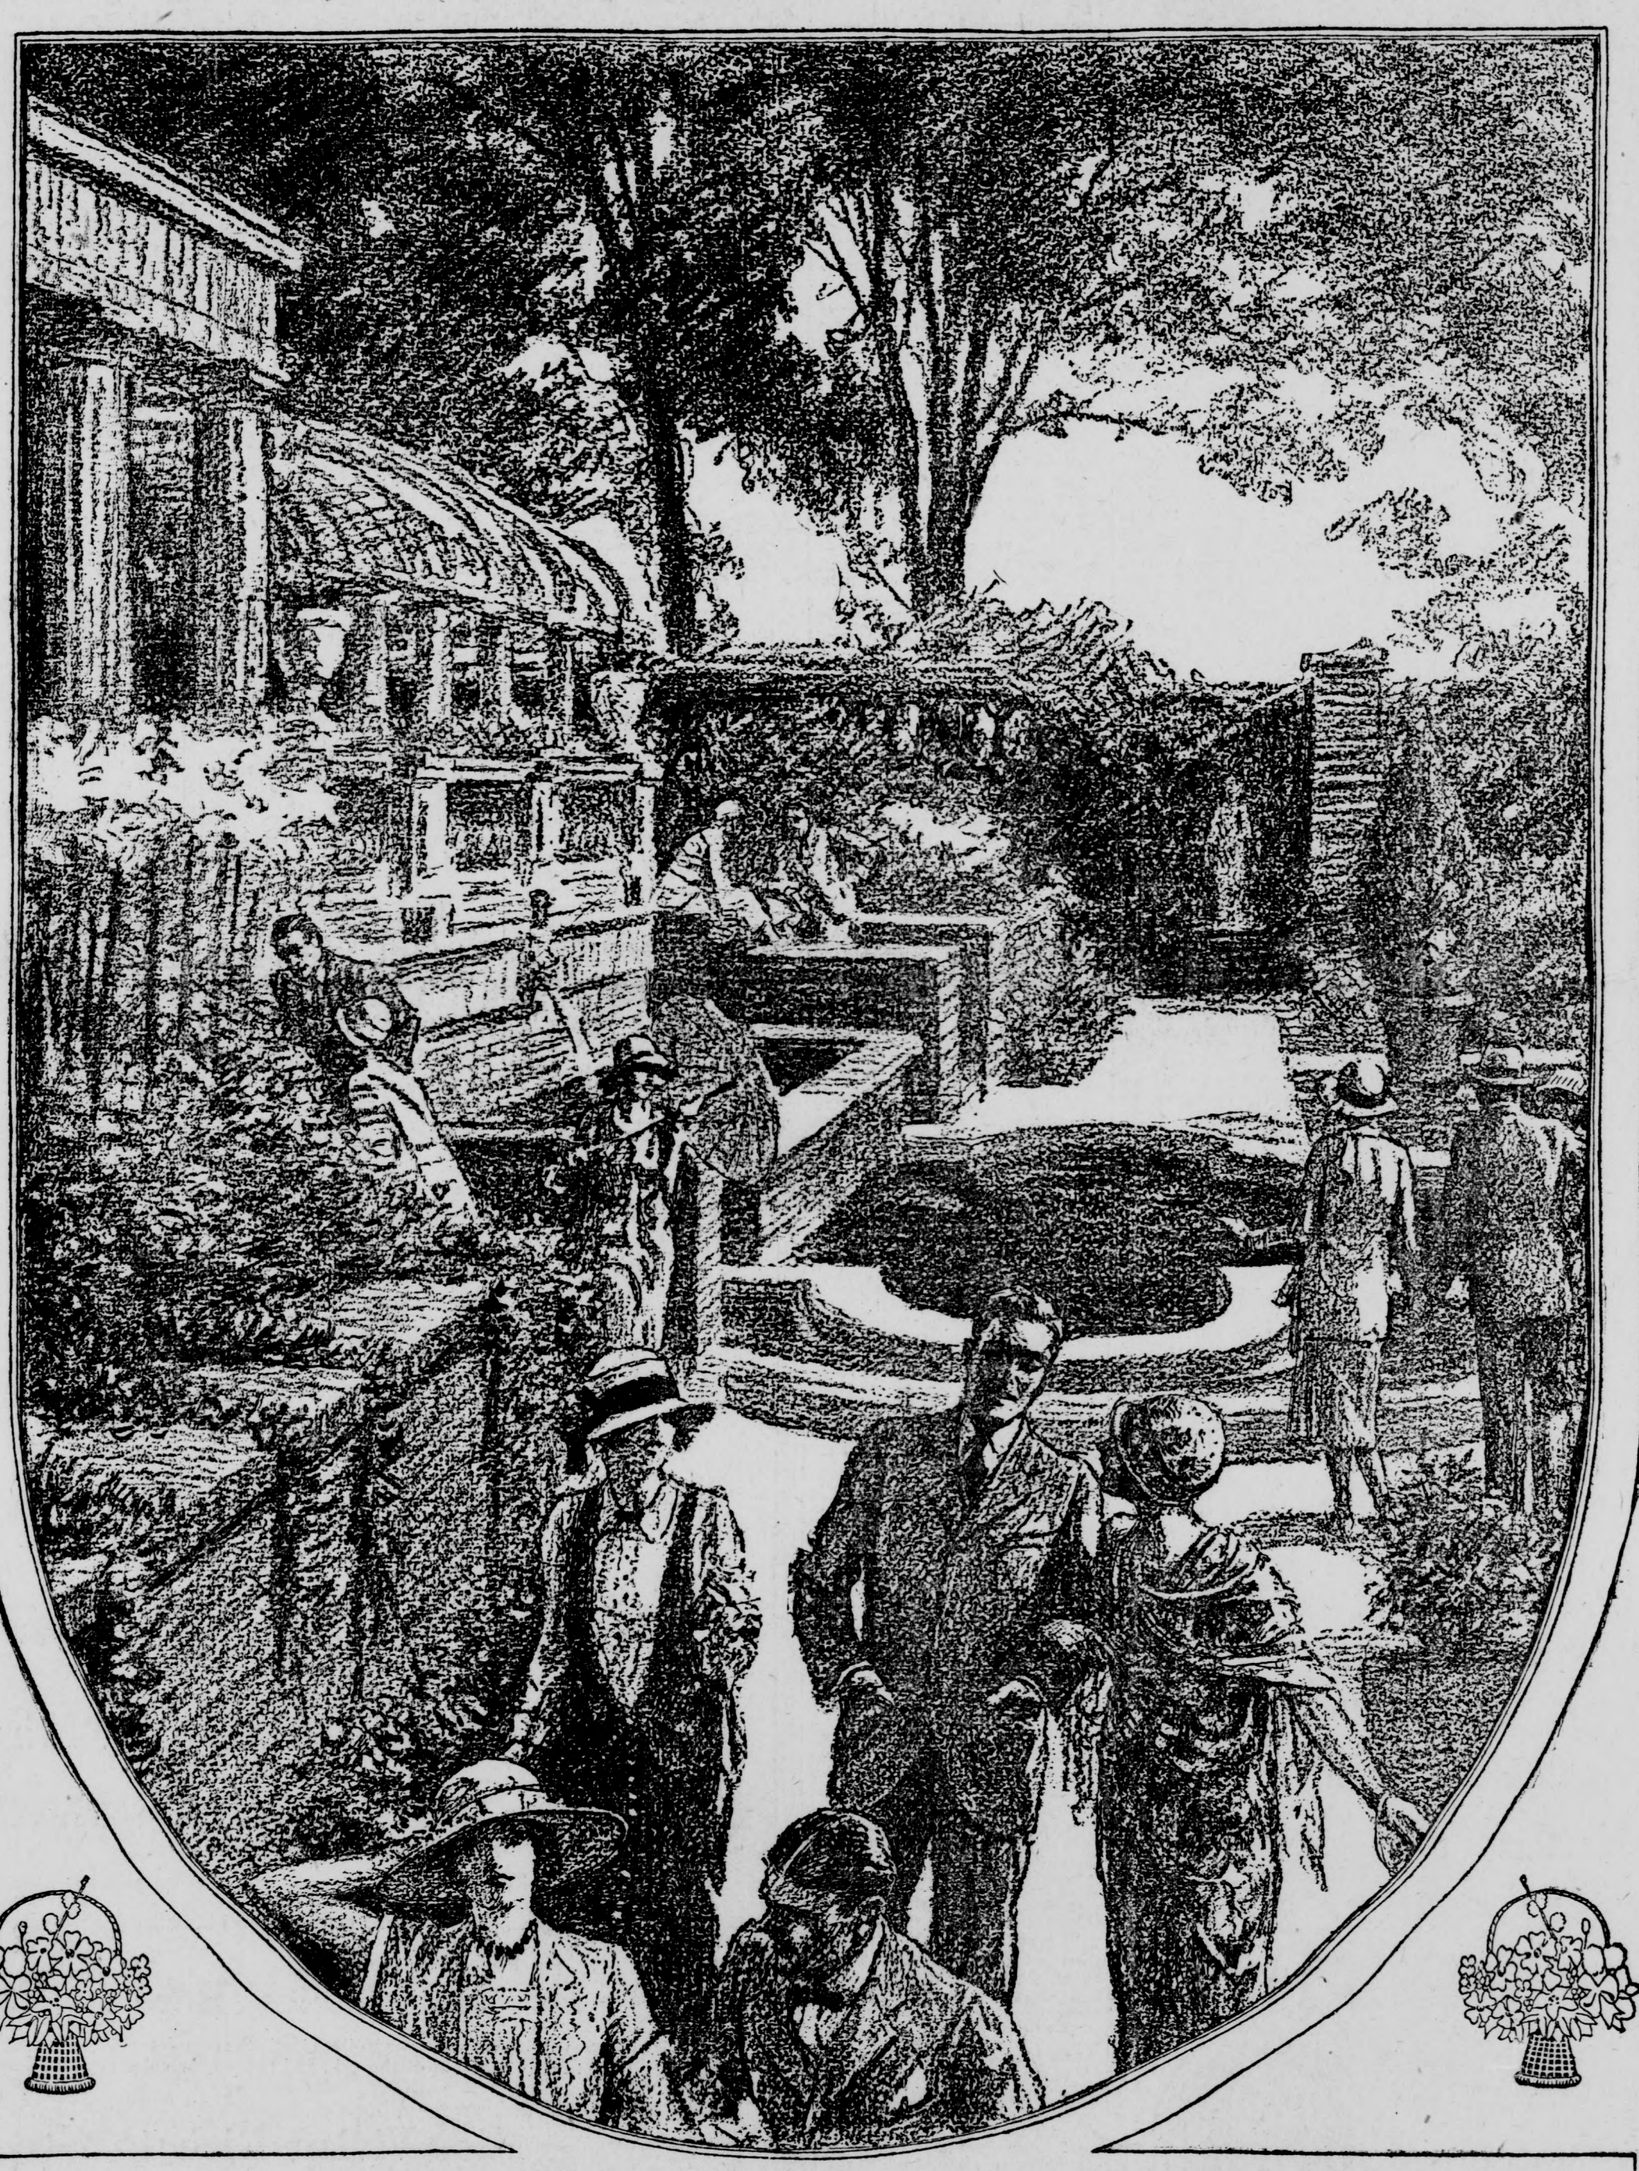
FASHION EDITION



SPRING SPREADS HER TAPESTRY OF FLOWER AND FOLIAGE. LET'S GIVE HER WELCOME SALUTATION BY GARBING SELF AND HOME IN HARMONY AND ACCORD

Broadcasting the Spring Fashion Harmonies

We are going to be feminine—and graceful once more. Not that we are forgetting the lesson of charm which has been taught us by the slender simplicity of the last few years. Rather, we are taking those same slender lines and developing them with more grace and sophistication—with more variation and individuality.

The tailored frock maintains its straight beltless symmetry, but many a model has cleverly added an inverted pleat in the front for greater ease as well as beauty in walking. Other models also preserve a flat back but are circular across the front.

Some of the tailored frocks, but a great many of the softer models, are distinguished by a skirt which flares gracefully from the knee down. In the softer fabrics it seems to give the loveliest floating effect when you walk or dance.

However, all our frocks have learned that simplicity is the straight pathway to smartness and the smooth flowing lines are not broken.

The two newest thoughts for the afternoon frock are the jabot and the attached scarf. The jabot is usually of a fine soft lace or chiffon or crepe, falling in the most graceful folds down the side or on either side of a center front closing. The attached scarf which may be worn across the shoulders or carelessly thrown about the throat gives an unusually graceful charm.

Chiffon

Never was chiffon more popular. And what a charming fashion it is. Soft, lovely, graceful it floats about the figure with a fairy-like charm yet clings enough to show the lithe grace of slenderness. It is a happy choice of loveliness to get a chiffon frock.

And the very newest is the daytime chiffon frock. Simply made with a long sleeve or one softly flowing below the elbow, they will be seen at even the most informal of luncheons and afternoon affairs. It is such a delightful mode that it is only surprising that we have not followed it before.

Many of these frocks are black trimmed with white or a very delicate shell pink chiffon. Slim of line with a soft ruffle extending from just a little above the knee they are utterly becoming. The back is sometimes finished with a type of jabot of the lighter chifon or a smart scarf collar—these scarf collars just fastened across the back of a round neck are extremely smart on frocks for evening as well as afternoon wear.

But she who wishes a daytime chiffon need not confine her desires simply to black and white, for printed chiffons have taken the smart world by storm. For more informal wear there are soft novelty plaids—some most amusingly copied from the designs commonly found in their more humble sister, gingham. These frocks are frequently trimmed with a plain chiffon of a harmonizing tone and sometimes with softest jabots of lace.

But for dressier occasions and for warm summer days, chiffons appear in the loveliest and most varied of brilliant hues and gay patterns. Yet these frocks are made with the same deft simplicity.

For the Evening

The vogue of chiffon for evening will be welcomed by the woman who realizes how cool, dainty and ethereal it makes her seem on the hottest of summer nights. These chiffon dance frocks favor the simple round neck rather than the more elaborate decolletage of winter.

For tailored wear kasha and the ribbed silks lead the field far in advance of all other materials. The kasha frock is frequently seen in the ever present two-piece frock. These frocks are very smart when they feature the new inverted pleat or the circular front. The blouse is straight, slim and boyish—very charming for the slender supple figure. The ribbed silks fashion trim coat frocks, which open down the front over a crepe de chine slip of a contrasting shade.

The jabot is the mark of smartness on many a slender silk frock. Sometimes the jabot falls from the neckline to the foot of the skirt, or sometimes just to the waist. These jabots are marvels of simplicity, falling in long graceful folds, never in fussy frills.

Simple Frock Favored

For warm days of summer the soft, simply made frock of crepe is a charming favorite and several of them will be included in every woman's wardrobe.

The smart world is weary of all white costumes which were such a leading mode the past year. Now the lovely soft pastel tones which are so becoming, so flattering, are the great favorites. Peach especially, then pale lilac, pale green pale yellow and blue. An old ivory or an oyster shade are the nearest shades to white which the smart woman wears.

As a contrast and a change from these light shades every wardrobe is certain to include some gaily colored printed effects either in crepe or chiffon.

Practically everything that is smart is ensemble. The evening frock has its matching cape, the chiffon frock its silk coat, chiffon lined. Of course, few of us can afford this profusion of wraps, but every smart wardrobe should boast at least one ensemble. Probably the most practical is the silk frock or cloth coat, for the occasions for wearing such a costume are innumerable.

The New Coats

As straight and slim of line as ever are the coats which fashion has chosen as her smartest models. Some follow the mode of dresses with a light fulness below the knee but they fit closely about the figure.

The honors are fairly evenly divided between the fur trimmed coat and the one finished with collars and cuffs of the material.

The satin or heavy silk coat sometimes trimmed with a long haired fur is particularly good for rather dressy occasions. But for general utility the coat of soft cloth will be more frequently seen.

The Blouse

The blouse is still on the crest of the wave of popularity and when you see the utterly charming models which the shops offer, you will not be at all surprised.

Of course, the newest ones are tunic blouses, some of which come to within six or seven inches of the bottom of the skirt. They are worn with ensemble suits or with the simplest skirts.

These blouses show the gayest of prints in some of the smart models while others are of smartly simple ribbed silks.

The Younger Generation

While the types for children are somewhat influenced by grown up fashions, still extreme simplicity is the rule. The child who is most suitably dressed for strenuous hours of play is the best dressed child. So straight, colorful little gingham frocks with their matching bloomers are the most popular.

For parties the well-dressed child usually wears a softly simple little frock of a light chiffon, voile or any other delicate summery material.

POLITICAL MORALS AIRING IS HINTED

Wheeler Indictment, Ship Board 'Favors' Point Early Hearing

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

WASHINGTON, April 2—There are indications that the whole subject of political morality as it affects individual members of the Senate and House may be opened to general discussion when the next Congress meets.

Senator Wheeler was indicted recently for alleged acceptance of a fee before he took the oath of office but for which fee he is supposed to have represented his constituents before government departments.

Now comes the disclosure that members of Congress have accepted special privileges from shipping board officials given in order that they might be kept "good natured" with reference to annual appropriations.

Insurgent Senators

On top of this some of the insurgent senators are talking about investigating campaign contributions so as to determine whether any constituent who received a favor from a member of the Senate and House in effect repaid such member of Congress by contributing to campaign funds in subsequent elections.

Where does the line of impropriety begin or end? Special cables in the last twenty-four hours state that members of Congress sailing on American vessels operated through the shipping board were given choice cabins for minimum fares. The practice is defended by shipping board men on the ground that other shipping lines do the same thing. The question, however, is not of any wrong practice on the part of the shipping board but whether members of Congress are justified in accepting what are in effect rebates on their fares not only for themselves but for their families.

WHOLESALE JEWELRY

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Wholesale jewelers report business for February was 11.1 per cent above that for January, but 8.6 per cent less than for February, 1924. Buyers are cautious and confine purchases to immediate needs.

HELIUM-OXYGEN IS CALLED 'FIND'

College Professor Says New Mixture Will Permit Of Sea Explorations

BERKELEY, April 2.—The discovery that helium gas mixed with oxygen will permit a diver to reach depths in the sea greater than 200 feet will result in bringing to the surface much wealth known to be still in Davy Jones' locker, according to Joel H. Hildebrand, professor of chemistry at the University of California, who recently made the discovery while working on other chemical problems.

Scientists of the United States bureau of mines conducted the experiments for Professor Hildebrand to show that helium can be used in making a synthetic atmosphere that should reduce the hazard of deep sea diving.

Helium Uses

"Helium not only has the advantage of being less soluble than nitrogen, but also diffuses more rapidly in the body fluids and tissues, resulting in rapid elimination of the gas from the tissues during the period of decompression during which time divers risk the formation of bubbles that often cause death," says Professor Hildebrand.

Control of the decompression to prevent the formation of bubbles is one of the most difficult problems of diving work.

Tokyo's Retail Trade Is Biggest Since War

TOKYO, April 2.—Despite reports of widespread business depression and appeals from the authorities for economy and thrift, retail business houses of Tokyo did a bigger total business during 1924 than in any year since the war.

Merchants on the Ginza, Tokyo's chief retail shopping street, report a total business for the year of more than 200,000,000 yen, or approximately $100,000,000. The biggest income reported by an individual firm was a jewelry shop with total sales of more than 5,000,000 yen. A firm dealing chiefly in imported groceries and food stuffs was next, with 4,500,000 yen.

ON BIBLE LANDS

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2.—Sinclair Lewis, American author of "Main Street" and other books, will visit the work of Near East relief here this summer. He plans to spend some time studying the peoples of Bible lands, and hopes to obtain material for a novel which will be a departure from his earlier work.

BRITAIN LOOKING TO U. S. FOR HELP

Weakened by War, Provinces Depend Upon Others, Soldier Claims

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, April 2.—British dominions are looking to the United States for protection.

Lieutenant-Commander C. D. Burney, M. P., makes this startling statement, in reviewing the defence policy of Great Britain "The results of the war have weakened this empire very considerably," he said.

"We have taken on responsibilities in the mandated territories in all parts of the world, and none of these countries at present contribute, or are likely in the future to contribute, toward their own defence. It is an extra burden upon this country, economically, and upon our fighting services strategically. It is obvious that at the present time we are not so strong as we used to be.

"We have no two-power standard to lay, and the result is, in my opinion, that there are signs that the great distances separating our dominions from the mother country are tending to a loosening of our bonds, and are imposing upon those dominions the necessity of turning their eyes in other directions."

'Kiss Map' Is Latest In Courts Of Vienna

VIENNA, April 2.—The "kiss map" is the latest novelty to be introduced in the Viennese court. Frau Ella Bauer brought an action against her young husband. She alleged that he went for evening walks with a pretty stenographer, kissing her at frequent intervals. In supporting her charge she produced an elaborate road map prepared by a university student. On the map she indicated the walks that her husband and the stenographer had taken and large crosses marked the spots where she alleged the couple had stopped to indulge in embraces. The husband was fined $20 and the stenographer $10.

FIGHT ON MALARIA

GENEVA, Switzerland, April 2.—Plans for a world-wide campaign against malaria, with the ultimate objective of completely wiping out this disease, have been formulated by the Malaria Commission of the League of Nations. In six countries of the Near East, the initial stages of the campaign will have American assistance and leadership, through the medical staff of Near East relief.

SPRING SHOWINGS AT PALACE GRAND

Sherrod's, Marion-Elizabeth, Melba-Jeanne Shoppes With New Offerings

Annual spring openings of shops in the Palace Grand arcade will be held tomorrow afternoon and night, the opening continuing until 9 o'clock. A feature of the opening will be made from 3 to 6 o'clock by Al Wesson and his Hollywoodland orchestra. The latest fox trot "Melba-Jeanne" will be included in the afternoon's program of music.

Sherrod's, the store where milady may obtain her lingerie, corsets, and hosiery are featuring a new line of novelties including ties in wide Roman stripes and also in the four-in-had ties. Scarfs for street and evening wear are new novelties shown by Sherrod's. These may be obtained in plain, ombre and hand painted colors and in materials of chiffon and crepe de chine. Chiffon hosiery is on hand in shades of atmosphere, neutral, tourterlla, ashes-of-roses, marigold, and many other of the season's colors. The main line of goods featured is corsets and the newest thing in corsets is the new Gossard complete, combining brassier and girdle in one.

Featuring Coats

Melba-Jeanne Shoppe is featuring a showing of evening, afternoon, sports, ensembles and coats. An exquisite evening gown is white heavily beaded georgette, direct from Paris, trimmed in pattern effect with glass mirrors. The dress is made in straight lines. A matron model is of madelon rose, dyed lace over georgette with a bow at the side. White ombre ensemble suits are good, one model being a coat of white with Bishop sleeves and red and white dress.

Imported Hats

Imported hair braid picture hats may be seen at the Marion-Elizabeth Shoppe. These hats are trimmed with imported silk flowers and complete milady's outfit for the spring and summer. Picture hats are also trimmed with maline, and one particularly beautiful hat is hand painted.

Flowers used on hats this season are fashioned of silk and velvet and are most beautiful. Small ensemble hats are very good. White hats in all the new styles and trimmings are also being shown by Marion-Elizabeth Shoppe.

Ex-soldiers have established prosperous farming communities in Minnesota after clearing the land of stumps with reclaimed explosives.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

The force of the farmers is felt in the Legislature of California every once in a while. They are successful in pushing through almost every measure upon which they unite, as witness the bill taxing oleomargarine.

Cocoanut oil substitutes for butter are a serious menace to the dairying industry. There is no question about that. So the dairymen are demanding—and likely will get—a two cent tax on every pound of substitute.

Manufacturers of oleaginous spreads for bread threaten to referendum the measure if it becomes law. Again they would come out losers, the writer believes, although their fighting spirit is to be admired and their product is very useful in many ways.

Another thing before the Legislature of interest to former service men, as well as the rural communities, is the resolution by Senator Jack Inman, Sacramento, demanding that the district attorneys of the several counties of California enforce the anti-alien land law.

There is no question, it seems, but that deception is being used to let land come into oriental cultivation. Unfortunately it is not discretionary with the district attorneys to enforce the law despite the economic justice of certain situations where only the Japanese and Chinese labor is willing to take a chance on nature's abundance.

The Americanism of members of the assembly at Sacramento was questioned during debate on Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller's bill regarding religious education, more subtly termed moral training.

It should not be the privilege of anyone to challenge the Americanism of any citizen, is the belief of the writer. Nor should any class or clique set itself up as dictator of what constitutes Americanism.

During the war we found that some of those suspected of not being thoroughly in accord with the government were the most patriotic in spirit—and only painstaking investigation proved this. The ones who needed most watching were the professional patriots who used flag waving tactics to cover graft.

Sometimes we wonder if preachers of Americanism, as it were, do not find such a good graft among the gullible.

FOR REFUGEE BATHS

ATHENS, Greece, April 2.—The largest shipment of soap ever received here has just reached this city. It contains 44,000 half-pound bars of American soap, consigned to Near East relief for use in refugee camps here. It is the gift of school children in America.

Little Garden Gods

By MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

A delightful little poem by R. R. Chalmers, entitled "Cottage Garden Prayer," ends:

Little garden gods,
Bless the time of sowing
Watering and growing,
Lastly, when our sunflower nods
And our rambler's red array
Waits the honey-bee his labors,
Bless our garden that it may
Beat our next-door neighbor's,
Little garden gods!

May it indeed "beat our neighbors"—oh dear, how intensely human we are! It is perhaps that very quality which makes us place little gods in gardens!

And besides the little gods in cast cement, or cut in stone, there are those joyous little cherubs who rule proudly over fountains. One cherub in his bubbling glory, clasps to his bosom a justly indignant goose! Another relentlessly squeezes the cement prototype of the well-known creature called "poor fish."

Of course there are those trick fountains in which the poor fish looks as though he really enjoyed standing on his slippery tail and spurting water gayly over the assembled larkspur and lupine. But we feel sure that nature-faking on the part of the sculptors ought really to be discouraged, if not frowned upon.

Romance and the Garden

"A dipping well"—doesn't that sound romantic? But what use is a garden if it isn't romantic? We are utterly in favor of romance in a garden—what hard-hearted person is there, who can resist the impish faces of the pansies, or the scarlet flirtations of the nasturtiums?

Yes, a dipping well with a carved surface belongs in a proper garden. And a secluded nook with a marble bench for two belongs—nay, is an absolute necessity! Near this, in the surrounding mock orange and bridal wreath should stand a god Pan. Yes, he should—right where the moonlight would best illumine his his grinning face—so he would catch you—you know—and wink at you—they say "daisies never tell."

Then, of course in a romantic garden when the colors fairly sing in the breezes and the sunlight, a prim sundial should find an open space to remind you of the "sunny hours." And since summer days have a little way of growing uncomfortably warm, a wall fountain offers a pleasant cooling trickling sound over in one corner, and invites birds and mortals to quench their thirst.

The birds must never be forgotten, and their own special bird bath must be provided. They will enjoy it in their own way—with a good deal of argument apparently. We were taught in our youth, "Little birds in their nests agree!" "Well—maybe—but they don't agree about a bird bath—except that they all like it.

There are many useful bits of garden furniture, like the big handsome urns, in their varieties of shapes. Then there are the ornamental pieces—like the great oil jars, now in demand. They too have a tinge of romance—you remember Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves? Well, it was in just such an oil jar that the old boys were concealed, that time. And who know what morning you might find a nymph or a satyr or perhaps a gnome fast asleep in your oil jar?

And of course there must be a flagged path in a romantic garden—and it must lurk behind shrubbery and steal away behind trees and finally lead you to the end—a little shrine—but surely—a shrine to the little garden gods themselves, or at any rate one of them!

Peter Pan and His Piper

What will you choose for your garden god? There's a standing figure of a gnome suggesting the days of Rip Van Winkle—but busy with a broom. No, he wouldn't quite do! Then there's a Chinese philosopher gentleman who looks gravely down. No, he is too serious! There's a little seated Pan who is piping away as if he would burst—he might make a pleasant garden god. Or perhaps you would choose a sturdy, very young man, clothed in nothing at all, who is blowing on a conch shell? He might take good care of a garden.

Perhaps you will install your garden gods in a pool—they wouldn't get so thirsty, would they? For this, a pair of fat youngsters astride a merry dolphin, rampant, would grace a gay garden. One lad holds aloft a trident; perhaps that explains the expression on the dolphin: he looks ready to shout.

So let us have little garden gods to bless the growing petunias mignonette, roses, iris, asters, golden rod: Let us have then to foster romance adventuring (have you not had a garden adventure?) and above all "Beat our next-door neighbor's!"

The fog of London is measured by a recording device which registers by means of dots on cards the degree of the mist's thickness.

EUROPE DOOMED FROM AIR, CLAIM

Englishman In Book Says Regulation Of Aircraft Necessary To Safety

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service.

LONDON, April 2.—Europe is doomed to be gassed and bombed out of existence unless airplane warfare is carefully restricted.

That's the possibility set forth by J. M. Spaight in his new book, "Air Power and War Rights."

"Let there be no doubt about it," he says; "unless air power is regulated and controlled it will destroy civilization itself.

"Aircraft has a terrible lesson in store for mankind. Shall we ever learn the lesson properly before it is hurled upon us in thunder and flame?

"Sometimes one doubts whether we shall. It is admitted that air raids will be far more terrible in future wars than they were in 1918—but it is doubtful whether the appalling menace to civilization is grasped by the general public.

No Protection

"It is doubtful whether such rules for air bombardment as those drawn up by the jurists at The Hague in January and February, 1923, will save the world's great cities."

Europe, according to Mr. Spaight, has no protection against the wholesale slaughter of the populations of great cities—or any cities or towns or villages—by an almost unlimited bombardment by airplanes in thousands dropping two-ton bombs.

Death will be rained upon every square mile. Towns will be blown, burned and asphyxiated to extinction. Neither side will be able to protect its people. All it will be able to do will be to bomb the other side. The popuations on both sides will be slaughtered.

Judge Warns Parents Neglecting Children

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 2.—The sharp teeth of the law are going to sink deeply into the pocketbooks of parents responsible for the delinquency of their children. And these teeth are sufficiently sharp to amputate cleanly $500 from the bankroll of a parent adjudged guilty.

Judge Morgan Owen has become indignant over the many cases of child delinquency caused by parents and has started a campaign to bring it to an end.

"In ninety-nine cases out of each hundred coming before me the fault of the child rests entirely with the parent,' he declared.

Bulgarian King Finds Thieves Looted Candy

SOFIA, April 2.—Thieves are no respecters of persons, and King Boris of Bulgaria has suffered from the depredations of a gang of railroad thieves who have been active during recent months.

The king has a sweet tooth and has a considerable amount of milk chocolate imported from Switzerland. His stores of the sweet recently ran low and there was considerable anxiety until the next shipment arrived. When the box was opened it was found to have been looted and refilled with rubbish. A new shipment was ordered post haste.

The number of stockholders in gas and electric light and power companies has more than doubled in the United States since 1918.

AMERICAN FLYER IS ALIEN SUSPECT

Lieut. Maughan Returning To U. S. From Mexico Is Held By Officers

By CHARLES LEAVELLE
For International News Service.

LAREDO, Texas, April 2.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, famous "dawn to dusk" flyer, made the world gasp by flying from New York to San Francisco during the daylight hours, but the world's contraction of the windpipe was nothing to the intake of ozone among immigration officers when the youthful lieutenant appeared here in civilian clothes.

The gargling noises made by Uncle Sam's border inspection force followed a visit by Lieutenant Maughan and fellow officers to Nuevo Laredo to see a bull fight. After the battle the officer became separated from his companions and tried to cross the international bridge alone.

Immigration officers held the "dawn to dusk" aviator as an alien till friends in uniform identified him.

"Where is your home" he was asked.

"At Kelly field," he replied.

"Where were you born?"

"In Idaho."

"Well, you look like an alien to us, so get into that room over there and don't try to get away."

When Maughan was identified apologies were profuse.

STYLES THAT LEAD

Our hats have been so much alike for so many seasons past, that it is with great rejoicing that we usher in a mode which has two distinct types of smartness.

First of all is the high crowned little hat with the trimming jauntily perched on its topmost peak. There never was a hat more suitable for care-free insouciante youth. There is something so pert about them that they are just as attractive as can be.

The trimming is frequently a perky little bow of the very narrowest ribbon or two soft feather pompons. However, the possibilities of many other trimmings so placed are infinite as this summer's hats readily show. In many a smart model a very attractive effect is gained by stitching a tiny fold in the top of the hat. Sometimes there is just one fold—at others two folds at right angles to each other.

Brims are still so tiny that they can scarcely be called brims. And to make them appear even smaller, some are turned sharply up on one side and down on the other.

Another Way of Trimming

The other smart way for a hat to wear its trimming, is falling from one side of the brim so low and so close to the face that it almost brushes the cheek. In fact, on some of these hats, the trimming comes from beneath the brim. These hats are almost universally flattering.

Another clever type is the closely draped turban with the trimming or flowers in the form of a feather fancy or flowers or fruit also placed very low next to the face.

But after all the smartest hat in the world loses its chic if it is not put on just at the right angle. The days when we tilted our hats at a precarious angle over one eye are gone. Of course, we do not wear them with too precise a straightness. But it is smarter to tilt the hat forward and if it is more becoming that way—just a very little to one side.

Colored Felt Hats

For early spring the brightly colored little felt hat has won the greatest popularity. And with the return of color to a grey and frozen world, how attractive they are. All shades of purple from a deep rich tone to a pale lilac, bright orange all the popular tones of red as well as a becoming French blue are greatly in predominance. All these felts are very soft, ready to be shaped to suit the face of the wearer. Some remind us of still warmer days to come by having the under side of the brim lined with straw.

These felt hats are so smart and so becoming that they are no longer relegated simply to the world of sports or strictly tailored hours. This season one sees them with the most elaborate of afternoon frocks, and worn to almost every function which demands a hat.

However, as soon as summer weather arrives straws and silks will lead the way to smartness. Many a smart model is of silk and straw combination either in matching or contrasting colors. These hats will sometimes be more delicate in tone than the flaunting gaiety of their spring sisters.

For Sports

Of course, the first consideration in choosing a hat for sports wear is comfort and suitability. And the small soft felt hats which are being shown are the most practical ever designed. Without any stiffening whatsoever, they may be carried flauntily under the arm or pulled on the head into just the shape the fair wearer prefers. They are bright or delicately tinted as a rule for white has not the great popularity it enjoyed last season.

The trimming may consist solely of tiny folds stitched in the crown or may be a tiny felt bow perched on the top of the hat. But whatever it is it is sure to be very simple for line, color and comfort are the three rules for the smartness of sports wear.

It will be a simple matter this year to find as many charmingly becoming hats as you wish for they follow so closely the shape of the head and frequently add a little height which so many of us find most attractive.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, April 2.—L. H. Wood was elected president of the Burbank Realty board at its annual meeting and L. H. Boydston was named vice-president. Frank E. Anderson is secretary and treasurer. The board of directors elected at the meeting include W. H. Stroud, J. D. Radcliff, Earl E. White, Charles B. Wood, Norman Snow and William Marks. A new constitution and a new set of by-laws was also adopted.

More than 100 members of the Kiwanis clubs of nine cities in zone three were present at the monthly zone meeting held at the Burbank Women's clubhouse. Dr. John P. Buckley of Hollywood, lieutenant governor of the zone, presided. Walter Barber, Long Beach, was the principal speaker.

Mrs. Helen Converse, proprietor of the Del Monte hotel, fell in a faint in her office at the hotel and fractured her right leg.

When L. W. Gregg obtained a permit to construct an additional two stories to his building near San Fernando road and Olive avenue, he lifted the Burbank building permits for March to $101,815. The total for the year now is $382,320. The Gregg building is the largest for the month. Fourteen homes were constructed.

A delegation composed of City Engineer Rose, R. O. Church, C. B. Fischer, and J. W. Charleville attended a meeting of the board of supervisors in Los Angeles yesterday to bring to the attention of that body the fact that Burbank needs protection from flood conditions existing during heavy rains.

Plea of the Atlas Mixed Mortar Co. for an injunction against enforcement of the city ordinance prohibiting heavy traffic on Cypress avenue has been continued for two weeks in Superior Judge Shaw's court to give the mortar company additional time to gather legal data on the matter. Cases against twenty-four of the Atlas company's truck drivers have been continued, as a result, until May 1.

Hero Of Anti-Toxin Race To Nome In States For Vaudeville Tour

By SUE McNAMARA
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

PORTLAND, Oregon, April 2.—A home-sick hero is Solomon Basco, famous dog team driver of the Far North who helped carry the serum to stricken Nome and who has just arrived in the states to begin a vaudeville tour.

The wistful brown eyes of Basco, the questioning brown eyes of Takeetna, his Indian wife, who is a real heroine in her own right, and the puzzled brown and grey eyes in the big wolf-dog huskies that loll back in the straw almost sick with the heat, look out at you and seem to say:

"Will we ever get back to the big north again?"

Fullblooded Indians

When they arrived in Seattle, hungry for rabbit meat to which they are accustomed at home, they entered a restaurant but could not read the bill-of-fare. On a venture, Solomon pointed out a word which looked good. Finally it came—a salad, something they had never seen before. Solomon and Takeetna almost cried.

Both the slim brown youth and his little wife are full blooded Alaska Indians. While white men and half-breeds huddled round the stove in the far north village of Tanana when the call for help came from Nome, Solomon and Takeetna answered that call without a question.

She put on her snow shoes and facing the fifty degrees below zero weather, she walked 22 miles to where her husband was tending his trap lines.

Family Troubles Due To Hog In Man, Claim

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—"Not the tiger, nor the ape, but the hog in man is endangering family life nowadays," declared Dr. J. Howard Melish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in a Lenten address to business people here in the St. Stephens' Protestant Episcopal church. Money matters, he said, caused "much marital unhappiness." Every woman, he contended, should be financially independent and the husband should give the wife an allowance as the first step in this direction and the banks should require two signatures on every family check."

POLICE OF WORLD TO GATHER IN N. Y.

International Session With Chiefs From All Parts Scheduled May 11

NEW YORK, April 2.—The biennial session of the international police conference, which will be attended by representatives of law and order from every corner of the globe, is scheduled to open in this city on May 11. The object of the meeting of detective chiefs and police executives will be to devise new offensive methods against the onslaught of crime.

All American and Canadian chiefs, those from the towns as well as the cities, will engage in a discussion looking toward a method of stamping out the growing evil of motorized banditry. An effort will be made to find a method of combating this comparative new kind of crime. North American police chiefs will meet the most distinguished heads of the famous departments of other continents.

World Affair

The chiefs of the National South-American police departments, representatives from Europe, Asia and Australia as well as the heads of municipal and island organizations in Africa and the far-off islands of the South Seas are expected to participate in the conference.

The International Police Conference was inaugurated three years ago at the instigation of New York Police Commissioner Richard E. Ibright, the past and present president of the conference. The last session of the conference brought representatives from twenty-seven countries, and the realization of the need for international co-operation of police departments has prompted forty-four nations to make reservations for their delegates this year.

Susanville Is Proud Of Mayoress Gladys

SUSANVILLE, Calif., April 2.—Susanville is proud of its mayoress, Mrs. Gladys Spencer Burroughs, one of the few women on the Pacific coast to hold such a position. The feminine head of this county seat is a strong believer in municipal ownership of public utilities and favors the appointment of a city manager as a step in economical government. She is the mother of three children, two daughters in their teens and a married son. The mayoress is also admitted to practice and obtained her sheepskin in San Francisco.

DAUGHERTY WILL WRITE OWN BOOK

Former Attorney General To 'Startle' Political World With Story

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

WASHINGTON, April 2.— As none of his enemies seem inclined at this time to do so, Harry Daugherty is going to write a write a book himself. His plans have been no secret here in Washington. Harry Daugherty has been dying to "tell the world." He hoped to do so when he was called as a witness at the trial of Gaston B. Means in New York, but the judge, a heartless soul, said the story was irrelevant. He hoped to do so when summoned as a witness at the trial of "Tex" Rickard and "Jap" Mumma, at Trenton, but the government did not call him and he had to content himself with issuing a cryptic statement which hinted at many things but revealed nothing.

And so it is with the forthcoming book. Among Mr. Daugherty's advisers there are dark intimations of turning the spotlight on the most diabolical plot ever hatched in these here United States—not a plot aganist Harry Daugherty alone, but against the very foundations of the government.

Two-Fisted Fighter

The present day bitterness of the former attorney general knows no bounds. Harry Daugherty feels he has been wronged—wronged by men in high places. He feels he was thrown overboard as a sort of Jonah at a time when nothing had been proved against him. He feels he was sacrificed to the gods of thunder just as the sun was about to shine.

Daugherty always has been known as a two-fisted fighter. He fought to the last ditch to remain in the cabinet and did not quit until President Coolidge peremptorily called for his resignation. That call was a big surprise to the attorney general.

Pullman Porter Naps, Company Pays Loss

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 2.—If a Pullman porter sleeps while the passengers are asleep the company is responsible for all losses sustained by the passengers. This ruling was handed down in Common Pleas Court here by Judge Rowand when he sustained a verdict of $185 in favor of Hugh A. Marx.

Marx was a passenger on a sleeping car from Pittsburgh to Boston April 22, 1923. He awoke during the night and rang for the porter to get him additional blankets. He got no response. He then ascertained that the conductor and porter had gone to sleep after all the passengers had retired. When he awoke next morning he found his baggage was gone.

Fighting Priest Back To Replace De Valera

CASTLEREA, Ireland, April 2.—Father O'Flannagan, the Sinn Fein priest, has returned from two years in the United States to fight again the cause of the Irish republic. He said he had come to Ireland to take the place of De Valera in the likely event of his being arrested under the treason bill now being projected by the Free State government, which makes it an offense for De Valera to describe himself as "President of the Irish Republic."

TURKISH SOCIETY SPLIT ON CUSTOM

European, American Styles Percolate Into Old Eastern Ways

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2.—Turkish society continues to be about equally divided over the struggle between old and new social customs.

With the greater freedom that is now allowed Turkish women, all sorts of European and American customs are slowly percolating into the social life of the country, and the efforts of the "old brigade" to stem them have so far proved unavailing. Dancing is the latest amusement which is causing discussion.

College Scandal

The Constantinople courts are at present occupied with a case arising out of a college party at which, it was alleged, some visiting Hungarian students danced with the Turkish lady students. One of the newspapers reported it, whereupon the director of the college issued a denial. He now explains that he considered it was his duty to issue such a denial.

Meanwhile, despite this official timidity about the legitimacy of dancing, the highest Turkish functionaries and their wives continue to dance regularly at the Foreign Embassy parties.

Policeman Resigns To Study For Ministry

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 2.—The police force here is acknowledged training ground for the ministry. Hubert H. Abels, police-lieutenant, has resigned to enter the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church. While attending Ohio Wesleyan college a few years ago, Abels in addition to earning fame on the gridiron, studied for the ministry and was considered an excellent divinity student.

Returning here after graduating, he was arrested for an alleged traffic-law violation, and when he appeared in court he asked for a job on the police force. He got the job, made a splendid record and recently was promoted to a lieutenancy. Meanwhile he accumulated some money, and now he's shaking the blue uniform and bright badge to go to Garrett Theological seminary of Northwestern university, at Evanston, Ill., to complete his education.

Broken Neck Fails To Discourage Gardener

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., April 2.—A broken neck is of little concern to John Harrington, of Eastney, who, although at present in Portsmouth hospital, hopes soon to return to his work as a gardener. He was admitted to the hospital five months ago, and since that time his head and neck have been held in place with tight bandages.

Now that frocks are short again shoes are more noticeable and more important than ever. But so many charming new shoes are offered for your selection that you are certain to enjoy your shoe shopping more than ever before.

For the daytime and for street wear, the trimly tailored pump walks the smartest paths of fashion. Sometimes it is quite unadorned but just as often the flash and gleam of a cut steel buckle lends a charming finish to a well-shod foot. Patent or dull leather are equally good.

For the Afternoon

In the afternoon slippers become more elaborate both in color and design. Many charming models are intricate with unusual strappings and sometimes agleam with buckles. Blonde kid or blonde satin slippers will be seen with many a charming afternoon costume. Lizard and aligator are still smart but they are most popular when combined with plain kid. However, if the gown is rather elaborate the slipper is simpler—frequently a high heeled opera pump, for an elaborately strapped slipper with an elaborate frock gives a feeling of fussiness which is not of the mode of today.

On Warmer Days

With the delicate frocks of summertime, the pastel slipper is very smart. Frequently it harmonizes with the deepest tone found in the costume or it is very chic to have it match the felt hat.

In the evening the strappings on slippers become more elaborate than ever. Some slippers show the sandal cut which goes right to the sole and shows a very broad expanse of the foot. However here again the opera pump is also very smart if you prefer it.

Gold and silver brocaded slippers are always good. But even newer are dyed satin slippers. These slippers are dyed to match the deepest tone in the dress or if the dress is all one color they are dyed a deeper shade. Such as with a lilac dress, a slipper on the same tone but almost purple. This accent of color gives a perfectly charming effect on the dance floor.

Nude Hose

Of course the most popular shade of hosiery is nude. Nude hose always with colored slippers, in either the afternoon or evening. For more tailored wear the smart woman chooses a slightly darker tone.

Slayer Lights Way to Bullet Sent In Victim

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 2.—As Russel Hager, 19, of Farmington, lay on a slab in an undertaking establishment near his home this morning during a post-mortem examination, Frank Rogers, 42, proprietor of a nearby roadhouse, who, detectives say, fired the shot which killed Hager, held a flashlight while a physician probed for the bullet.

Rogers, according to detectives, fired at William Savage last night during an altercation near the roadhouse of the former at Farmington and the bullet struck young Hager. Rogers surrendered.

Son Beats His Mother When Told to Get Job

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Enraged because his mother ordered him to get a job, Philip Mangerena, 18-year-old "sheik," attacked his mother, Mrs. Frances Mangerena, and beat her with his fists until she crumpled to the floor. The woman, her face an ugly mass of cuts and bruises, was treated at the emergency hospital where, between sobs, she told her son had beaten her. Mrs. Mangerena refused to have the boy arrested. He fled from his home following the attack and has not been seen since.

Niagara to Be Turned On, Off Expert Claims

FLINT, Mich., April 2.—The day may come when Niagara Falls will be turned off week days and turned on for display purposes Sundays and holidays, the Michigan engineering society was told yesterday by Clarence W. Hubbie, Detroit engineer. Utilization of power in the United States may reach a point, he said where every drop of water going over the falls may be used.

SALE ON COTTON

SHREVEPORT, April 2.—The twelve stated co-operative marketing associations, composing the American Cotton Growers' exchange last year handled 1,000,000 bales of cotton, as compared to 600,000 bales handled two years ago. An amount of cotton was sold to Japan through farm associations.

Touring Car Wrecked, Pinned Between Trains

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—A touring car believed to have been stolen was demolished at the Nixon street and Port Royal avenue crossing of the Philadelphia and Reading, when it was pinned between two freight engines. After the collision police searched to see if any one was pinned beneath the debris, but could find no one. The accident occurred a little below the scene of another accident.

'Notice to Vacate' Is Surprise to Students

LEWISTON, Me., April 2.—Students at Bates college were thrown into a near panic when a large sign was posted in Roger Williams hall reading: "Lost Our Lease; Must Vacate at Once." An investigation revealed that one of the students had taken the sign from a downtown store and placed it in the building as a college prank.

Rooming House Keeper Shot; Boarder Is Held

MILWAUKEE, April 2.—Mrs. Mary Grabow is being held by the police in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Alma Boyd at the Boyd home, where she was a roomer. A man whom the police say Mrs. Grabow brought to the house, and seriously wounded Mrs. Boyd, is being sought.

LATEST HEADGEAR IN SPECKLED BRIM

Imported From London, Has Rainbow Combinations, New Golf Brogues

By AILEEN LAMONT

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 2.— The "Speckled Band" was fickle when Conan Doyle wrote it, but the speckled hat is a reality. The latest sport head-covering imported from London is of straw, speckled in white and black, silver and rose, flame and oyster, tobacco and sky and other color combinations. It has a wide, shady brim which is flexible, a broad ribbon band striped in the colors of the straw, is waterproofed and soft enough to roll up in a dressing case.

Nowadays an old Roman golfer is known by his English brogues rather than by a Scotch or English accent. The newest golf shoes are of the brogue type with broad low heels and wide toes. They have no tongues, however, and are cut away between the eyelet holes through which the laces pass, to show the design of the golf stocking.

Golf hose this spring should be of diced designs to conform to the latest vogue. The woolen hose will be worn with sport costumes, even when the weather grows fairly warm since the new stockings go so attractively with the Scotch tweeds, cheviots and homespuns of which the skirts above them are constructed.

Watch for Watch

A full swing with a follow through while strapped to a damp forearm, never did an expensive wrist watch any good. So many women are adopting the golf watch which is carried loose in the pocket. This is about the size and shape of a small golf ball. It has a heavy silver case completely encasing the movement and so constructed that it cannot be damaged by contact with keys and change and maybe even dropped without damage.

The sweater has lost something in popularity this spring but it never will be entirely abandoned among sports women because of its utility if for no other reason. One of the latest models is a sleeveless cardigan jacket.

LOBSTERS AND MILK

YOU can order lobsters and milk at the same meal in a restaurant. The waiter will probably shrug his shoulders---but he'll serve them. His only responsibility is to cater to your tastes. But try to order them in a Sanitarium! Refusal! There they are concerned with the consequences!

It is this greater responsibility of after-satisfaction that this store must assume, and daily we face similar circumstances.

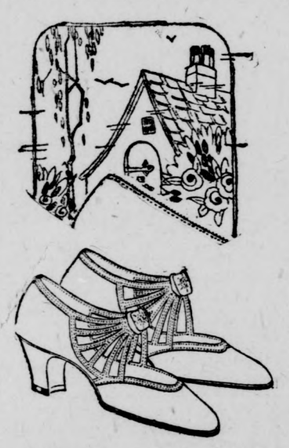
A light pair of Kangaroo skin dress shoes for a concrete mixer---Tennis shoes for the golfer---

Oxfords for ice skating---Our salesmen frankly protest their reluctance to make such sales, and all because our policy of absolute satisfaction is at work when you buy as well as after. The best way to assure satisfaction is to sell it.

THAT'S WHY WE KNOW OUR NEW SPRING FOOTWEAR WILL PLEASE YOU

For Men

A new line of oxfords in the most desirable leathers and conforming to the decided tan vogue of the season. Oxfords that will rate far above mere usefulness to extreme popularity.



Outstanding in the latest styles for women in Easter and early Spring wear, is the new Azure one-strap tan pump, finished in champagne colored kid, also the D'Arcy in two-tone kid.

Popular priced shoes from cradle to school days in novelty and staple patterns for the kiddies. Also half sox in a complete line of colors.

Dress up for Easter

WHEN some of us were young and before some others of us had left our downy clouds, Easter was the day on which we appeared at church resplendent in shining new shoes, a light coat no matter the weather, and, of course, our Easter bonnet.

This old tradition still rules the day and Easter is the greatest dress-up day of the year.

Costumes in which you may do justice to the occasion are here in a fine assortment, from a crushed felt hat, violets to perch on your shoulders, to a complete ensemble in a fashionable cashmere fabric.

Furniture Follows the Colorful Aspect of Spring

Comfort and color and that precious indefinable quality of hominess, these three combined produce the nearest to our ideal in home surroundings. Furniture, decoration, fabrics all contribute to this result, but unless the personal note is there, unless the place seems meant to be lived in, with an air of hospitality about it, one is someway repelled and the final and most desirable effect is lost.

Whether the home be tiny, or wide and spacious, it can be made most inviting by studying its possibilities and deliberately setting about to make it useable, hospitable and comfortable.

In a tiny house, the most common mistake is "clutter," too many things all elbowing each other and giving the visitor a crowded and stuffy feeling. In the large home, a sense of bareness has to be overcome, and this is by no means an easy task, because the mere addition of things will not accomplish the desired result. The large house has to be especially careful about avoiding the correct, rigid and severe look of a specimen room in a department store.

One goodly sized room, remodeled from an old farm house, successfully avoided this latter bad effect, and impressed every visitor with its charm and comfort as well as its really homelike atmosphere.

Real Centers of Interest

In both living and dining rooms, wide fireplaces, simple in construction, were found, plainly meant to be used. On winter evenings these would certainly prove centers of interest.

Someway the living room with its deep luxurious couch, its paneled walls, its shaded lamps, and glints of polished brass, suggested snug and cozy winter evenings. While the dining room, for all its wide fireplace, suggested mainly summer days, warm and fragrant without, cool and fragrant within.

A creamy white tile floor undoubtedly was partly to blame, if blame there be, for the summer impression. White enamelled, shell topped corner cabinets stood open in opposite corners, offering their treasures of silver and glass to all. Light pongee drapes continued the cream tints of the floor. And the walls carried over their surface the gayest of springlike landscapes.

Colonial, Chippendale and modern American furniture all hobnobbed cheerfully and harmoniously together in this unusual room.

Effective Good Taste

The living room, too, showed how effectively good taste may be used to unify different periods and types of furniture. Theoretically, a decorator would instantly question the combination of a carved Italian chair, an 1860 red plush sofa with modern heavily cushioned, overstuffed pieces. But as in all other things "you never know what you can do until you try." And this room tried—the effect liked—use it. In addition an elaborately carved flat-topped desk of Louis XV period filled a corner, and was distinctly useful as well.

To go from this spacious home to a modern apartment is a jump indeed. The living room in most cases is the largest room, but at that it may be small, and needs the most careful study to acquire a feeling of space.

This can be done, however, and a simple and yet pleasing effect be produced. A plain paper and an unpatterned rug are to be recommended. Painted furniture with insets of cane and cushioned seats attractively furnished one room. Two or three decorative small tables in walnut were disposed about, where they would serve to care for lamps. One of these stood by a large deep "comfy" chair with a gay cover of printed linen. Prints, softly colored and beautifully framed, completed the charm of this little room.

An Italian room achieved an unusual effect in a comparatively small space. When one thinks of the massiveness of Italian pieces, one instantly visualizes high ceilings, rough cast walls and wrought iron fixtures. This room had all these but the high ceilings and yet this room did not look crowded. A gay hanging of patterned red velvet hung above a long Italian table at one end of the room. A huge sofa faced the fireplace, with beautiful torcheres standing guard either side. One or two carved chairs were added and an old painting and the room was complete.

Breakfast Nooks Gay

Dining rooms are usually somewhat formal and restrained, while breakfast nooks, or dining porches may go the limit in gay color and bizaar effects.

Lest the dining be too formal and seem to exert a repression one room took on a light tone and painted its paneled walls in ivory. Open shelves for china have been spoken of before. This room placed its open shelves over the fireplace and then against the soft cream background, it displayed a quaint collection of old china. A summery green tone was repeated in the room, in the chair seats and in the green and amber glass used on the sideboard. Georgian pieces in walnut supplied the furniture and heavy linen hangings with rose and black hung at the windows.

Finished in Dull Maple

A more cozy and informal dining room selected dull finished maple for its set, to be placed against the gayest of red chintz-patterned wall-papers. The chairs were of Windsor type and were quite in keeping with the small rag rugs on the floors. Either side the small black marble fireplace stood small desks, with gay bits of pottery on them. An open dresser with shelves for china stood on one wall, opposite a painted glass cabinet hung on the other wall. Plain red curtains of sateen edged with black accented the windows.

An equally gay room designed for the breakfast nook for a rather large family used a strong note of vivid blue. The walls were paneled and painted blue with a tiny line of rose. Striped hangings carried the rose and blue in their colors with tan. The upper walls held fine floral panels, each framed in blue. Against this stood an interesting dining set—Gothic in design with high backed chairs, a long table, and sideboard, cabinet and serving table to match. Bits of blue glass on the table repeated the dominant color.

Another room, serving in the food capacity, was a dining porch on a black and grey floor. The wood about the windows was painted the softest of Chinese reds.

Each window effectively framed its white drapes of large red polka dots bordered in black. These curtains were stretched tight to the sash and the center pane of each had its pair tied back. Natural reed furniture, with accents of black in its chairs, tables, and cunning love seats fitted with the gay woodwork.

Variety in Bed Rooms

Bed rooms present many contrasts—each room reflecting the tastes and habits of its owner. One started with prints of the Louis XV period (I am sure the prints were bought first to furnish inspiration and color effects). Painted furniture in ivory with decorations of green supplied beds and dressers, and a chaise longue as well. Besides the usual lamp, this last piece offered further cozy suggestions by standing a tea table along side with a small tea service in delicate china thereon.

Mulberry and green taffeta was used for drapes and spreads in this room, whose walls were patterned largely with grey classic ruins. Glass was introduced in the dresser sets, and as bases for two handsome lamps on the vanity case. Amber fluted shades completed these.

A further instance of buying prints, and furnishing a room in keeping may be noticed in an 1860 room. Quaint women of the days of "Godey's Ladies' Book" smiled delicately from these prints at the flounced room in which they found themselves. Rose taffeta spreads edged with pleatings covered the beds and rose further draped the windows. A divan with a rose tapestry covering stood at one window. Walnut furniture of an 1860 flavor—really modernized, so as to lose some of the ugly features of that period, appropriately occupied this room.

In all the color, wood and fabric suggestions herein offered be sure you add hominess and your room will be sure to be successful.

PASTEL SHADES TO FAVOR SUMMER

Ensemble Suit So Popular Its Sway Has Extended To Realm Of Sports

It is going to be a pastel summer! And the loveliest shades you ever dreamed of are leading the mode to a more utterly becoming beauty than ever before. Soft shades of peach are most popular while lilac or lavender, pale green, blue, light yellow—in fact, all the most exquisite pastel shades form a close second. White has passed its zenith of popularity and if one does not wish to wear the pastel shades a lovely fone of ivory or an oyster white is very smart.

For Cooler Days

For early spring sports wear and for cooler days of summer kasha in soft pastel tones is very popular and natural kasha seems to have taken the smart world by storm. These kasha frocks are newest in the two piece models. The skirts are newest in the two piece models. The skirts are fuller than before allowing much more grace and comfort of motion. Many of them have an inverted pleat in the middle or side front for, though this year's skirts are fuller, the lines, especially of sport frocks, are straight. Some of these skirts are entirely pleated while others have a circular fullness just across the front.

The blouse is generally a simple straight little slip on with a "V" neck.

But though the two piece costume reigns as favorite, some smartly simple kasha frocks are one piece. These one piece frocks, for variation's sake, are frequently seen made with a lighter shade of kasha from the neck to the hipline, and a slightly darker shade from the hipline to the bottom of the frock. Many perfectly charming combinations are seen, some of the loveliest of which have oyster white or natural kasha combined with an exquisite pastel shade.

The Ensemble

The ensemble costume is so popular now that as might be expected its sway has extended to the world of sports. The ensemble suit of kasha is the very smartest and it is also very practical for the coat can frequently be used with all one's other sport's things.

The chic of flannel must not be overlooked in this rage for kasha, as many a smart flannel sports frock will be seen at all the most fashionable summering places.

The Sports Coat

Of course, with kasha as the leading fabric, many of the sports coats are developed in it. They are designed on very straight slender lines with narrow shoulders. Many are unlined and have a very simple treatment of the neck and wrist line—usually without fur trimming. Some very smart models of these most useful coats are knitted and embroidered in bright wools.

The woman who goes in for active sports always needs a sweater and skirt in her wardrobe. And the smartest designers have not neglected her needs. Natural kasha or cashmere fashions many a simple skirt ideal for the most strenuous of sports. Some of these skirts are pleated, others are straight of line with an inverted pleat in the front to allow easy motion. These skirts are also very popular in all the soft pastel tones of the season.

Quite the most popular sweater seen with these skirts is a simple round or "V" necked little slip on. These sweaters are newest with long sleeves. They are very attractive when they match the tone of the skirt or in a pastel shade as a contrast to a skirt of natural kasha.

Of course, for really hot weather, lovely cool looking crepe de chine will be the fabric. And how exquisite pastel tones are in crepe de chine. These crepe de chine frocks will be made in the same simple styles as those of kasha.

Adornments to Milady's Smartness

Pearls, pearls, pearls—the more we wear them the smarter they grow. Perhaps because their soft irridescent luster is so becoming—perhaps because their demure simplicity expresses the feeling of the mode of today better than any other jewel. But no longer is it necessary to be able to afford a king's ransom for one slender strand. For, so beautiful are many imitation pearls that they are worn by the smartest women.

The three strand necklace is unusually smart—especially for afternoon or evening wear. But for those to whom it is becoming, the choker necklace is a great favorite. A novelty with an evening dress which is cut rather low in the back is a choker necklace with a single strand of pearls hanging down the back like a Chinaman's queue.

Many a smart woman still winds a pearl necklace about her arm for a bracelet while others wear bracelets of fine strands of tiny pearls fastened with a single stone.

And of all rings, the large pearl is quite the best. Many a well dressed woman wears two of them on her little finger—one of a faint pinklike tone—the other a soft smoke grey.

Gold and Silver

And next in importance to the vogue of pearls is gold and silver. In fact, gold and silver is even more popular—for tailored wear. There are choker necklaces of filigree gold or silver. With these are worn the new gold and silver spiral bracelets.

It is small wonder that evening frocks are very simple for they are almost covered by the huge feather fans which are quite the most recent aids to chic. They are larger than ever before and most favored when the plumes are gracefully long and uncurled.

The New Gloves

The pull on glove with a carelessly wrinkled wrist is by all odds the newest and smartest. They have an insouciant unstudied effect which goes extremely well with the carefree mode of today, and they are equally smart with sports or more tailored attire.

A dainty little handkerchief which will complete the charm of many a summertime costume is shaped like flower petals and is seen in countless gay and gaudy colors. But the handkerchief usually chosen to accompany the smartest frocks, especially in the evening, is of linen unbelievably sheer and fine with the smallest of hand rolled hems. The gay linen handkerchief is more in the realm of sports and tailored wear.

Purses Are Still Flat

The flat purse is still the newest purse. A very clever version is seen for tailored wear which is a flat leather purse on a tiny metal frame which is so cleverly jointed that it opens out into almost a complete circle, allowing easy access to the innumerable small articles a woman likes to carry.

However, nothing is quite as smart as the leather purse of soft lizard skin with your monogram in silver mounted in one corner.

For more elaborate occasions the flat silk purse sometimes in bright colors or gaily embroidered and others exquisitely trimmed with petit point. But, of course, the luxurious beauty of a softly beaded bag must never be forgotten for it never seems to go out of fashion—especially with the soft and graceful frocks of afternoon.

RADIO TO FIGURE IN DASH TO POLE

MacMillan Accompanied By Two Experts, 4 Machines To Send Messages

By ROBERT MACK
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Donald B. MacMillan is going into the Arctic this summer, confidently expecting to flash back to the English-speaking world the first voice from the polar regions.

If all goes well with the expedition, the story that MacMillan will tell through the air will be either a denial of the verification of the reported existence in Labrador of the remains of a village that was settled by the Vikings four hundred years before Columbus crossed the Atlantic.

And finally, if all goes well with the wireless transmission of the MacMillan voice his story will be heard, probably not by listeners in the United States, but by the radio operator aboard an American battleship off Australia, exactly on the opposite side of the globe from the Cruiser Bowdoin, which will flash the message.

These hopes were revealed here today by Commander MacMillan and Commander E. F. MacDonald, president of the National association of Broadcasters, who will accompany the explorer on his summer venture. The two men base their expectations on the powers and the peculiarities of a 20 meter wave length.

A short wave transmitter of this frequency will be one of four wireless outfits that the Bowdoin will carry, the others being designed to operate on forty, eighty and one hundred and eighty meters. The "twenty" however, is the one that is expected to turn the trick not only of sending the first voice from the Arctic but also of transmitting the first code message ever dispatched from the region that lies between 55 and 78.20 degrees north latitude.

College Girl Nighties Pave Way To Pajamas

WELLESLEY, Mass., April 2.—Gone are the days of the college girl's little "nightie." From the prosaic confines of a laundry which caters almost exclusively to Wellesley college students comes the information that the old-fashioned, yet highly respected, "nightie" has fallen into disfavor among college girls.

Here's the word of the laundry proprietor: "Only six nightgowns appeared in this week's wash from Wellesley. That's from a total of 300 customers. Flimsy pajamas are in vogue all right. I can remember ten or fifteen years back—that was before the bob, or teddies, or step-ins—when we used to get 200 nightgowns a week.

Tower Of Pisa Leans Too Far, Report Says

ROME, April 2.—The leaning tower of Pisa, famous for nearly eight centuries as one of Italy's most noteworthy monuments, is in danger of leaning too far and falling to the ground.

Begun in 1174, and towering to a height of 179 feet, the tower has attracted visitors from all parts of the world, but it seems that an hitherto unknown stream of water in its immediate vicinity is undermining it, and that its list has increased by twelve feet within the last century.

GAY NOTES rule haberdashery

Once more color will be rampant in men's haberdashery. Once more the brighter shades of the rainbow will prevail. Once more will the gayer colors that were dominant last year be foremost in this season's presentation of furnishings.

Particularly is this true of Neckwear. In fact it is almost arbitrary, for the somber tones of other years will be shown in only small selections.

While floral effects are still in good taste, the designs will run more to the diagonal stripes. This is largely in keeping with the prevalence of stripes that will be shown in men's clothes. Of course there will be some conventional designs of block effects, cubist treatments and small geometrical motifs.

Featuring the materials will be the moires, which will not be cut as fully as in other years, but ample in both knot and ends. Grenadines, too, will have quite a calling; so will the crinkly crepes and the almost permanent silks and wool mixtures. As the season advances into the good old summertime foulards will come strongly to the front.

Knit Ties Back in Favor

Knit ties, which at one time threatened to lose much of their popularity, will probably get a new lease on life, due largely to the fact that the makers, (realizing that colorful neckwear will be the vogue), have put plenty of splash and dash into them. Involved mixtures and bold bias stripings will be shown extensively.

One of the most decided changes of several seasons will be shown in shirts. The new soft shirt with two separate collars to match probably will win much favor. These will be shown largely in solid tones of blues, grays, browns and even pinks. There will, of course, be some striped and figured effects.

Two Collars With Shirts

The pleated bosom hard cuffs and starched collars—that rare combination in shirts—also will be given another test. Last season such shirts were given a trial and went over fairly well. The sale of this apparel was hindered largely by the fact that in most instances only one collar was supplied to the buyer, while this year there will be two.

In collar-attached shirts plain colors and some figure effects will be shown this season. White shirts will have quite a following, since almost any kind of a tie may be worn with them. Pattern effects in madras and broadcloths will be good.

The riot of color even goes to the hosiery that will be worn this season. This in a measure is largely due to the fact that the British Isles and France are sending across all the combinations that may be found.

Everything to delight the man who runs to color and patterns will be shown, among them checks, plaids, stripes, figures and clocks. Lisles and silks of course, will lead the procession, but worsteds and softer fabrics, particularly in the early spring, will follow closely.

Sweaters Match Hosiery

Especially in golf hose does color run rampant—not the dyes, but the tones, we mean. In fact color in these have come out so strong that the makers are matching both sweaters and hose—and the combination is taking like the proverbial hotcakes. Wools, worsteds, camel's hair and brushed-up textures will prevail.

In gloves the lighter shades will be worn. Bucks, chamois, and mochas will give the capes a battle for supremacy. The buttonless glove, very much like the short gauntlet glove worn by milady, will come out stronger than ever.

Handkerchiefs, too, have caught the color appeal. There will be colored corded borders, colored initials and colored centers.

Middy Styles in Pajamas

For early spring short legs and sleeveless underwear of fine cotton will be worn. In pajamas the middy styles will get more attention.

Silk belts in the hatband colors and patterns probably will win greater favor than a year ago when they were first introduced. Leathers, however, will be commonly worn with ornamental buckles. The new beltogram also is gaining in favor.

Suspender manufacturers report an increase in their sales, this being due largely to the fact that the new "balloon" trousers need these trappings to hold them in place properly.

AUTO PRODUCTION

DETROIT, April 2.—The motor industry enters the second quarter with an amazingly changed outlook from that which appeared at the first of the year. Five factories—Ford, Dodge, Hudson, Chevrolet and Overland—are turning out more than one thousand cars a day. Export as well as domestic orders are pouring in.

STOCK TO ISLAND

FORT WORTH, April 2.—J. E. Boogscott, former head of the Texas Livestock Sanitary commission, commissioned recently by the republic of Haiti to establish a government experimental station, has sailed for the island with a ship-load of choice Texas hogs, cattle, sheep and horses.

OIL WELL NEWS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—New oil well operations last week show thirty-six wells started as compared with twenty-four the week before but drilling activities for the year to date are considerably behind last year's. The total started up to March 27 this year is 261, compared with 355 last year.

Since 1918 more than 28,000,000 new savings accounts have been opened in the United States, and the aggregate amount of savings has nearly doubled.

BEAUTY SALON IS OPEN TO PUBLIC

Mrs. Carrie Salisbury, Well Known In Glendale, To Conduct New Shop

A glittering amethyst in chased gold setting typifies the charm of the Lexington Beauty Salon, 339 North Brand boulevard, opened today by Mrs. Carrie Salisbury, whose past successes in Glendale in the beauty culture business furnish an interesting background for this, Glendale's newest and most artistic beauty shop.

Vying with its neighbor the Van Grove Music salon in striking and beautiful finishing and furnishings, the Lexington Beauty Salon is destined to reign supreme in its attraction for misses and matrons desiring expert service in all lines of beauty culture. Enhancing this service is the wonderfully effective setting Mrs. Salisbury has provided in elaborate furnishings and splendid modern equipment.

Entering the shop one finds herself in a reception room that may well be compared to the glittering amethyst. Heavy amethyst plush hangings on wrought-iron fixtures fall gracefully from windows and arched doorway, giving colorful touches against the gold tiffany walls. Black mohair overstuffed furniture, odd tapestried chairs, Persian runners on the floor, specially designed wrought-iron and amber-shaded glass chandelier, mahogany manicure table with lavender fixtures and Windsor chairs, all combine in the pleasing setting. On either side of the arched doorway leading into the room beyond, are grated windows, behind which brilliant, wooden parrots swing contentedly.

Soft Water Plant

A wonderfully well ventilated room has been arranged in commodious booths for the various lines of work so necessary for milady's beautification. Gray is the dominant color in the woodwork, while friar's cloth curtains are used on the doorways. One sees two splendidly equipped rooms for facial work; four for marcelling; and a larger room for shampooing and drying.

In opening the salon, Mrs. Salisbury is most happy to announce to Glendale women that she has installed a soft water plant, furnishing quantities of soft water, so desirable in proper shampooing and caring for the hair. In the shampoo room other features are an electric dryer and also a sun ray electric dryer. Glendale women acquainted with Mrs. Salisbury's work will be happy to learn that she is to give the radium packs, so popular and satisfactory. She has installed a complete line of Princess toilet preparations.

Associated with Mrs. Salisbury will be Miss Ware, specialist in Swedish facial work, and Misses Smith and Hodges, all graduate operators. Bobbing and manicuring will also be given special attention along with other phases of beauty culture.

Plan Reception

An interesting spot in the salon is the rest room, furnished in gold and black wicker, where patrons and others may find a place of quiet.

The salon opened this afternoon and will be open tonight, when Mrs. Salisbury and her associates will receive all those interested in visiting the new shop.

In connection with Mrs. Salisbury's departments, Lucia K. Hicks and Aletha McCormick, R. N., have modernly equipped rooms for special scalp cleansing and rejuvenating methods. They give electric cabinet baths, oil rubs and body massage.

NEW PACKING HOUSE

FULLERTON, April 2.—Excavation work has been started on the new $17,000 packing house to be built by the Santa Fe Land Improvement Co., for the American Fruit Growers association on South Spadra road in this city. The proposed building is to be of brick and concrete and will adjoin the present frame headquarters of the association. Most modern equipment for handling of fruits and vegetables will be provided.

$2,000,000 FOR WATER

ORANGE, April 2.—With the city confronted by a water crisis foreshadowed by startling revelations that the levels at the city wells has been gradually dropping making imminent the abandonment of one well during the summer, the special water committee appointed by the city council has taken action toward the development of a future water source involving as a first unit a $2,000,000 program capable of ultimately supplying Orangé with domestic water for a 30,000 population. An option has been closed on a three and a half acre water site on the Santa Ana river. Two wells will be drilled there, each producing between 250 and 300 miners' inches of water. The program also includes purchase of a reservoir site at Olive where, for the present, a 6,000,000-gallon reservoir will be erected.

OIL WORKER SCALDED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 2.—Joseph Cleary, 48, local man, was seriously burned when a boiler he was tending at a Union Oil Co. oil well exploded. His head and neck were severely scalded. He was saved from serious body and chest burns by a leather jumper.

MEANEST THIEF

SANTA ANA, April 2.—More than $100 contained in small envelopes and representing the weekly offering of the congregation of the First Methodist church of Orange was stolen from the pastor's study at the church shortly after the collection was taken, according to a report on file in the sheriff's office here.

AUTOS SWEPT AWAY

SANTA BARBARA, April 2.—Santa Barbara is believed to have established a new record for storm freaks during a recent downpour. On Anacapa street two automobiles parked next the curb were caught in the rush of water that scurried down the street. When the mist was cleared away the two cars were moved down the street toward the beach a considerable distance.

SURPRISE AT TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—A surprise was sprung here in the Quadra rum trial before Federal Judge A. Partridge when the defense put on the stand Henry Williams, Los Angeles oil operator, who testified that the telegram which the prosecution claimed linked Charles Belenger, Los Angeles, and Vincent Quartararo, of this city, defendants, with the Quadra rum ring, was in reality a message regarding an oil deal.

Williams said that the telegram was sent by himself and declared it was written in guarded fashion to protect the deal in which he was interested.

HEADS RELIEF WORK

ERIVAN, Russian Armenia, April 2.—Joseph W. Beach, a graduate of Yale class of 1911, has been appointed director of Near East relief in Armenia. He comes from Bangor, Maine, and has been engaged in relief work in Turkey and Syria for the past two years. All American relief work in Armenia, Persia and the Georgian Republic will be consolidated under his direction, including that of the "orphan city" at Alexandropol where more than 11,000 children are being trained.

As far as shape is concerned there will be little difference in the styles of the hats that men will wear this spring and those worn last fall. But the most radical change will be in the bands that go around the hats.

Some manufacturers have introduced the fancy band, braids similar to those worn around the straw hats. The colors, however, will not be pronounced but there will be a fine stripe or two running through the bands—just enough color to make the man's hat a noticeable part of his ensemble.

As stated shapes in many instances are like those of last fall, but there is a considerable group which shows a decided swing and curl to the brim.

Fedora Shape Always Good

Fedora and Alpine shapes, in good taste for many years, will prevail once more. But there is a growing demand for the diamond and dented-in shapes by the younger fellows. The tipped-down fronts, too, will be worn more than ever. As will be noted there is quite a variety as far as shapes go.

A group of hat makers attempted to put over the green hat, but the success of this venture wasn't as marked as the sale of the book called "The Green Hat." A second effort will be made this spring, but the retailer's forecast doesn't speak any too hopefully.

Light colors, of course, will be the vogue. Among them pearl grays promise to give every other shade the battle for popularity. Then there will be tans and a few lavenders to match the suits of the same tone.

Sailor Straws Continue

For summer wear the light weight straw wins in the long run. It has been the old standby for many years and promises to hold its popularity for years, unless something novel and striking displaces.

Whites, light browns and tans will be shown and worn largely. In recent years there has been introduced many weaves of straws and most of them have had followers. They probably will all appear when straw-hat day is announced.

Black bands, of course, will be worn with most of these straws, but it is predicted that the color bands to go with the general color scheme of dress will make great inroad. Most of these will show one or two fine colored stripes.

Old Standbys Remain

The old timers, panamas and leghorns, will carry off the honors among the older men who are wedded to their comfort and there is a certain following among the younger fellows who will follow step.

The derby, which at one time was the spring and fall hat, probably will gain no more converts than it did a year ago. In caps light, rich, distinctive over-all patterns will be shown.

GLENDALE STORE GIVEN PUBLICITY

Dilley-Brough Establishment Made Basis Of Article In Magazine

That Glendale has in the Dilley-Brough furniture store at 314 East Broadway, a business institution of which any city might well be proud, is the sentiment expressed in an illustrated article in the March issue of "Furniture Age", the national magazine of the home furnishing trade, published in Chicago, Ill.

With the article are interior and exterior views of the attractive Glendale store, owned by Clark Dilley and H. W. Brough, experienced furniture men, who have found inspiring success in their three months of business activity in Glendale. The article, under the heading, "Auto Building up Suburban Stores," says:

Called Even Break

"They say it is about an even break, that the automobile pulls as many people from the big cities to the suburban stores as it takes from the suburbs to the big cities to trade. This is especially true in California, where the suburban stores carry fine merchandise and present an attractive appearance to passing motorists.

"The newest and one of the best suburban stores, recently opened, is that of the Dilley-Brough Co., of Glendale. This store has already secured many good customers from the City of the Angels. The day of the small town store with mail order furniture seems past. But the day of the small town store that can compete with the big city store in merchandise, prices, appearance and service, is just dawning as the many fine suburban furniture stores through California testify."

LUMBER SALES BIG

ST. PAUL, April 2.—Continued evidence of improvement from better farmer buying is seen throughout the northwest. Sales of farm implements have doubled, lumber sales are up 50 per cent over last year and bank deposits have increased $49,000,000.

LOS ANGELES

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—Bids will be asked soon on a twenty-one year franchise to operate an automatic passenger conveyor through a subway under the roadway of the Second street tunnel. Bids will be received by the council April 16. The city will receive the usual 2 per cent of the gross receipts.

Gordon P. Allen is in the county jail because of a habit of collecting speed tags from traffic cops throughout Southern California and then failing to report. Yesterday he was fined $100 for failing to report and $50 for speeding by Justice L. P. Russill. Then he was ordered held until other cities could be notified he is in custody. They include Calexico, Venice, Watts and other places.

Buck Arnold, 216-B East Fifth street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of curing corns without a state license. He denied that he was a doctor, but claimed to be merely a medicine salesman. The arrest was made by Special Agent Albert Carter of the state board of medical examiners. Arnold is at liberty under $100 bail.

Salary fines imposed by Chief of Police R. L. Heath on four members of the police department for alleged infraction of rules have been approved by the police commissioner.

Aircraft are shot from American battleships with "smokeless" powder guns.

SWEDEN WORRIED WITH WOLF PACKS

Animals On Warpath Cause Havoc In Herds Of Country's Deer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 2.—Wolves on the warpath, causing havoc among the reindeer herds, have penetrated farther south in Sweden this winter than ever before in this generation. They have been followed by packs of lynxes, also pursuing the reindeer of the nomadic Lapps and by solitary wolverines, gorging themselves on the carcasses left by the other beasts of prey.

Ordinarily the ravages of wolves are confined to the upper wastes of Lapland, north of the Arctic circle, or to the high mountain regions close to the Norwegian border, but this year there have been repeated killings in the adjoining province of Angermanland.

Since the reindeer constitute the sole means of support of the Lapps, the government offers substantial bounties, amounting to more than $50 for each wolf killed; and the Lapps themselves maintain, out of their common funds, professional wolf hunters, whose task it is to protect the herds.

This year, however, unfavorable snow conditions have made pursuit on skis difficult, and the wolves have broken through their line of quarantine across the country.

LONDON FLAVORS AMERICAN STYLE

Ideas Of Fashion Adopted By Both British and U. S. Very Much Alike

The style treaty that has existed between England and America evidences even a stronger bond of sympathy and acceptance this spring.

This is by no means to be taken as a submergence of our ideas to that of the English mandates but rather a following out of our own preferences because these styles have been found to make a strong appeal to the American taste. In other words we accept what we like and what we like, we like to the exclusion of all else.

Hence what you have become accustomed to know as the English type of modelling in both suits and topcoats is the sort of styles that the well-dressed man will be expected to wear for the coming spring.

"Over there" they have launched some new departures in their modelling that will, of course, influence the new phases over here. These changes are such that tend to add grace, character and dignity to the new modes—things that are in keeping with the ampler lines that are characteristic of these English styles.

Call for Wider Hip

For instance the new type of trousers calls for wider hips with a slight tapering from the hips to about a 17-inch bottom. So as to lose that abrupt wideness at the bottom that ofttimes tends to produce a dangling effect that throws the entire contour of trouser leg out of kilter.

To obviate that the spring trousers will show a considerably deeper cuff—not less than two inches, to give more weight at the bottom, to hold the trousers more firmly set to the instep and lend an appearance of more snug fit.

While these trousers are wide at the hip and from the hip down to the knee there is an absence of the "peg top" appearance that is usually associated with wide top trousers. As stated above there is a graceful, gradual tapering that has style and distinction and is far removed from any tendency toward "jazzing" the style.

Freak Styles Are Gone

"Jazz" styles are out. The "sheik" who goes in for this type of dress will be sorrowfully put to it to remain true to his type and still conform to the prevailing fashion of the season. He is either going to have to find a new niche of fashion in which to impress his own type of dressing or he is going to succumb to the preponderance of influence that these new English type suits have made upon the American gentlemen.

So, gentlemen, look for the almost straight-hanging trousers when to choose your spring suit—that is if you want to be truly and definitely in tune with the strictest mode.

For those men who want a more conservative compromise there will of course he slight variations of the style—a moderation of the real loose hanging trousers by more severely tapering the leg shape and giving more body-conforming lines to the coat.

The coats in these strictly English suits carry broad shoulders with a slight tapering at the waist. The sleeves are fairly ample in width and the chestiness of the coat while it is there is lost from notice by the straight down effect of the coat fronts.

There is more spread to the front of the collar which fits snugly in back and then flares out a bit to meet a fairly broad, blade-like lapel. This detail is particularly prominent in the double-breasted suits of which there will be many worn this spring—more than is usual in the spring season for the double-breasted suit has always been more seriously considered as a winter style.

Some Four-button Styles

Both two and three-button single breasted suits are in the vogue and in the more decided models even some four-button suits—a type we have not seen much of in the recent seasons. There is very little of pocket or cuff ornamentation in the mode. For the most part the pockets are of the in-set order or with the plain flap.

Cuffs are either severely plain or have a slight vent of the French cuff nature.

Single-Breasted Vests

Vests are for the most part singlebreasted, though many of the models for the younger men show doublebreasted effects. These vests are cut high and have only a slight V at the top and even slighter V at the bottom. The front modelling is of the straight-front order. The doublebreasted vests have almost a semi-circular bend from top to lower buttons. Many of them are doublebreasted.

Topcoats are of two models. The most fashionable in London just now is patterned after the Guard overcoats. That means very chesty, narrow shoulders, body-tracing at the waist and a decided flare to the skirt. These coats are just slightly below the knee in length. The other model is a Tubular coat.

This coat is a straight-hanging affair from armpits to bottom. It falls to the calf of the leg and is severely straight with but very little fullness to the skirt. These tubular topcoats are mostly single breasted, button-through models. A few are flyfront models. These, excepting that they are longer, are modelled very much along lines of the conservative Chesterfield.

Belted coats, even the back-belt styles, are sparcely shown and where shown at all are in the raincoat textures.

Fawn Shades Favored

There are two outstanding shades in the coloring of the spring suit fabrics. A fawn shade promises much advance popularity. In fact in many of the items of apparel for spring there is a strong flavor of fawn colorings. From these there will vary many tones of tan and the lighter brown shades.

The other big color note in spring fabrics is an Azure blue—a slight departure from the popular powder blues of last spring. These blues hover on the border of the gray tones and cadet effects. They lend themselves very splendidly to smart patternings and the combining with other contrasting tones.

Lavenders also are given some prominence in the finer fabrics—especially those that come from foreign looms. Blues with a purplish cast are also shown in the higher priced suitings.

The patterns for spring show an emphatic return to stripes. These stripes are not the hair-line effects of past seasons nor the broader chalkline stripes but a compromise between what can only be described as stripes of moderate degree. These stripes are on blue, brown or fawn grounds with contrasting stripes of red, purple, lavender, blue grey or green. Few black and white stripe combinations are shown.

Solid Tans in Tweeds

The other patterns run principally to neat mixtures and sedate overplaids. Few of the louder plaids and prominent checks are shown in the better lines. Many solid tans are shown in light tweeds.

By the way light tweeds are very popular fabrics for this season. Cassimeres take second position and after them the better grades of flannels. As the season advances toward mid-summer many gaberdines light weight coverts and palm beach cloths will be shown in the two-piece suits. It is during this period that the fawn trend will assert itself and probably a stronger revival of sport details in these mid-summer suits.

Of course in the early spring suits compromise is always made to the business suits worn by the more mature men. Such men are hard to ween away from the finer class of worsteds and serges. There is something about the subdued patterning and set durability of worsteds that makes the conservative dresser favor them. In deference to this class of buyers all the stores will show plenty of worsteds and serge weaves in the more conservative or business models.

Strange to say that Golf Suits which have long been characterized by sport details show a very pronounced absence of sport treatment in the new spring models. Even these golf suits are characteristically English with their straight-front coats, straight-hang trousers and absence of belts, pleats, yokes and other ornamentations.

This trend is largely due to the fact that so many men are buying the four-piece suits, wearing the knickers for golf and the long trousers for other occasions and on these other occasions they desire that the coat should have the real prevailing style features. Even in the pattern treatments the golf suits are becoming more quiet in tone—the more subdued patterns taking precedence over the larged plaids and bog checks of past seasons.
